LINDBERGH IS MISSING

VALBUENA AIR FIELD, MEXICO CITY, Dec. 14—(AP.)—Silence, almost approaching gloom, prevailed over the great crowd at Valbuena Air Field as the 25th hour of Col. Charles H. Lindbergh's 2,000 mile non-stop flight to Mexico City passed with Lindbergh's whereabouts since he left Texas territory unknown.

President Calles was ready to order airplane parties at any moment if necessary, meanwhile hopefully waiting the results of widespread inquiries by the Government Telegraph concerning the American Flier.

Reported Landed Earlier

THE ARRIVAL of a commercial plane at the Mexico City airfield, where 25,000 people were waiting to greet Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, caused news associations to send out erroneous bulletins that Lindbergh had landed. The reports were denied later.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Getting hold of one of the numerous false reports that Lindbergh had arrived in Mexico City, Representative Tilson, the Republican House leader, announced the arrival as a fact in the House today, and forthwith the House voted with enthusiasm to instruct Speaker Longworth to wire premature congratulations to the young flier.

DEPRESSION PERVADES

Although there was a feeling that alarm concerning Col. Lindbergh might not be justified, a wave of depression swept the vast crowd at the Valbuena field.

At this time slightly more than 24 hours had passed since the American aviator had taken off from Washington and no authentic report had been received of him as being anywhere over Mexican territory.

Prays for Lindy As House Opens

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The House session today was opened with a prayer for the safety of Charles A. Lindbergh. Rev. James Shera Montgomery, House chaplain, uttered the prayer as members stood with bowed heads.

President Calles indicated his apprehension, ordering the authorities everywhere in Mexico to seek information.

The flying colonel, leaving Washington at 12:29 yesterday, estimated his flying time to the capital of Mexico at 26 hours. As he headed south across the Potomac and continued to steer for the Rio Grande he seemed to have traveled at a speed close to his estimate.

The widely traveled airman has formed a habit of being on time, as shown by his transcontinental air visits, when he was within minutes of his schedule, even when the weather threatened to prevent the famous "We" from functioning.

MORE THAN HOUR LATE

Based on reports that Col. Lindbergh had passed over Tampico about 9 o'clock this morning, the Spirit of St. Louis was expected at Valbuena about 11:30 a. m., but an hour later had failed to arrive.

The uncertainty prompted President Calles to order all Mexican agencies to seek information of Col. Lindbergh, no authentic report of whom had been received from Mexican territory.

A commercial airplane from Tampico landed at the Valbuena field shortly before noon, causing officials to fear that previous telegraph reports of the sighting of Lindbergh may have been actual reports of the progress of this commercial plane in mistake for the Spirit of St. Louis.

Mexican scouting planes which reconnoitered in the vicinity of Mexico City in an effort to sight Col. Lindbergh, returned at noon, disappointed.

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 14.—A request that he be permitted to be "the executioner" of Mrs. Velma West, self-confessed slayer of her husband, Edward West, of Perry, O., was received today by Gov. Vic Donahey in a letter bearing the signature of "Floyd J. B. Kemerer, 121 Penn avenue, Mt. Oliver, Pittsburgh, Pa."

"Dear Governor:

"After reading the account of the cold-blooded murder of Edward West, of Perry, O., by his wife, who so cooly confessed so soon after her marriage vow, under oath to God: I am inspired to take the pleasure of writing you with an urgent request to be permitted to assist in the execution of the woman, or, if possible, would appreciate being the executioner.

"I realize quite well that good justice in these cases will help the public.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 14.

EVERY American and every community are encouraged by proofs of progress in the United States.

Major Horace Bell, editing The Porcupine here in 1881, wrote about Los Angeles' early history in his "Reminiscences of a Ranger," and thus describes the "Bella Union," principal Los Angeles hotel at the time of the Civil War.

"The Bella Union was a one-story flat roof adobe, with a corral in the rear. In the Bella Union corral extending to Los Angeles street were numerous pigeon holes, or rooms for guests, six by nine feet in size, six or seven feet high. Guests slept on the adobe floor in that institution advertised as 'the best hotel south of San Francisco.' If a very aristocratic guest came along, he was permitted to sleep on the little billiard table."

DOZENS of big hotels now dot Los Angeles, from the Ambassador, sitting in its own park, to the Biltmore in the business center. The Biltmore is building an addition to cost more than $4,-

CHARCE COUNTY DUPED

Allegheny county was duped and cheated by a contracting firm in the erection of rail guards on three county roads, according to testimony at Controller C. C. McGovern's audit hearing today.

Eighty per cent of 500 posts installed on the Buena Vista-Lovedale, Duncan avenue extension, and Thompson Run roads since October are not of the locust material specified in the contract, but of the cheaper poplar and chestnut, William McClurg Donley, consulting engineer for McGovern, charged. He produced chips from the posts to prove his assertions.

McGovern read into the record that the W. L. Evans Company had been the contractor and had been awarded the contract on October 4 for $47,448.60. According to Donley, the materials used cost about half as much as the specified locust.

Unless officers of the Westmoreland Country Club submit proof to the contrary by Monday, Controller McGovern announced he would surcharge the club $10,000 for work he says he has reason to believe was Pittsburgh is battling the highest flood waters that have menaced the city in the past two years. The stage at Point Bridge had reached near the 30-foot mark at 3 o'clock, five feet above flood level, and the weather bureau predicted that the swirling torrent might go to 31 feet by 6 o'clock. Hundreds of homes and business places in the low-lying districts of the North Side and along Duquesne way and Penn avenue on the Pittsburgh side were damaged when the waters backed up through sewers, inundating cellars and in many cases driving residents to the upper floors of their houses.

PA PITT WON'T LET MINERS WANT

Pittsburgh is going to take care of families of the striking coal miners. It is not going to let children go barefoot in winter. It is not going to let poor women suffer for lack of food and clothing. First of all at the Christmas season. That is the spirit that was manifested throughout the community today as preparations went forward to make Bundle Day next Tuesday the greatest demonstration of goodwill towards men that has ever been organized here on a week's notice.

Pittsburgh distinguished itself by its contributions on Bundle Days for the relief of the orphans in Armenia and Syria. There were not many cities that showed such generosity in their gifts of clothing. On that account there is every expectation that the response to the appeal for the miners' families will be all that is to be desired.

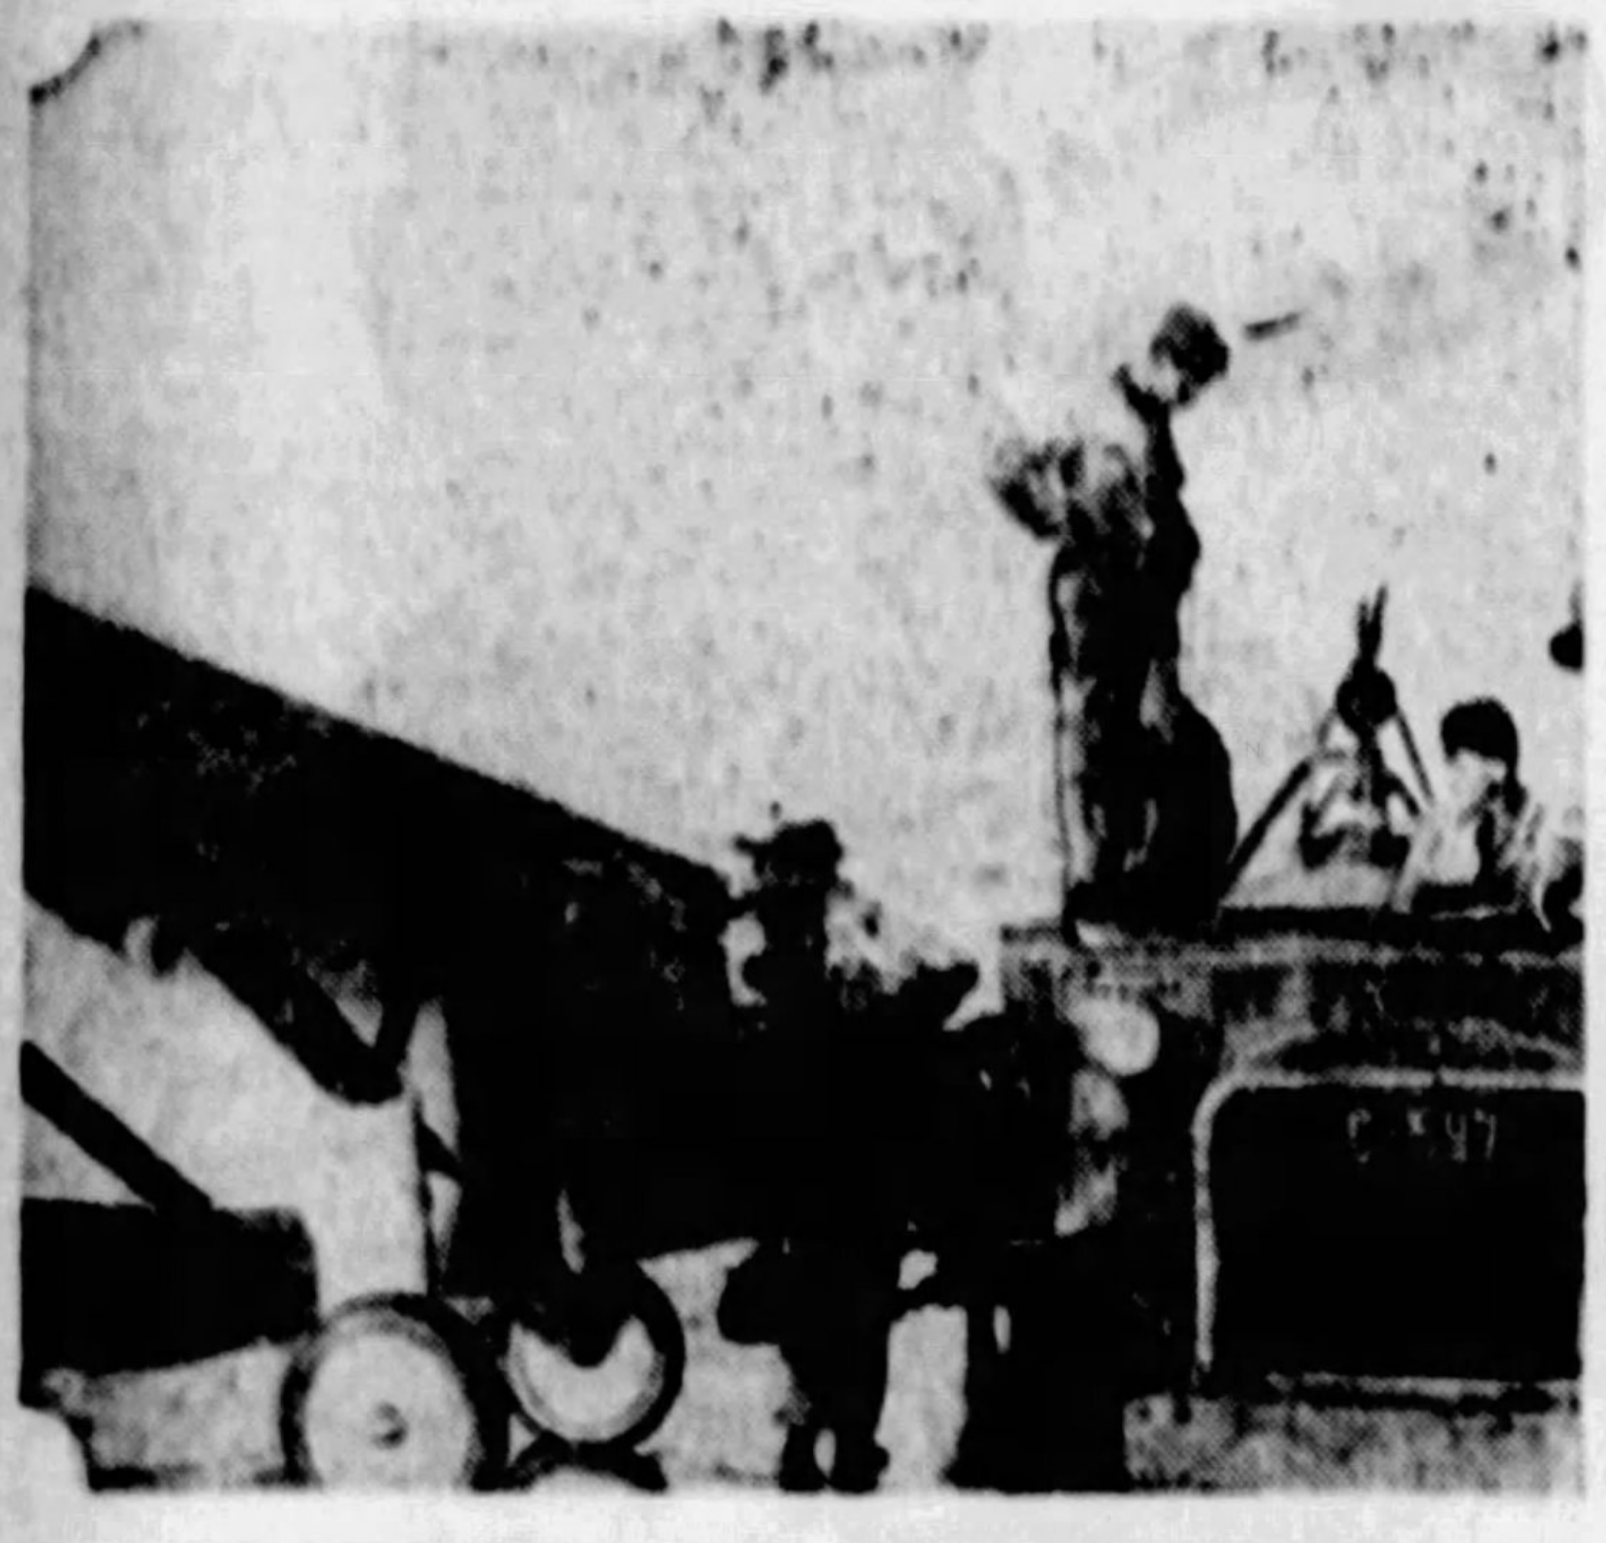
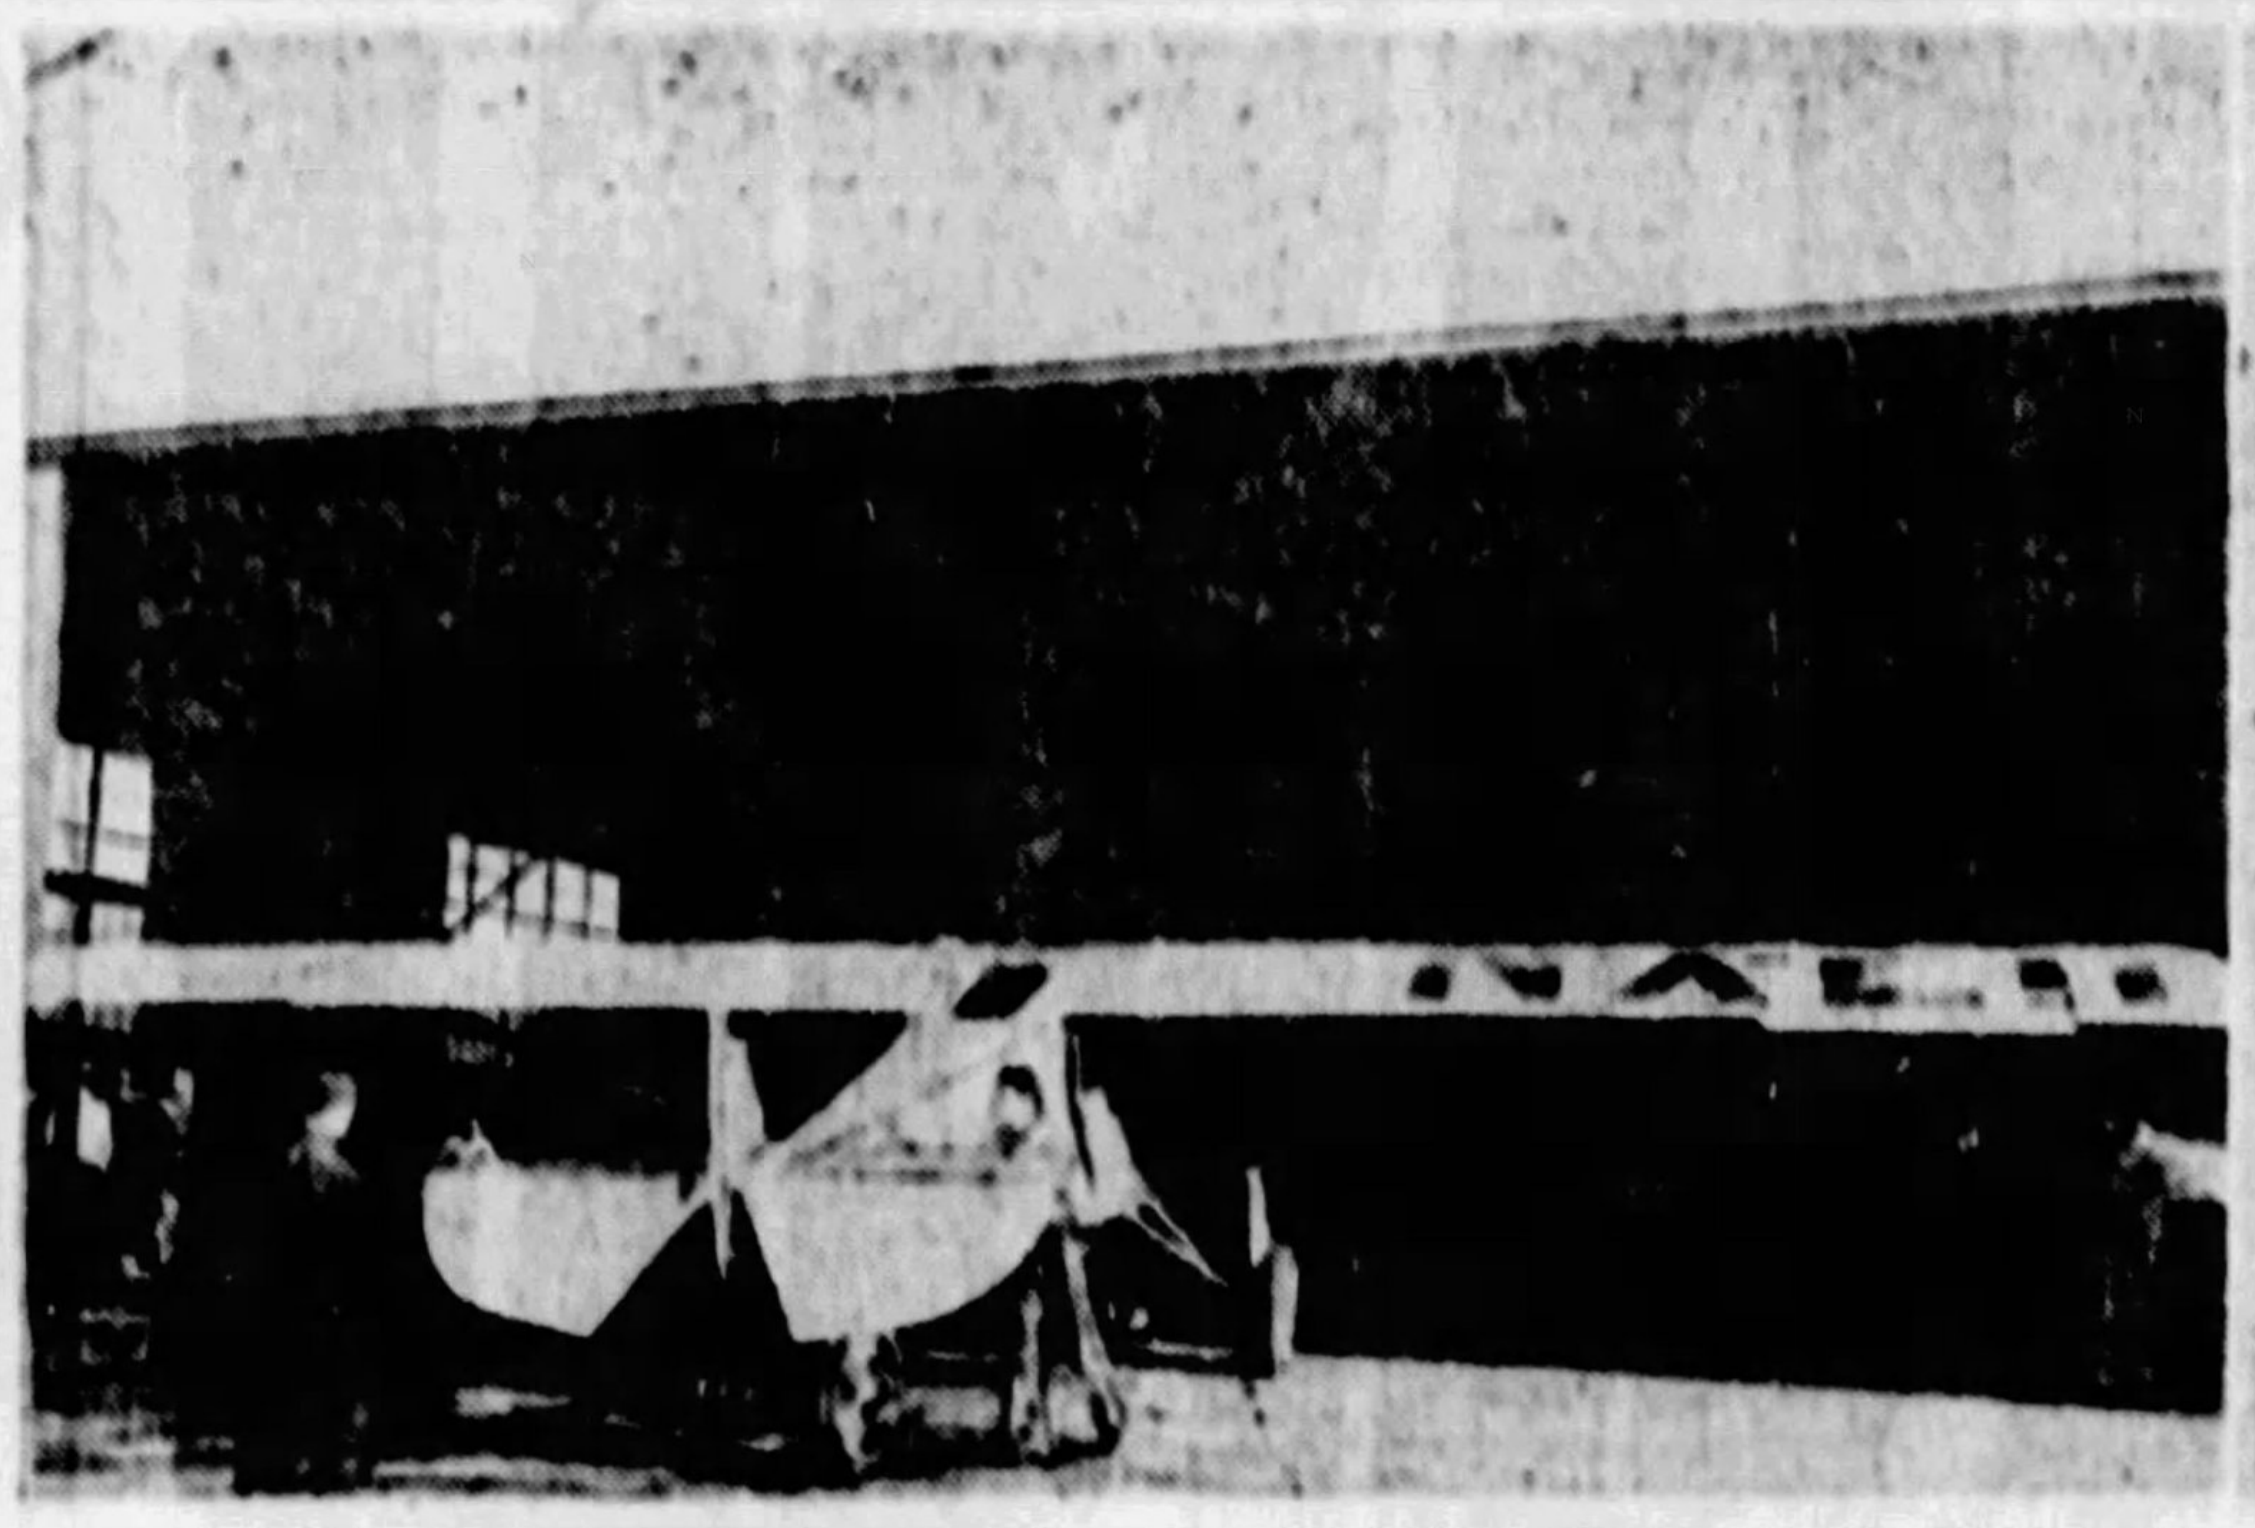
MEXICAN PL[illegible]ERS MAY COMB WIDE FIELD OF FOREIGN PLOTS

OUT OF THE WEST -:- LOCHINVAR OF AIR -:- RIDES TO FAME



SECOND HALF OF "WE" GROOMED
At Bolling Field, army mechanics fueled the history-making Ryan monoplane, Spirit of St. Louis, for Lindbergh's Washington-to-Mexico City flight.



SEEKING NEW AIRS TO CONQUER
Out of the hangar shortly before noon yesterday, they brought the big monoplane. Lindy, with same calm quiet, which marked the start of his trans-Atlantic flight, carefully supervised final tuning up and inspection of his plane.

GODSPEED FROM AIR FIELD CHIEF
At the side of his plane, Lindbergh paused for a moment to receive "Godspeed!" from Maj. H. S. Burwell, commander of Bolling Field.

THERE HE GOES!
Then into the cockpit, a door clanged, the blocks came from beneath the plane's wheel, the motor's wild hum and he's off!

BOY CONFESSES, CLEARS UP GANG MURDER

A boy bandit's conscience late last night caused him to bare the mystery in the murder last September 4 of Edward Flinn, 68, Homeopathic Hospital watchman, shot and stabbed during a holdup at Center avenue and Graham street.

Mike Ferraro, 16, an inmate of Thorn Hill School, Warrendale, told Detective Lieutenant David Corbett, homicide squad chief, that Flinn was fatally wounded when, in resisting robbery, he sought to wrest a gun from the hand of Lloyd (Shimp) Moore, 18, now an inmate of Morganza Reformatory.

Ferraro's confession involved also Henry Costello, 18, of 646 Chianti street, who, it is alleged, drove a dagger into the breast of the aged man, already mortally wounded. Costello, arrested in a Larimer avenue pool room, talked freely of the crime, and admitted that if Flinn was stabbed as well as shot, "I probably did it."

IMPLICATES FOURTH

Costello implicated young Ferraro's brother, Joe, as the fourth member of the bandit gang. Joe Ferraro, he said, married a month after the crime and moved to Cleveland. The Ohio city detective bureau was notified last night and his arrest followed.

He was found last midnight at the home of his wife's brother in Cleveland. He waived extradition and Detective Edward Sweeney left Pittsburgh at noon to bring him here to face the murder charge.

Detectives Jerry Deasy and Harry Scott in the meantime had obtained a court order for the transfer of Mike Ferraro and Lloyd ("Shimp") Moore from the reformatories to the Pittsburgh jail.

In his confession Mike Ferraro made no mention of his brother's participation, but said that the fourth member of the gang was a youth whom he knew only as "Chick."

CAUGHT AS AUTO THIEVES

Young Ferraro was sent to Thorn Hill three months ago for a series of automobile thefts. Moore, arrested with him in a stolen automobile, was sent there also but was so incorrigible that he was transferred to Morganza.

Mike Ferraro, assigned to work in the Thorn Hill School laundry, had plenty of time to reflect. On December 2 he sat down and wrote a letter to the Common Pleas judge who sent him there.

"About three months ago," he wrote, "Joe and Henry from Detroit, and Lloyd Moore and myself were doing some sticking up in Pittsburgh. At about 5 o'clock in the morning, at Center and Graham, we saw a man walking down the street. Lloyd and I got out of the car and went to stick him up and left the other two boys in the car across the street. Lloyd told the man hands up. The man looked at him and grabbed Lloyd by the wrist. I pulled the man around and the gun went off and shot the man in the back. Lloyd and I ran to the machine and fled. We later went to where Lloyd had a Ford parked beside the Help of Christians Church and left the other two boys off and I drove the Stutz to Sharpsburg and parked it there.

COULDN'T FORGET

"I then got in with Lloyd and he rode me to Silver Lake and left me off the Ford and he kept the gun and holster. We left the car parked in Sharpsburg and rode away in the Ford. Lloyd then left me and went home. The next day I read in the paper about it, the man was in the hospital, and I told Moore about it, he said to try to forget it, but I could not.

"They arrested a man from Tioga street, who had a gun, as a suspect who is serving for something he did not do. The man's name who was shot is named Flinn."

With a Sun-Telegraph reporter, [illegible] Corbett and Detectives Edward Sweeney, Harry Scott and Jerry Deasy went to Thorn Hill School where young Ferraro repeated the confession in the letter. He told additional details of how the quartet stole a Stutz coupe from Highland avenue near St. Marie street on Friday evening, September 2, and used it to convey them to the scenes of at least seven robberies, culminating on Sunday morning with the fatal assault on Flinn.

One of the holdups he described was of a man on the hill above the New Kensington Police Station. Another was that of Norman Mattin, [illegible]0, 615 Speer street, McKeesport, at [illegible]ifth avenue and Maryland street.

[illegible]O CLEAR CONSCIENCE

Still another robbery described by [illegible]erraro was when they took $16 from [illegible] Eardley, 4934 Glenwood avenue, [illegible] the Monongahela River, foot [illegible] Tecumseh street. He talked with great freedom as though anxious to rid his conscience of the troublesome load.

Costello, had not his fears of arrest on the murder charge been lulled by the lapse of time, might have got away. When the detectives first entered the Larimer street poolroom, where he was arrested, they did not recognize him from the rogues' gallery photograph they carried. It was after they had gone from the poolroom to his home, where a brother told them that he was playing pool, that they returned and found him playing at the first table.

Lieut. Corbett expects to clear up at least 50 holdups and automobile thefts from the confessions of the four boys, none of whom is over 18.

Upholds Remus' Wife

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURTHOUSE, CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 14.—Mrs. Grace Campbell, sister of the slain Imogene Holmes Remus, resumed the witness stand at the trial of George Remus for murder today and defended the memory of the woman whom Remus shot and killed on October 6 in Eden Park, when she was on her way to court to divorce him.

Cross-examined rigorously by Defense Attorney Charles H. Elston Mrs. Campbell, in a low-pitched voice, parried thrusts designed to introduce something that would sully her sister.

She had told of how Remus had frequently threatened her sister. His favorite expression being: "I'll see that you don't have a dime to your name or a hair on your head or a shred of character left. I'll crack a skull."

Q.—You were present when Mr. and Mrs. Remus talked of making a financitl settlement of their difficulties?

A.—I was.

Q.—Is it not a fact that Mr. Remus was not demanding she return $150,000 worth of his personal jewelry that she was keeping from him?

A.—Not to my knowledge. (This was after Remus had been released from Atlanta penitentiary and had accused his wife with intimacy with Franklin L. Dodge, former dry sleuth of the Department of Justice).

Mrs. Campbell broke into tears before she was cross-examined 15 minutes. Elston asked her if her husband was not made a president of one of Remus' distilleries.

A.—Yes, the Rugby distillery. He had the position for only a short time.

Q.—Did you work at the distillery as your husband's secretary?

Mrs. Campbell protested, saying: "Do I have to answer questions about this matter—I know little about it."

Q.—Did you have any trouble with Mr. Remus over the Rugby distillery?

A.—Yes. There was some unpleasantness.

Q.—Did Remus go to California to see you about Rugby stock?

A.—Yes, he had some papers he wanted Mr. Campbell to sign, but he found that my husband was dead.

Mrs. Campbell broke down and cried. Remus regarded her cynically.

done by the county without remuneration.

The caretaker's road at the club grounds and a parking lot were improved and a sewer extended by county workmen, materials and equipment, McGovern says he was informed.

William K. Frank, chairman of the greens committee, today testified that as far as he knew, no work had been done for the club by the county, but this did not satisfy McGovern, who wants other officials to come in and testify.

TODAY

000,000, and include the biggest banqueting hall in the world.

Los Angeles has changed since Don Sepulveda ruled this territory, and with his native mustang, in a nine-mile race beat an English thoroughbred race horse brought all the way from the East "to clean the old Don out of his gold slugs and a couple of thousand head of cattle."

EASTERN bankers, who have asked this writer about California's "Bank of Italy" with its stock selling for far more than a billion dollars, and 165 branches in the one state, will be interested in an explanation of the A. P. Giannini success, supplied by George Young, publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner.

"Ordinarily at four o'clock bankers are through for the day. When Giannini's banks close in the afternoon, every man in the bank goes out and spends the rest of the evening developing new business for the bank. And they are up in the morning doing the same thing before the bank opens.

"Employes, be it remembered, get 45 per cent of Bank of Italy profits. They work for their own pockets."

THIS state of which the native Indians were the laziest humans on earth now has, in spite of its mild climate, a most marvelously energetic race of white men.

What applies to Los Angeles and the rest of California, applies to this whole Western country. Everybody is in a hurry, and actually working, not going through the motions.

W. H. BYRNES, president of the San Francisco Union Stockyards, wants the world to know, as it should, that he paid $5 a pound, live weight, for the grand champion Southdown lamb.

Henry Ford's man telephones an invitation to ride in the new Ford car to Ford's gigantic new plant near Los Angeles.

Mr. Vandeventer of the Oakland Times and Charles P. Howard of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce send word you must be here January fifth, and see the future greatest city in California.

R. A. Grady, says the Kiwanis Club of Duluth insists on your going there.

JOHN F. HUMBURG wants you in San Francisco to inspect that city's "new fifteen hundred-acre playground, on the peninsula, for Eastern tourists."

Bryan Akers, publisher of the Arizona Gazette, says you have got to visit Arizona's Salt River Valley to see what has been done in "cotton, citrus, dairying, and winter vegetables." Chambers of Commerce of every county in the state join in that hospitable invitation.

MISS GRACE M. SPARKES, secretary of the Yavapai County Chamber of Commerce, says that's the place in Arizona that you must see.

O. J. Faulkner, president of the Prescott (Ariz.) Kiwanis Club, and the Rotary Club of Prescott, wants you to see their "mile high city, pine clad hills, new Hassayampi Hotel."

Dan J. Seaman, publisher of the Prescott Monday Morning Star, wants to explain to you on the spot, in Arizona, the Colorado River problem.

This Western country is energetic and hospitable.

AND IT hopes and believes that it is going to solve the rubber problem, including the problem of labor.

Fred McCarter, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Salinas, north of here, tells you over long distance telephone, how it will be done. The Guayule shrub, pronounced Wyule, requires no irrigation, moisture once a year is enough. The shrub grows four years, is then harvested, ground up, the rubber floats, wood goes to the bottom.

The shrub yields 1,000 pounds of rubber to the acre.

THE company guarantees the farmer $25 to $40 a year per acre. Plants are being tested in every county. One 2,000-acre patch will be planted this month. No tapping trees or gathering sap. All machine and harvester work. A crop every four years.

There are seven Guayule factories in Mexico now. The plants are gathered wild and hauled to factories on donkey backs.

AMERICANS will apply modern industrial methods to rubber production and undersell the world's cheapest labor-produced rubber. And the 5 per cent of rosin in Guayule, 16 per cent more than needed, will make a perfect mixture when the Guayule is combined with other rubber.

General Motors, United States Rubber, Firestone and Ford take notice of what Intercontinental Rubber is doing with Guayule.

TO START BLAST PROBE DEC. 20

The coroner's inquest into the gas blast of November 14, which cost 28 lives and caused more than $1,000,000 worth of property damage, has been set for December 20 by Coroner W. J. McGregor.

The inquiry into the explosion which ripped the huge tanks of the Equitable Gas Company, in Reedsdale street, will start at 9 o'clock in the morning. Many witnesses will testify before a jury to be composed of engineers.

COUNCIL ORDERS IRWIN AVENUE BRIDGE PLANS

On motion of Councilman James F. Malone, Council today instructed Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang to prepare plans and advertise for bids for construction of the Irwin Avenue Bridge over the Ft. Wayne tracks. Lang was instructed to confer with City Solicitor Charles Waldschmidt before advertising for bids in order to be certain that the move would not hamper the city in its effort to get the Pennsylvania Railroad to pay part of the cost of the proposed structure.

LINDBERGH MISSING

began slowly but ominously to dwindle.

The watchers, officials and private spectators, who had listened throughout the morning to the spirited strains of Mexican and American martial airs, made no effort to conceal their growing anxiety.

Moment by moment the watchers were getting ready to record another long distance flier on the missing list, at least temporarily.

With the air above portions of Mexico dotted with planes eager to welcome the Lone Eagle, Lindbergh was reported at places over which he probably did not pass.

CONFIRM TAMPICO REPORT

TAMPICO, Mexico, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The Mexican Aviation Company, which early today reported the passage of Col. Lindbergh's plane over Tampico, reiterated this afternoon that only one plane passed through Tampico and that that plane was Col. Lindbergh's.

This is the last confirmed report of Lindbergh's flight.

CONFUSION REIGNS

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Confusion now exists over reports that Col. Lindbergh has landed in Mexico City.

The Western Union reported Col. Lindbergh's arrival at 1 o'clock.

Correspondents at Mexico City, advised by telephone of the landing of a plane at Valbuena aerodrome, reported that Lindbergh had landed.

Later advices stated, however, that a commercial plane had landed at Valbuena and there was no confirmation of the report that Lindbergh had landed.

Valbuena Aerodrome is two miles from Mexico City and considerable confusion prevailed as to just what plane had landed there.

An El Paso message, however, reported that Lindbergh had passed over Huichapam in the state of Mexico at 11:30, Mexican time, and should have reached Valbuena by 12 o'clock.

Some advices stated that a commercial plane, flying along the coast over Tampico and to Mexico City, had been mistaken for Col. Lindbergh.

FEARING DEATH, MRS. WEST CRIES IN CELL

VELMA WEST

When Velma West, 21, self-confessed husband-murderess, heard Municipal Judge Helter, Painesville, O., order her held for court without bail on a first-degree murder charge, she thought she had been sentenced to the chair. That, her mother, Mrs. Catherine Van Woert said, was why she fainted. The composure which marked her incarceration prior to the preliminary hearing vanished, as she completely lost her self-control. She is shown in the lower photograph being escorted, hysterical and unable to stand unsupported, from Judge Helter's court back to the Lake county jail. In her cell there she now verges on a state of collapse, spending most of her waking hours in tears. Announcement by Seth Paulin, Lake county prosecutor, that her case will go before the grand jury at its regular session the second week in January and realization that until then she must remain in the narrow confines of her prison have reduced Mrs. West to a constant semi-hysterical condition.

EXPOSE TO SPUR MEX INQUIRY

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The senatorial investigation into publication of documents by the Hearst newspapers purporting to show that Mexico ordered $1,215,000 paid to influence United States senators, may develop into an inquiry into the whole field of international propaganda, it appeared today.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee withheld action this morning on the resolution of Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, which would have authorized such an inquiry, until after a special committee starts a separate investigation tomorrow into the charges affecting Mexico. If this special committee finds it needs additional power, it was announced, the larger inquiry probably will be authorized.

Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, in making this announcement, said he felt the special committee already had ample power to investigate the anti-American activities of any foreign nations.

Miners' Eviction Upheld

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—The Superior Court today handed down decisions sustaining Western Pennsylvania coal mining concerns in their action in ejecting striking miners from company owned houses.

The higher court's decision today, it was announced by Judge Cunningham, who filed opinions, governs 500 similar appeals taken from the action of lower courts in several western counties in granting judgments in ejectment in favor of the mining companies. As practically the same technical questions arose in connection with each appeal, counsel entered into a stipulation whereby it was agreed to accept as applying to the hundreds of cases named in the stipulation the decisions handed down in today's cases.

In the Vesta Coal Company vs. William Jones, who appealed from the action of the Washington County Court of Common Pleas in refusing to strike off a judgment in ejectment, so that the alleged eviction of Jones could be tried before a jury, the higher court points out that the defendant in the court below expressly waived all errors and defects in the judgment taken against him.

"In the lease now under consideration," says Judge Cunningham in the Jones case, "the appellant committed himself to the common law essentials of a valid judgment by confession in the course of an amicable action. The majority of the court are of the opinion that the matters here complained of, even if assumed to be irregularities, are the kind of irregularities which may be waived and they were waived by the appellant."

Other opinions handed down by Judge Cunningham all bearing on ejectment of miners on appeals from the Washington and Fayette county courts and favorable to the mining companies were:

Chartiers Creek Coal Company vs. Bielski, appellant, Washington county. Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation vs. McClements, appellant, Washington county. Hillman Gas Coal vs. Bozicevich, appellant, Washington county. Youghiogheny Pittsburgh Coal Company vs. Carlet, appellant, Washington county. Hillman Coal and Coke Company vs. Metcalf, appellant, Fayette county. Vesta Coal Company vs. Stiddard, appellant, Washington county.

OPERATORS AND DAVIS CONFER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—A committee of three representing coal operators and a similar committee of mine union officials conferred today with Secretary of Labor Davis, who is striving for peace in the bituminous fields.

Most of the 25 coal operators from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, who attended Davis' conciliation conference yesterday left this forenoon, leaving their interests in the hands of their committee.

Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers, was acting as spokesman for the miners. John L. Lewis, president of the miners, was ill at a hotel.

The following telegram was sent by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation to Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, in response to his second telegram asking reconsideration of their declination to participate in the coal conference in his office in Washington. The telegram was signed by M. C. Angloch, president of the steel company's coal producing subsidiary, the Vesta Coal Company.

"As stated in our previous telegram declining your courteous invitation to the coal conference, the conditions that you mention which confront the bituminous coal industry in general do not prevail with us, as our mines are operated strictly incidental to the steel industry. They are a part of and entirely controlled by that industry. They are not faced with the problems of over production and over development, to which you refer. Market prices and seasonal demand for coal do not affect them, as we do not sell coal. Not marketing our coal, the consuming public is not interested in our production. We do not ship coal by rail, hence are not concerned in the freight rate situation. We have no waste of natural resources. All our output is consumed within the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation's blast furnaces and steel mills. Most of it is subjected to the by-products coke process whereby all valuable content is conserved. Being free from the vicissitudes of the commercial coal industry, our mines give very steady employment. Therefore the problems of unsettlement and unemployment, which you also mention, are not encountered in our operation.

"In view of the foregoing facts we respectfully ask to be omitted from conferences with the commercial mines now and in the future."

FLOOD GRIPS CITY

watersheds sent huge volumes of water tumbling down to the Point, and the flood stage came early this morning, almost without warning. The weather bureau yesterday predicted that 21 feet probably would be the highest stage reached today.

Reports from up-river points in the Allegheny valley told of grave conditions, particularly in the vicinity of Braeburn and New Kensington, where hundreds of volunteers were working to save Dam No. 4 at Braeburn. The dam at Schenley, which was menaced two weeks ago by the high waters, was said to be safe, government engineers having strengthened the approaches recently.

As the torrent rushed down the Allegheny valley, a barge laden with hundreds of tons of coal was torn from its moorings at the foot of Heinz street, North Side, and swept down stream. At the Manchester Bridge two pool boats attempted to capture the derelict, but it sank before lines could be made fast.

Early in the morning, police made a round of the lowlands, and warned residents of the rapid approach of the flood.

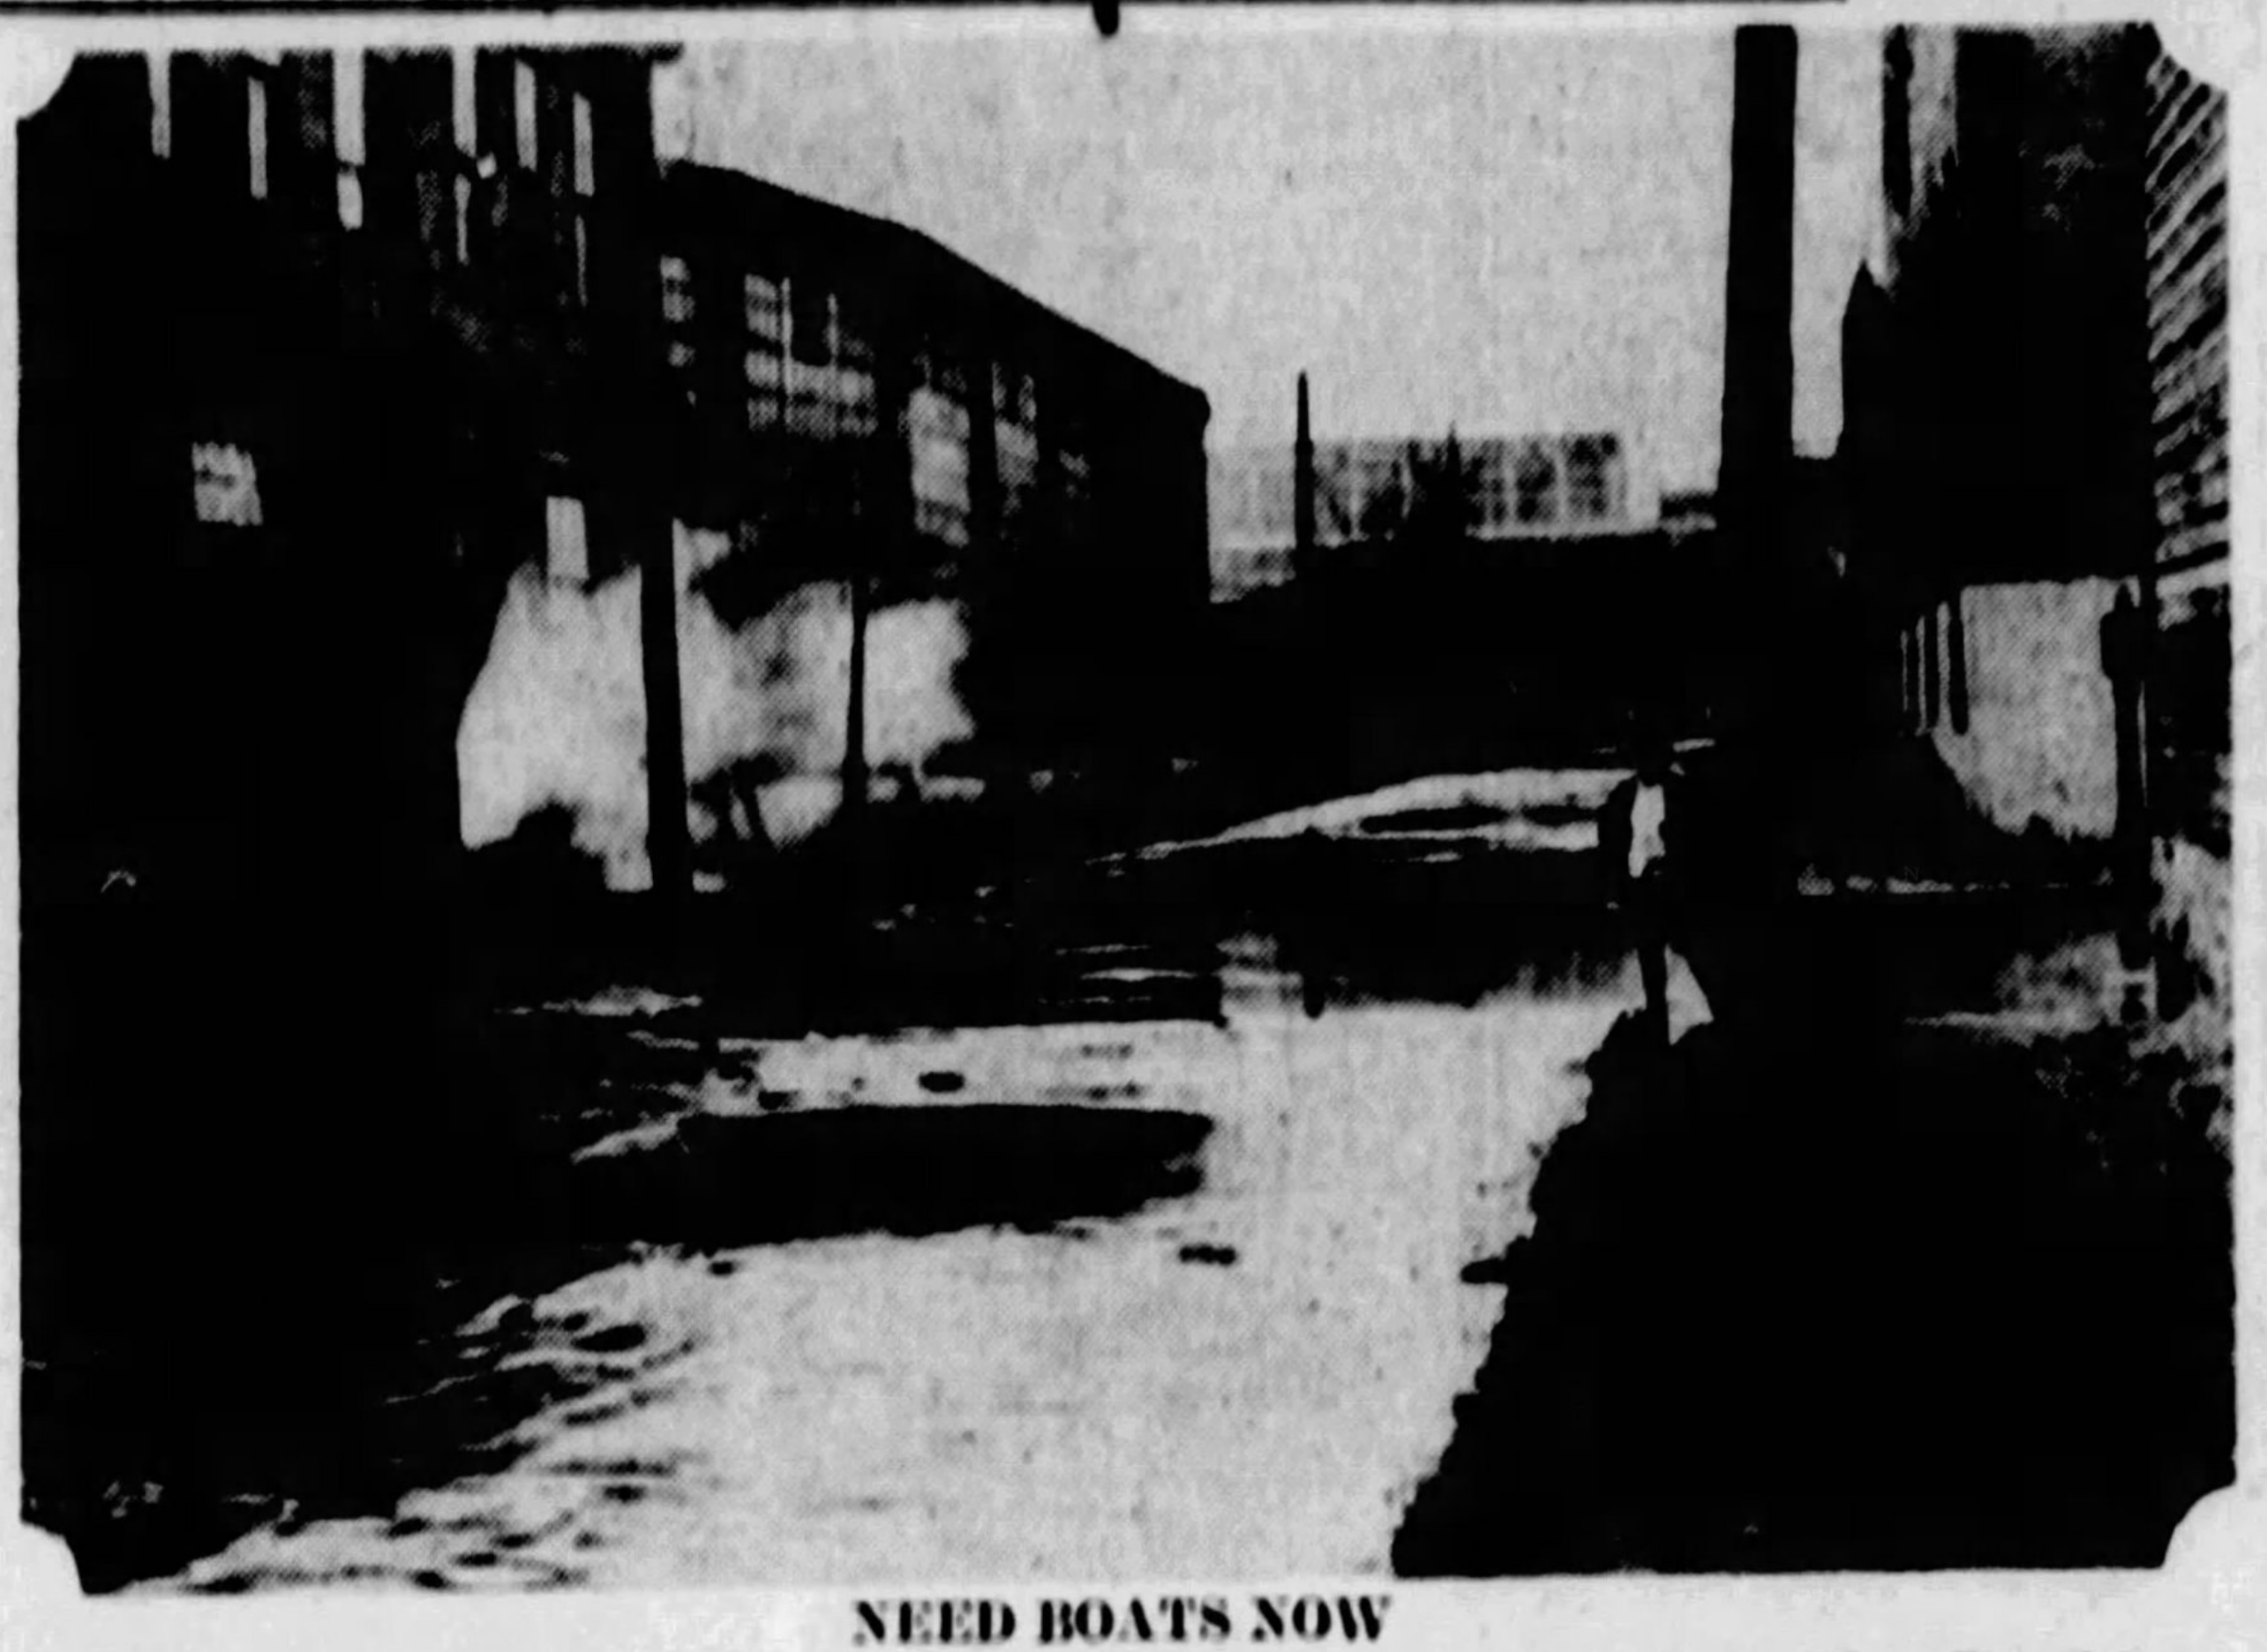
MAHONING SWEEPS VALLEY MILE WIDE

HALT AUTO, FLEE WITH DIAMONDS

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 14.—Detroit police today joined with Oakland county deputy sheriffs in the search for two bandits who robbed Ludwig Kohn, 7113 Monticello avenue, Pittsburgh, of diamonds valued at $35,000 to $40,000, while he was en route by automobile to Flint, Mich., late Tuesday.

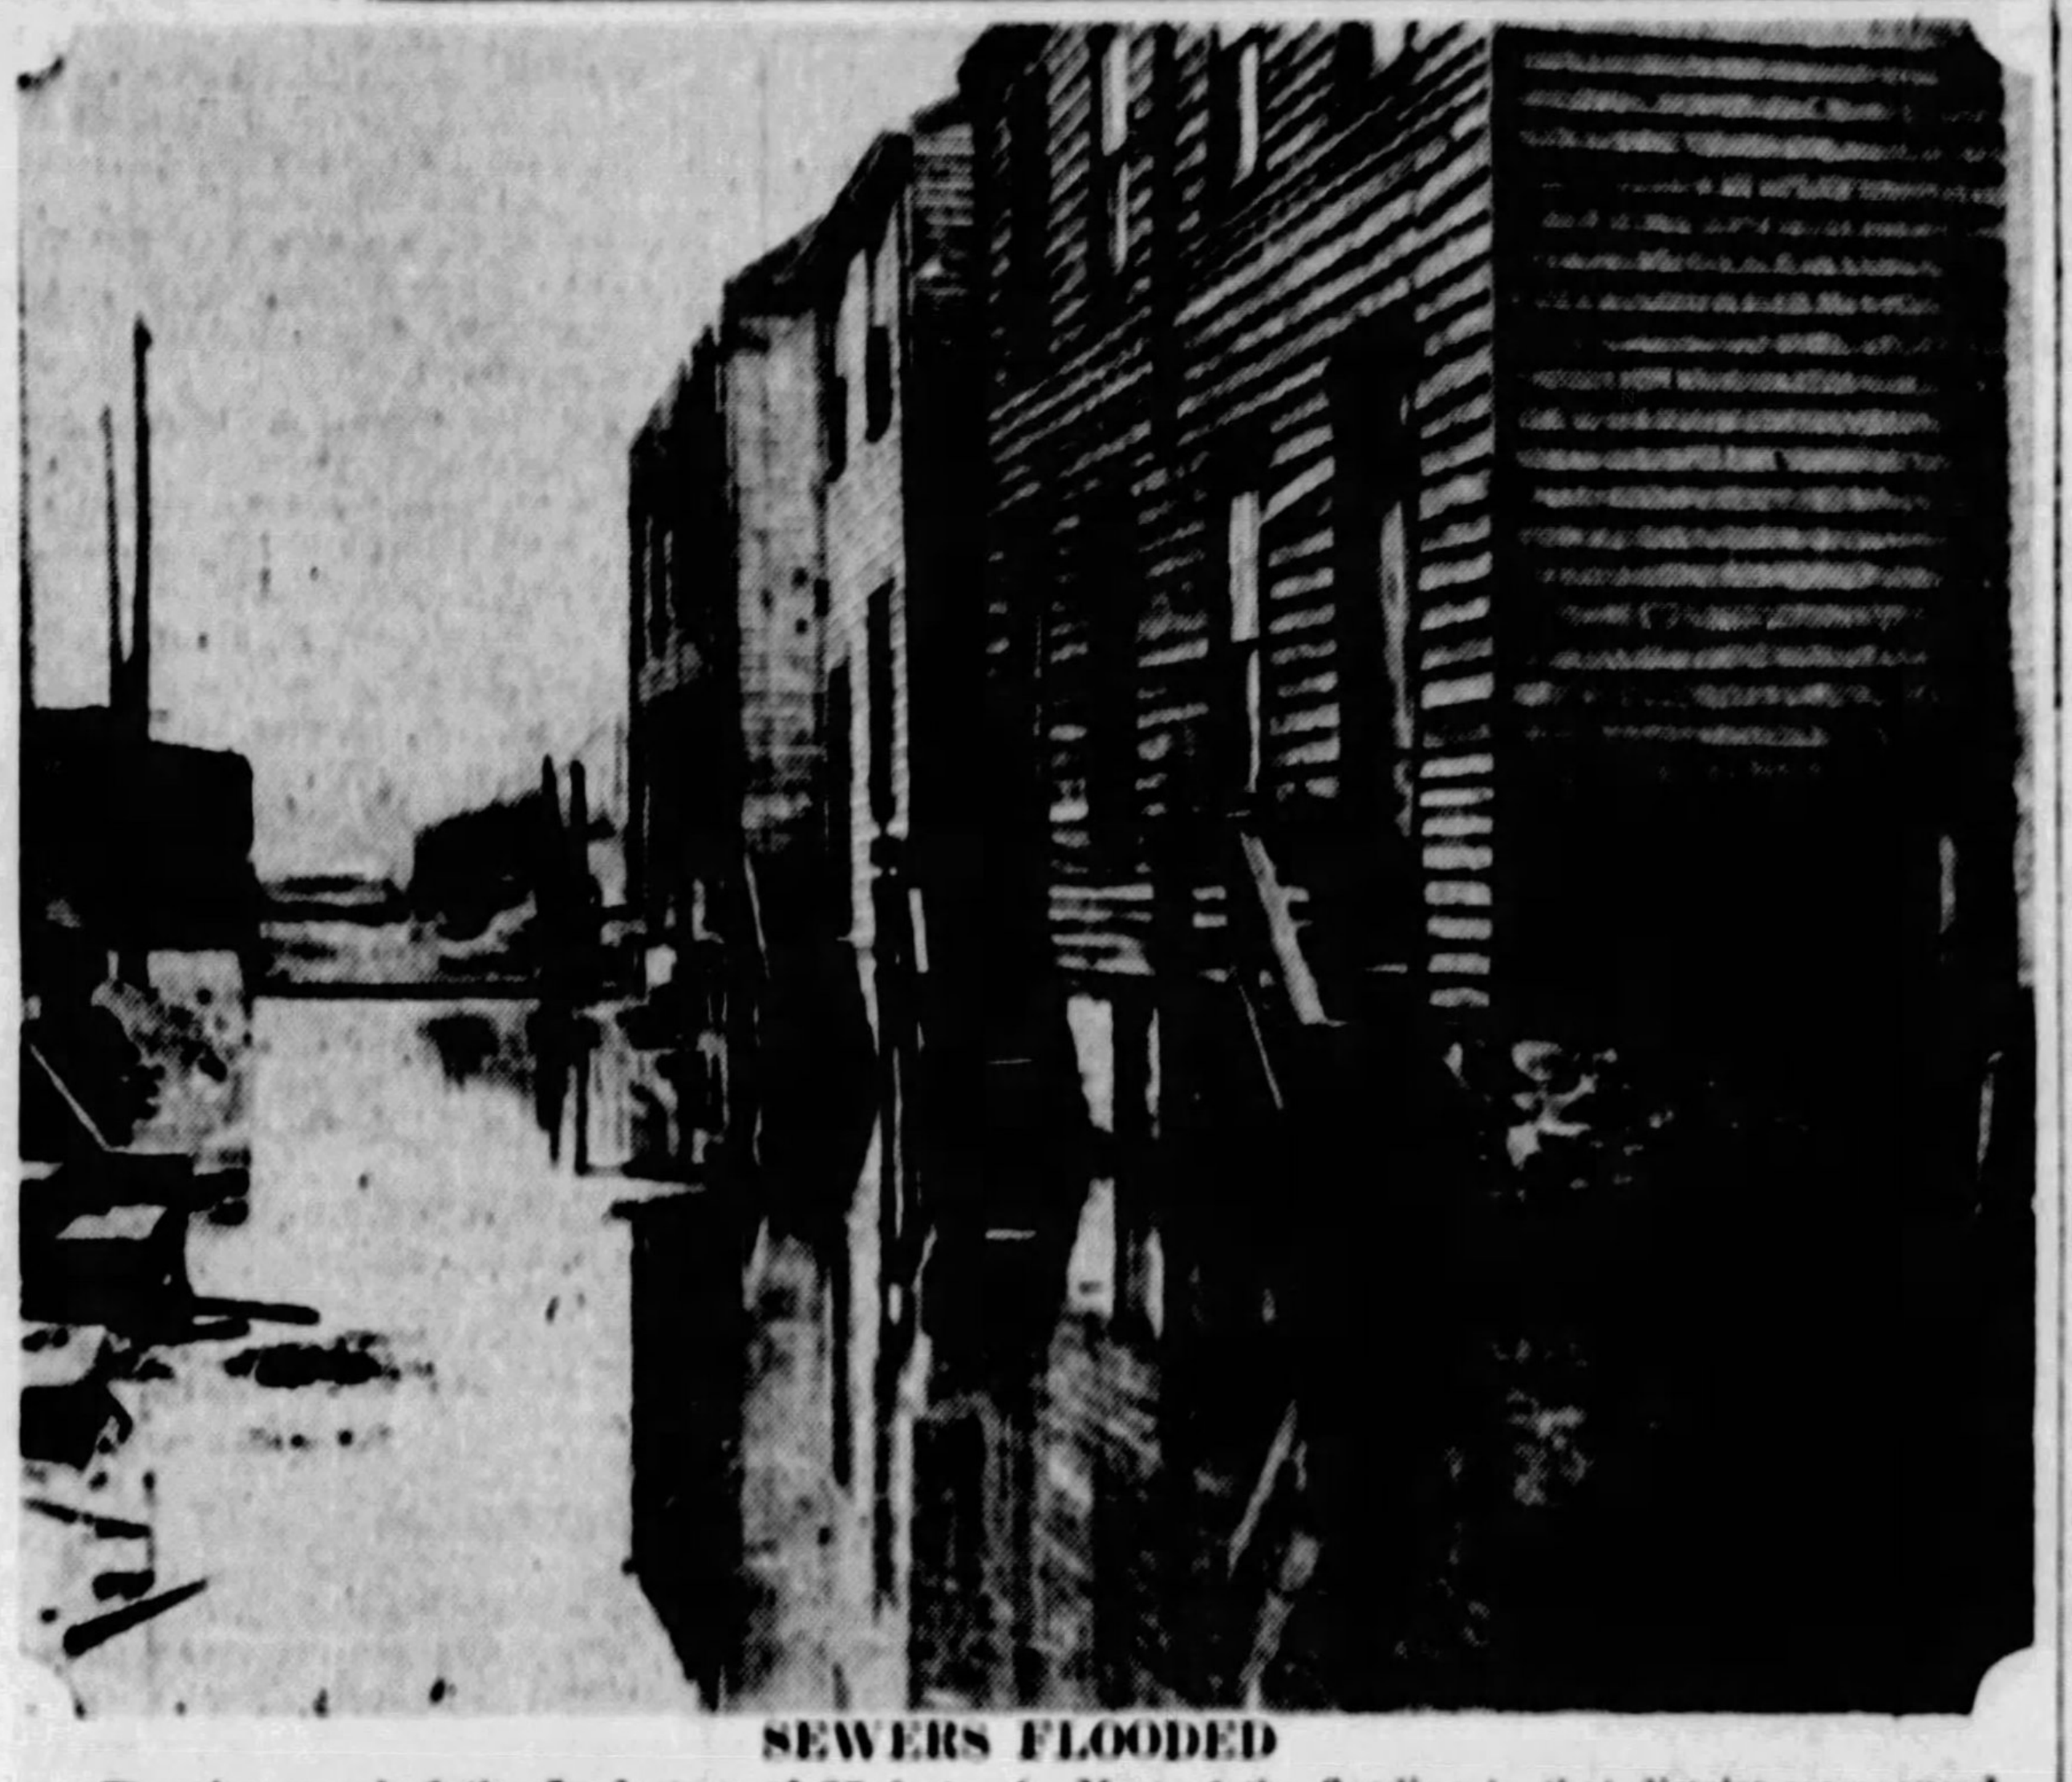
Mr. Kohn is a salesman for Irving Shapiro and Brothers, jewelers, of New York City. He was in Detroit for several days calling upon his customers and left for Flint Tuesday morning.

On the main highway, five miles north of Pontiac, Mich., an automobile containing several men forced Kohn's car to the side of the road and two of the men, both armed, got into Kohn's car. One of the thugs took the wheel, while another sat in the rear seat with Kohn, keeping his weapon at the salesman's side.



NEED BOATS NOW

The unexpected flood which swept down the Allegheny River last night flooded several streets in the lower North Side. The picture shows Kilbuck street at Corry street covered by six inches of water.



SEWERS FLOODED

The river reached the flood stage of 25 feet this morning. Residents of the lower North Side moved their household goods to second floors. Most of the flooding in that district was caused by flooded sewers. The picture shows Itasco street.

RAILROAD, HIGHWAY BLOCKED

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Dec. 14.—Mahoning Creek, fed by an incessant rain of three days, leaped from its banks and spread out over the valley until a mile wide, inundating roads, tying up traffic and causing $10,000 damage in Punxsutawney.

The Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad tracks near its engine repair shop at Rikers, and the Buffalo-Pittsburgh highway at Rikers were blocked with rock and mud as the result of a landslide.

Indiana, Church and West Mahoning streets and Morrison avenue were impassable this morning with several feet of water and the Mary A. Wilson school in the East End was closed because pupils could not reach it.

Cellars were filled with water and in many instances merchants could not reach their stores without the use of boats. Pigs and chickens were drowned, but no lives were lost.

FARMERS SAVE EIGHT

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 14.—Marooned in a summer cottage by the rapid rise of Scrubgrass Creek near Kennerdell, south of here, late yesterday, Miss Norma Baker, teacher, and seven pupils, were carried across an inundated field to safety by four farmers.

Wallace Mays, Earl Snyder, Miller Grubbs and Albert Lusher heard calls for help from the teacher and pupils who had taken refuge in the unoccupied cottage of the Rev. Homer Davis. They waded through the water, waist high at places, and rescued the eight.

The children were taken to the Samuel Witherup home where they remained until this morning when the flood subsided, permitting them to reach their homes.

MERCER ROAD FLOODED

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 14—The Mercer-Grove City road is under two feet of water and use of the highway is dangerous. The Neshannock Creek reached a flood stage this morning. The lowlands are flooded for miles, but no great damage has been done.

MARTINS FERRY, O., Dec. 14—A flood sweeping down the Ohio valley is expected to put out of commission several industries in Martins Ferry and Wheeling tonight.

The stage at Dam No. 12 this morning indicated that 38 feet could be expected tomorrow morning, which would mean 40 feet at Wheeling. The lower end of Wheeling Island would be inundated with that stage and 42 feet would put street car traffic out of business.

A rainfall of 2.26 inches was reported at the Tiltonville water works over a 48-hour period.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 14.—The Monongahela river, rising rapidly, drove residents of Greensboro and other villages along the stream from their homes early today. The high water followed incessant rains of the past two days in the upper Monongahela valley.

Good Flier, Will Proves Better Speller

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Dec. 14.—Just flew over and looked right down in crater of Popocatepilier. It's easier to fly over than it is to pronounce.

WILL ROGERS.

They have some good fliers here. The whole country is crazy today about Lindberg's flight. He is the first thing that America has sent here that was not in the form of a note. He will get a great reception and I will lose a good bed. That kid has the whole world praying for him again. Here's hoping.

YOUTH CONFESSES BRUTAL MURDER

HOMICIDE SQUAD DETECTIVES HEAR

Henry Costello, 18, tell how he stabbed Edward Flinn, 68, watchman, after Michael Ferraro, 16, had shot him at Center avenue and Graham street last September 4. The confession involved Mike's brother, Joseph, 19, and Lloyd "Shrimp" Moore, 18. On the left in the photograph is Detective Harry Scott, while on the right foreground are Detectives Jerry Deasy and Edward Sweeney, to whom the confession was made. In the inset is Lieut. David Corbett, head of the city homicide squad, who conducted the investigation resulting in solving Flinn's murder.

Bridge Faith Broken, Budget Body Charges

Charges that the County Commissioners have broken an agreement to take over four river bridges still in the hands of the city, in order to force Pittsburgh to support a proposed county bond issue, were hurled at a budget meeting of Council today.

"I won't vote for their bond issue if they don't go along on this," declared Councilman Robert Garland emphatically.

"In the last campaign I advocated the election of these commissioners, believing they have given the city more improvements than any before them," said W. Y. English. "Now are we going to sit here quietly and admit if we can't get them to slip us a favor out of the backdoor we're our of luck? We ought to let the people of Pittsburgh know that if we have to put the money for these bridges in the budget the commissioners are responsible."

After a warm argument, which included a fruitless discussion of whether Controller C. C. McGovern should be invited to participate, the Mayor was asked to arrange a conference between Council and the commissioners in order to reach some agreement.

The refusal of the commissioners to take over the four bridges will add more than $300,000—nearly one-half a mill in taxes—to the city budget. Not including that item, the requested appropriation for the upkeep of bridges is higher than for 1927. The entire appropriation was held up pending the conference.

More than a third of a mill increase was approved when the budgeteers today passed items of $2,655,000 for taxes and interest on bonds and $2,876,500 for a sinking fund, a raise of $278,000 over last year.

SEVEN SEEK DIVORCE IN COMMON PLEAS SUITS

Libels in divorce have been filed in Common Pleas Court as follows: Harry G. Oswalt, Jr., against Regina Oswalt; Johanna Hackenberg against Alexander Hackenberg, Edward Jerome Quinlick against Rose Mary Quinlick, Oscar Beckler against Louise Heath Beckler, Ellen Holste against Howard D. Holste, John Gray against Jennie Gray, James Oliver Harris against Cora May Harris.

SIXTH ST. SPAN DELAY BRINGS PROTEST

Sixth street and Federal street merchants, whose business was affected by the closing of the Sixth Street Bridge, will appeal to city officials to investigate what they term unwarranted delay in construction of the new span.

Carl L. Kingsbacher is spokesman for the merchant group, which contend that the steel work of the bridge should have been started even before the masonry was completed and cannot understand why the contract for the superstructure calls for starting the work on or before April 1, 1928, and completing it before November, 1928.

RUNAWAY ENGINE GIVES THRILLS

Railroad employes in the Pitcairn yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad were treated to thrills Monday night when a heavy locomotive ran wild through the yards, then headed across the Braddock-Homestead bridge over the Monongahela River, followed by a crew in another engine.

A hostler in the cab of the runaway engine was forced to leap to the ground when steam from a broken pipe enveloped him.

The chase continued for almost five miles along the tracks of the Port Perry branch of the railroad toward South Duquesne, where the engine's speed decreased because of low steam pressure. The pursuing locomotive jammed against the runaway engine and slightly damaged it. It was towed back to Pitcairn.

BLONDE KILLER SEEN AS 'SEXLESS SEMI-INVALID'

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 14.—Velma West, the girl with the dual personality, although she had nerve enough to kill her husband with a hammer, was "too timid to tell the boys to stay away" before she married West, according to revelations today, and thereby lost a job.

Henry Rothman, of Cleveland, her former employer, informed a reporter of this latest evidence of a "split mind."

VERY TIMID

"She was timid," Rothman declared. "When the boys around here came into the store to talk with her she didn't seem to have enough spirit to send them away. I told her several times that I wouldn't permit her to do things like that, but it didn't seem to do any good."

Then the hardware merchant told of what he called groundless, but malicious, whisperings around the "corner" and of more utterances of remonstrance on his part in an effort to protect the girl from gossip.

"I was sorry," Rothman said, "but I had to let her go."

Further revelations of the romantic past of the girl, whom some Cleveland psychologists have described as "sexless," came from William Chapman, 37-year-old Cleveland restaurant proprietor, who says he was engaged to her at the time the beautiful blonde city girl suddenly ran away with Edward West, the man she later killed.

"I was engaged to Velma Van Woert a year and a half ago," Chapman said. "Our wedding date was only a few days distant when she eloped with West, whom she had introduced to me as her cousin, and went to live on a farm. I had no reason not to believe her, but now I think she was engaged to both of us at the same time."

Still a third word picture of the slim, nonchalant blonde, was painted by her mother.

"When a baby, she was a wide-eyed cherub with an aureole of golden curls," Mrs. Van Woert said. "I guess we pampered her. She was like a dainty Dresden doll.

"But as she grew older, she had pneumonia and became a delicate, nervous semi-invalid over night. Because she was so delicate, I kept her at home, but we always welcomed her chums to the house. Later she learned to dance and swim, and she was so graceful and her heart so full of music that she never lacked for partners, but even then she was quiet and reserved.

"Later on she met Edward West. Their courtship was no sudden thing, but developed slowly. I saw they were falling in love, but I didn't want them to marry because she was so thin and delicate.

"They say she's a woman without emotion now, but I know the intense feeling that seethes beneath her calm."

REFUSE TO PAY PENITENTIARY EXPENSES

The County Commissioners today refused to authorize the transfer of $5,493.65 for the payment of outstanding bills for the maintenance of prisoners at the penitentiary. County Controller McGovern suggested that the money be transferred and the bills paid. Commissioner E. V. Babcock objected when he learned that the officials of the institution had overdrawn its appropriation by $5,493.65. The 1927 appropriation was $140,000.

"The bills must be paid," Controller McGovern said.

"The officials had a right to ask us for additional money before spending more than the appropriation," Commissioner Babcock replied. "I refuse to agree to the transfer."

Commissioner Babcock ordered that the officials be ordered to appear before the Commissioners and make an explanation. "I want to have a talk with them anyhow."

JUVENILE COURT SERVES GREAT COMMUNITY NEED

GIVES YOUNGSTERS NEW CHANCE

Judge Samuel J. McKim, who needs the wisdom of Solomon in deciding the Juvenile Court cases. Many neglected children have been given a greater chance to succeed in life by Judge McKim's decisions that have taken the children from squalid surroundings and placed them in a better environment.

17 YEARS IN COURT

Walter R. Black, special probation officer of Juvenile Court, has been an employe in the department since 1910. At present he is handling the cases of delinquent boys.

SHARE RESPONSIBILITIES

J. Armour Downs, left, is assistant chief probation officer of Juvenile Court, in charge of 21 probation officers who make investigations of all cases presented to the court. Miss Carmella Barr, director of the home finding department of Juvenile Court, carries the responsibility of choosing homes of the proper environment for the dependent and neglected children. At present the court is caring for approximately 1,500 children, for each of these the court receives $5.60 a week from the county.

COAL STRIKE HURTS COURT

Miss Grace L. Stoakes, at the helm of Juvenile Court as chief probation officer, declares the coal strike in the Pittsburgh district is playing havoc with the budget of the court. According to Miss Stoakes, between 75 and 100 cases pass through the court each week and families of the striking coal miners who cannot support their children have placed the burden of maintaining the youngsters on Juvenile Court.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The House of Representatives voted themselves a Christmas holiday from December 21 to January 4. Similar resolutions will be passed by the Senate.

Gifts Continue to Swell Toy Mission Stocking

Cash contributions for new toys, books and dolls continue to be received by the Toy Mission, Ross and Diamond streets, and by The Sun-Tele Auxiliary, and materially increase gifts for the city's poor children.

Among the contributors to The Sun-Tele fund were Mrs. Samuel McClay, 1055 Devon road; Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Lawler, Evans City, Pa., and Katherine Fertig, treasurer for the Alert chapter of Westminster Guild of the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church. In addition there were several contributions from anonymous senders.

"This money is coming in good time," said Manager George L. Bond. "At the rate requests are coming in, the Mission is faced with the task of obtaining a great many toys, enough to go around. Some families, contributors in former years, are now on our receiving list. Reverses in business and other misfortunes have hit them.

"If no child is to be disappointed, we shall be obliged to do our utmost to get sufficient gifts. And it is necessary that the gifts be received at the earliest moment so they can be packed and delivered before Christmas Day."

Gifts From K. & B.'s Will Carry a Welcome Whatever Their Destination

A Thought for MEN

For one reason or another, mild weather in particular, K. & B. Overcoat stocks are heavier than we care to have them. The situation is not acute, nor does it necessitate the drastic measures we are taking to remedy it. However, we are bent on quick reduction of stocks, and this selling must do it. In brief, we take four hundred of our finer overcoats—some of them made in England especially for K. & B.'s and reprice them to $32.50. If you're any judge of clothing, we won't have to tell you their original pricing to have you buy when you see them. All new, this winter's Overcoats, in the prevalent raglan and set-in shoulder models. An abundance of coats in the popular oxfords and blues, besides browns, tans, and other new shades. An excellent lot of fine chinchilla Overcoats are included. Buy yourself a Christmas present, and buy it without making an over big dent in your money for gifts to your dear and near ones.

PA PITT WON'T LET MINERS' FAMILIES SUFFER

living in remote parts of the country. They have heard that thousands of coal diggers in the Pittsburgh district, most of them with wives and children, their resources exhausted by the long strike, have become destitute. The United Mine Workers' headquarters has received inquiries from persons in distant places who would like to help. Their gifts will not be disdained; but Pittsburgh is able, without outside assistance, to take care of its own, and shows every intention of doing so.

There is to be no theorizing over the causes of the strike, no attempt, in connection with Bundle Day, to fix the responsibility. It is a condition that confronts the community—an emergency situation that must be relieved without regard to who is to blame. Certainly the children are not to blame. Certainly the women are not. They are going to be helped, and so are the miners. They are going to be helped with gifts of clothing and provisions. Pittsburghers are going to leave bundles of these articles at the fire engine houses, from which they will be carried in trucks to a central depot at 1902 Fifth avenue for distribution.

Briefly the situation is this:

Forty-five thousand coal miners in the Pittsburgh district, which includes all of Allegheny county, all of Washington county, and parts of Westmoreland and Fayette counties, are not working and have no income. Half of them have been idle or locked out from two and one-half to three years, the rest since April 1. By this time they have consumed their savings. Their organization, the United Mine Workers of America, can give no help except to a few of the cases most desperately in need of it. The union has, however, erected barracks for miners evicted from the coal companies' houses and will erect others.

85,000 UNDER 14

The 45,000 idle miners have 180,000 dependents, making 225,000 persons directly and adversely affected by the situation. Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, estimates that 85,000 of them are less than 14 years old. It is these children who are the cause of greatest concern.

Some are virtually prisoners—prisoners of poverty—unable to leave their homes because they no longer have clothes worthy of the name. This statement is not a mere rhetorical locution, but is literally true. The fact has been brought out again and again of late when the fathers of the youngsters were haled before magistrates for not sending the children to school, and explained that they could not attend because they had no shoes, no stockings, no coats.

Such cases can be found at all mining camps in the district—at Russellton, Harwick, Indianola, Harmarville, Newfield, Puckety Creek, Renton, Castle Shannon, Coverdale, Kinloch and other settlements.

That is the situation that Pittsburghers are asked to relieve. They are asked to pick out discarded but not worn-out clothing, especially such as is fit for children or can be made fit for them—underwear as well as outer garments—make a bundle of it, and take it to the nearest fire engine station. Do it now.

The fire engine houses, which have been designated by Director James M. Clark of the Department of Public Safety as receiving stations for the bundles, are located as follows:

Wide Choice for Women and Misses

Frocks which will look pretty at the bridge table, frocks whose fuller skirts will move gracefully with the wearer, whose interesting features at the back will do a woman credit when she has turned away, and whose colorings will be found as refreshing as a cup of tea.

The above describes this great collection of new Fashion-Thrift dresses, made of georgette crepe and flat crepe in many, many styles.

The colors are rose-bisque, roseglow, folly red, flame, briar rose, beige, Chin Chin blue, Roma green, nile, spruce, navy and black, in one, two and three-tone effects.

Sizes from misses' 14 to women's 44.

Controller Hits Deal With Highway Dept.

Spectators attending a County Commissioners' meeting today were given a run for their money when County Commissioner E. V. Babcock and County Controller Charles C. McGovern engaged in one of their familiar clashes. For a minute the words flew fast between the Commissioner and Controller, and the argument was brought to a stop when Commissioner Babcock left the conference room, explaining that he had an important engagement to keep.

As Controller McGovern started to question Commissioner Babcock the Commissioner interrupted the Controller by explaining that the transaction was legitimate and was done only as "decent thing to do to help out the state." Commissioner Babcock said that the entire transaction had been discussed at the time the contract was entered into and approved.

"I have an appointment for 11:30 o'clock and I am late now," Commissioner Babcock said, as McGovern continued to discuss the contract question. "And another thing," the Controller said, "what is being done to pay the Dravo Construction Company $50,000 due it for work on the sub-structure of the Thirty-first street bridge?" the Controller asked as Commissioner Babcock arose to leave.

NO TIME TO TALK

"I haven't time to discuss that now; I told you I had an appointment," Babcock, raising his voice, said.

WIFE'S GIFT TO NEEDIEST MEMORIAL TO HUSBAND

Pathos and Good Cheer In Contribution

Pathos and good cheer enter into the letters accompanying today's contributions to the Christmas fund that The Sun-Telegraph is collecting for the Twenty Neediest Cases of poverty reported by the Pittsburgh charitable organizations. A smile evoked by one communication is wiped out by the sorrow that is found expressed or implied in the next one read.

Thus there comes a note with the news that a collection for the Twenty Neediest was taken among the guests of Webster Hall at the Sunday night movies in the gymnasium. And after it was taken another man who had been missed came forward with a check for $10 to be added to the "pot." There is not much pathos to be found in the young men at Webster Hall; the spirit that reigns there is one of gayety.

MEMORIAL TO HUSBAND

But consider the next letter opened. It comes from a woman who says: "In memory of my dear husband I enclose $5, instead of purchasing a wreath for his grave, as I was about to do." Hats off to her, in respectful recognition of her sentimental sacrifice, which she will not regret.

In the homes of the Twenty Neediest families there is nothing at present but pathos. Bitter poverty dominates the scene. The situation looks hopeless. In some cases the husband and father is dead; in others he is a cripple or invalid, unable to earn wages; in a few cases he is in the insane asylum, or in prison. There are many children in most of the neediest families. The mother is trying to keep them with her, but it is a desperate struggle. They do not have enough to eat, they lack adequate clothing. The mother fears she will have to give them up, and put them in an orphanage, and it is breaking her heart. In other cases it is an old couple who are threatened with separation after having spent their lives together and their situation is scarcely less pitiful.

In practically every case, however, there is a chance that if the family can be aided and kept intact for a few months it will be definitely saved from disruption; for there is a probability of an increase in income later on. The older children may get some remunerative occupation; the breadwinner now absent or incapacitated may come back.

Let the people of Pittsburgh give generously for the relief of these unfortunates and there will be smiles instead of sorrow in their homes on Christmas, too. If the givers could see the happy faces of the tots, and the older folk, also, when they learn that through The Sun-Telegraph's Christmas fund they are to be relieved of some of their suffering, the donors would feel amply rewarded for whatever sacrifice their gifts have involved.

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, or, if preferred, to one of the societies named.

How 20 Neediest Cases Money May Be Sent

Designate the particular case you wish to help.

Checks or money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., or to the following co-operating organizations:

The Associated Charities of Pittsburgh, Fulton Building.

The Catholic Charities, Diocese of Pittsburgh, Wabash Building.

The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 128 Duquesne way.

The Salvation Army, 425 Second avenue.

The Volunteers of America, Volunteer Building, Pittsburgh.

CASE No. 17

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sun-Telegraph of November 27. One case will be repeated each day. Here is case No. 17:

Deserted by her husband two years ago, just four months before Mildred was born, this little woman has been struggling to support her family of four children by cleaning offices evenings.

George, who was 11 at the time his father left them, sells papers in the evenings. For a time he gave his mother a great deal of worry because of the bad associates he met who led him astray. Now George has a Big Brother who is helping him to get straightened out. He is attending school regularly and is again trying to help his mother support his three little sisters, 10, 8 and 2.

Helen, 10, is "little mother" of the family while "Mother" is at work, while Jane helps by watching Mildred until Helen puts her to bed.

(Reported by the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh.)

Case No. 18 will be described tomorrow.

Pennington Warns of Poison Holiday Rum

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington has issued a warning against poisonous holiday liquor. The warning is in the form of an affidavit from G. E. Malloy, government chemist, who speaks of mice and lye as constituting ingredients to some of the moonshine examined. The warning follows:

"During the past 11 months, 4,503 samples of seized liquors have been analyzed in our laboratory. From this number we have found some of a poisonous nature. One of the worst samples analyzed was an artificially colored whisky which contained one-half per cent of caustic soda, or lye.

"Among the less toxic concoctions we have found wood alcohol in small quantities, traces of bromine, acetone, carbolic acid, creosote, verdigris, pyridine and zinc salts. The continued use of such liquors make them of a very poisonous nature.

"The moonshine received is of a very poor grade, not only poisonous, from the standpoint of excess higher alcohols due to poor fermentation and distillation, but also from the filth which accompanies it. We have received samples here which contained huge bugs and worms of large proportions, also those which held flies of various varieties. It has been told to me by one of the agents that in the condenser of one still seized from which moonshine was flowing, a dead rat was found. Also that they have found mice, worms, flies, and even toads, rats and snakes in the mash tubs. I have personally seen denatured alcohol cooking plants in barns and chicken houses where the filth was beyond belief.

"Practically all of the alcohol now seized and analyzed contains isopropyl alcohol, acetone, diethylphthalate, dibutylphthalate, benzol, kerosene, or gasoline, showing that the alcohol has been redistilled from specially denatured alcohols."

Sore Throat

Sure, Quick Relief No Gargle

No longer is it necessary to gargle or to choke with nasty tasting patent medicines or gargles to relieve sore throat. One swallow of a famous physician's prescription called Thoxine is guaranteed to relieve within 15 minutes. It goes directly to the cause; is far superior to gargles.

Thoxine does not contain iron, chloroform or dope. It is pleasant tasting; is harmless and safe for the whole family. Sold under money back guarantee of quick relief. 35c, 60c and $1.00. At all druggists.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS
F. A. Stuart
Price 25 Cts.

INDIGESTION Two Minute Relief!

Have you ever tried Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets? If not you should do so and perhaps find the relief you have long sought.

These tablets were first placed on sale in drug stores in December 1894, thirty-three years ago, and have steadily increased in popularity ever since as attested by millions of users.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain no soda nor any other harmful ingredient, but the desired alkaline effect is secured by a pleasant combination of Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate with other ingredients for the prompt relief of that acidity, discomfort after eating, nausea, fullness after meals, etc.

However the proof of the pudding is in the eating and if you wish to see what these tablets will do for your particular stomach, try the handy metal box for purse or pocket (enough for a full week's test) for a quarter at your druggist. The large size for 60 cents, and the family size $1.20. A sweet stomach for twenty-five cents!

"ALL THE FUNNY FOLKS" TELL STORY OF COMICS

Master Comics Book Again on Sale

To you—the kids of any ages,
Who read and love the funny pages,
To you, in every happy home
We dedicate this playful tome,
And hope if you are ever blue
'Twill bring a ray of cheer
To you.

This, the dedication of "All the Funny Folks," suggests the merry tone and captivating music in the master comics book, again on sale throughout the district,

Jack Lait, well known author, wrote the very merry story of the lives of the comic people, who, away from their papers, cut up all the capers of real life folks.

Once away from the influence of their creators, the comic artists, they do strange things—things that, in "All the Funny Folks," you'll enjoy. Dealers now have the books on sale again, after their sellout. Some of the dealers listed are:

SIX TRI-STATE COLLEGES FORM DEBATING LEAGUE

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 14.—Six colleges in the Pittsburgh district have formed the Tri-State Debating Conference, modeled somewhat after the tri-state sports conference which was organized three years ago. The schools comprising the new organization are Waynesburg, Thiel, Geneva, Westminster, Bethany and Grove City.

The organization is headed by Prof. Hillier Burroughs, English instructor, Grove City College. Harland Casteel, captain of the Waynesburg debating team, is secretary and treasurer. Dual debates will be held every other Thursday, starting February 9.

AND ALL ITS MUSIC

AMPICO SYMPHONIQUE

The Ampico Symphonique has a beautiful appearance. For it is gracefully made of deep-lustred satin mahogany. The Ampico Symphonique has tone and sturdy durability. For it is made by the same great house that safeguards the traditions of the Knabe. But, also, through its Ampico equipment, it has the ability to play any piano piece you want to hear when you want to hear it. It soothes and it rests you. Or it tingles and refreshes you. It is truly a beautiful Baby Grand plus all its music. And the price is only $1495, nearly $500 less than any former Ampico Grand. Come now and hear one. Easy monthly terms.

Neighbors Said — — Because She Complained So Much.

ONE DAY it was headaches, next day stomach troubled. And she used to be so good-looking. What a miserable life! The fact was she had many symptoms of System-Poisoning —professionally called "TOXEMIA"—and didn't know it!

There are thousands like her. When people feel constipated and nerves on edge, they take ordinary laxative pills and waters that fail to eliminate the poison wastes which develop dangerous bacteria in the intestines. That's why so many suffer. But just let such people take PARTOLA, the pleasant internal antiseptic and laxative, then watch those symptoms disappear! All good druggists sell regular size box 30¢, double size 50¢.

Stricken in the epidemic of cachexia (run-down condition)

Jumpy and irritable, sleepless at night, fagged out, listless and weary during the day. Those are the signs of cachexia (run-down condition.) The remedy may, and often does, lie in a simple food —yeast—which is world famous as a tonic and conditioner.

For better health, for energy by day and sound sleep by night, try eating yeast. But get it in its pure, easy-to-eat form, Yeast Foam Tablets. This yeast you'll like. Swallow it or, like most folks, chew it like candy.

At all counters in the 5c handy packet or at drug stores in the large 50c bottle.

MUSICAL PLAY RETURNING

Charles Meakins, the dashing Sargeant Malone in "Rose-Marie," is a Canadian by birth. He was a practicing physician before he felt the call of the theater. Mr. Meakins will return to the Alvin in "Rose-Marie" for one week only, beginning Monday evening, December 19, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The sale of seats will begin tomorrow morning.

Helen Carew, who plays the eccentric character part of Agatha Bloom in "Wooden Kimono," the mystery thriller in the Nixon, is a product of the Pacific coast, where she received excellent training in stock.

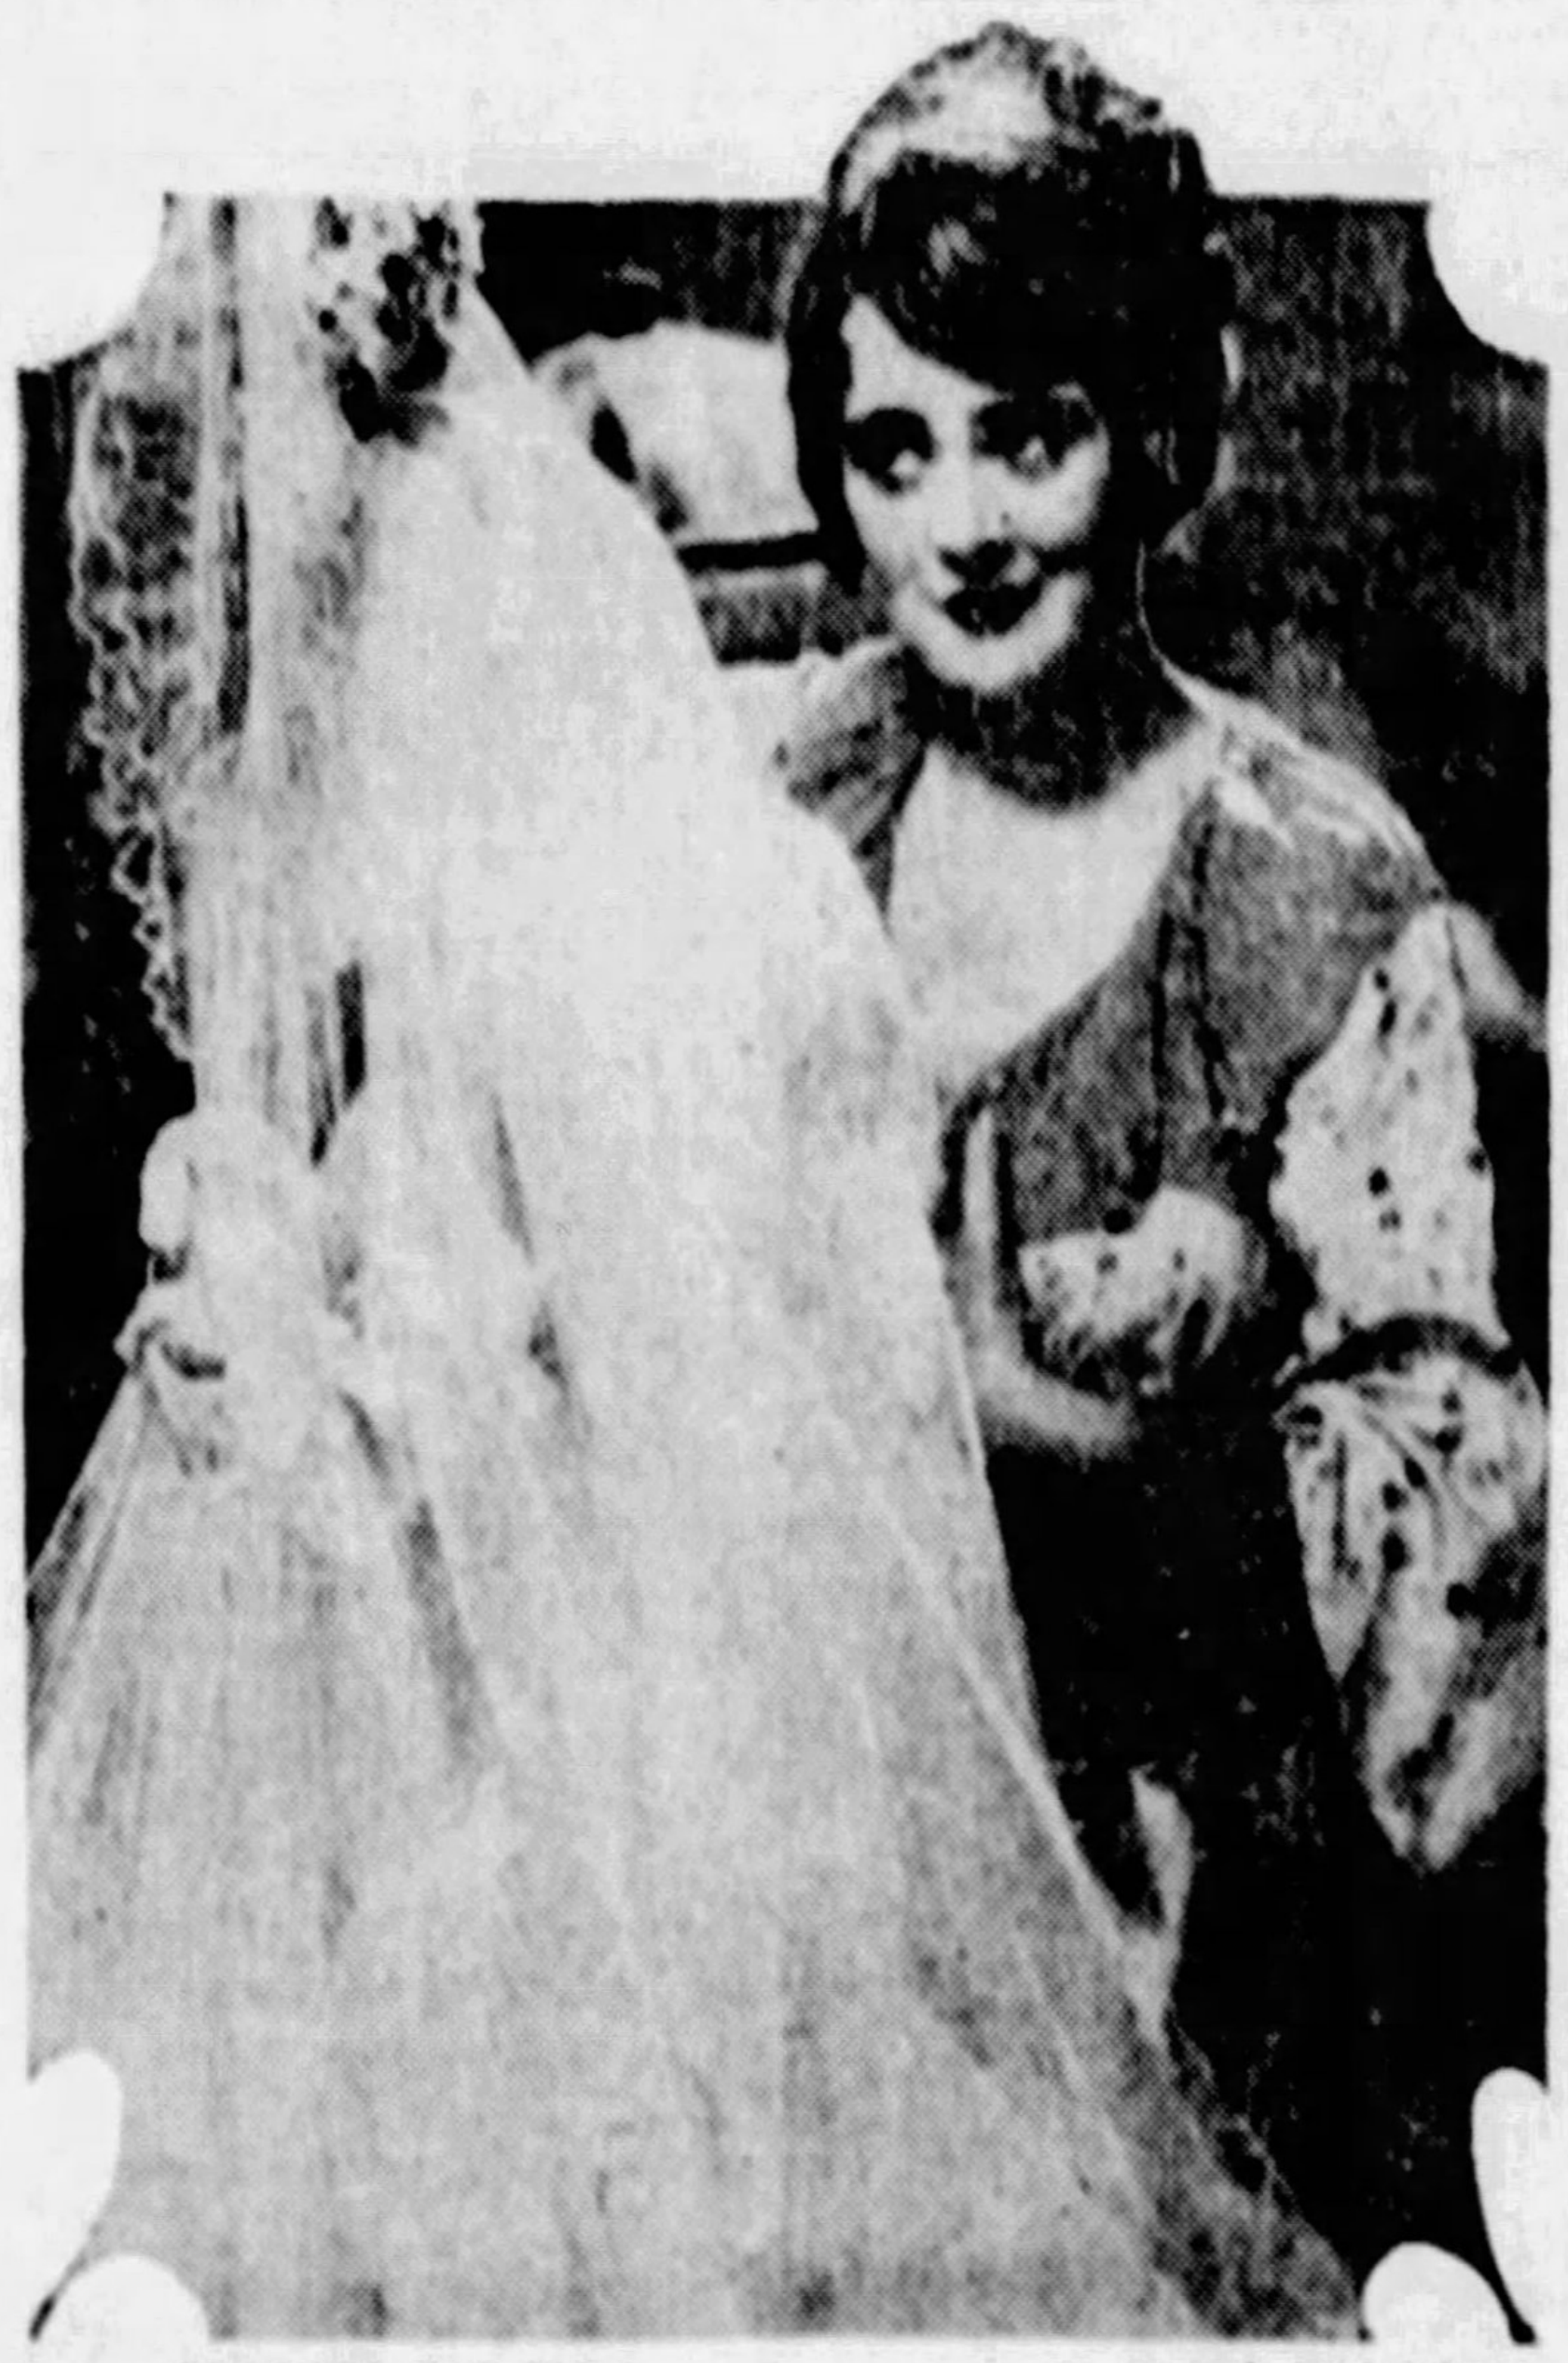
"Saturday's Children," with a cast headed by Ruth Gordon, will come to the Pitt Christmas week.

The Earl Carroll "Vanities," Christmas week attraction in the Nixon, has a cast including Moran and Mack, Julius Tannen and Johnny Dooley.

GRAND OPERA QUARTET IN MOSQUE TOMORROW

A quartet of opera artists will give the fourth concert in the May Beegle series in Syria Mosque tomorrow night. They are Nina Morgana, soprano; Paul Althouse, tenor, and William Gustafson, baritone, all of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, and Kathryn Meisle, contralto, of the Chicago Grand Opera. In addition to songs and arias by each artist, the concerted numbers on the program will include the trio from the prison scene from Gounod's "Faust," by Miss Morgana, Mr. Althouse and Mr. Gustafson; judgment scene from Verdi's "Aida," by Miss Meisle and Mr. Althouse; the quartet "Bella Figlia dell'Amore" from Verdi's "Rigoletto," and the "Good Night" quartet from Flotow's "Martha" by the four artists.

Wedding Scenery



MOLLY O'DAY feasts her eyes on the matrimonial insignia, bridal veil, orange blossoms and all, in a scene from "The Lovelorn," photoplay of the Beatrice Fairfax serial now appearing in The Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers. It will be on the screen soon.

DEMPSEY GIVEN FILM OFFER

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

If Jack Dempsey cares to star in four pictures, all he has to do is put his signature on a contract and Tiffany will do the rest. The offer given Mr. Dempsey is interesting in that he can make his films anytime and anywhere he chooses. He can also approve, or disapprove, the stories. What more need anyone ask? Being the literal minded type, I suppose, of course, Tiffany-Stahl would insist that the former heavyweight champion make a prize fight drama, but I am told only one of the stories will deal with the squared ring. (Attention, Mark Kelly, is that language correct?) The other three are to be straight dramas with Jack as the hero.

No agreement has yet been officially reached, but negotiations are on and it seems likely Mr. Dempsey will spend his time for the next few months in the studio instead of doing road work and other strenuous exercise.

While Mr. Dempsey is facing the camera, the indications are that his wife, Estelle Taylor, will be doing the same, but at another studio. She has finished "The Whip Woman," now being titled, and at the moment she is considering two other offers. Looks as if the Dempsey family will be fairly busy in 1928.

Seeing Lila Lee in a trim tailored suit and looking not a day over 18, I wondered why some of these producers on the lookout for youth and talent didn't sign her. One of them did. Lila is now at the California studio where she is emoting in "You Can't Beat the Law." I know it sounds like a thriller and probably is, but it does seem that the public enjoys this kind more than any other.

Cornelius Keefe, who in his quiet way has landed more leading man jobs in the shortest time than any actor in captivity, plays the lead opposite Miss Lee. I believe Mr. Keefe only landed in Hollywood a year ago, and is now playing in his eighth consecutive picture. How's that for a record?

With Col. Lindbergh to fly to Mexico and Will Rogers, the flying ace of the movies, in the same country, what would be more natural than to

Too Many Santas, So Whiskers Come Off

Why the Santa Clauses on the downtown streets are minus their customary long whiskers and why most of them are shorn of their white locks, has been discovered, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Public Welfare Department, announced that she requested abandonment of the whiskers as a result of numerous protests from parents and also for sanitary reasons.

Numerous mothers declare they have had a hard time explaining the presence of so many Santa Clauses. Social agencies also resent the army of Kris Kingles. And many children are permitted to kiss Santa and this, it is feared, might not be sanitary.

Mrs. Rauh was advised that the department could withhold permits for Santa Clauses if the beards were not removed. The Volunteers of America readily agreed to remove the whiskers from the men they have on the streets and sent a letter thanking Mrs. Rauh for the suggestion.

GUY CAMPBELL TO BACK VOTE MACHINES

"Replying to your esteemed favor of December 9, asking me to express an opinion with reference to voting machines," says Congressman Guy E. Campbell, in a letter received by The Sun-Telegraph today, "I wish to say that it is my purpose to vote for the Constitutional amendment authorizing their use. I believe every safeguard should be placed around the ballot. It is the most sacred privilege enjoyed by an American citizen.

"The use of the machines should encourage people to vote; the failure of the people to vote, in so many instances, is responsible for the unsatisfactory conditions existing. This in itself is a great penalty. If people could but realize the cost of their failure to exercise their right of franchise, the vote at every election would be many times greater than it is at present. Voting machines provide a means for an absolutely accurate count. The people should be guaranteed this, and the candidates should acquiesce and accept a just and fair count as the will of the people.

"I trust the press of our state will keep the Constitutional amendment, authorizing the use of voting machines, prominently before the voters of our commonwealth between now and the next election, in order that everyone who casts the ballot for President and the members of Congress will voice his convictions with reference to the machine."

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

THIS is the tragic time of year, when a bachelor trembles at the thought of what the women will give him, and the married man trembles at the thought of what they'll take away from him.

Man was once a savage and could express himself to a woman only in grunts and dumb signs. Now he is civilized, and has added baby-talk, profanity and alibis to his vocabulary.

Long engagements are a form of mutual monopoly, in which love just naturally dies of suffocation.

HELEN ROWLAND

What can you expect of a modern man, when even a wise man like Solomon had nine hundred and ninety-nine changes of heart before he found out what kind of a girl really appealed to him?

Nowadays it is a toss-up, whether a girl would rather have enough "It" to get a rich husband, or enough money to buy a fascinating one.

No man can be entirely spontaneous and natural with a girl until he feels sure he has convinced her that he is "NOT" the marrying kind." Then, she can go right ahead and lead him to the altar, without even bothering to put blinders on him.

When a young widow's mourning is too becoming, a man doesn't know whether to look upon it as a warning or as an invitation.

Telling a man that it is foolish or dangerous for him to love you, that you are too young, too old, too sad or too busy for love, is merely trying to put out the fire by throwing gasoline on it.

One reason why a man is always so cheerful and philosophic is that no matter how much of his life lies behind him, he always feels that there is another woman waiting somewhere ahead of him.

To die for love may take courage; but to marry for it is the real test of heroism, these material days.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Thursday, December 15.

A DAY of laborious effort is favored and encouraged by the planetary forces, which seem to place stubborn obstacles in the way to be surmounted through perseverance and resolution. It may be difficult to put over much of constructive achievements.

The square of Saturn to Luna is a retarding and delaying influence, to be surmounted by patient effort. The slightly inimical position of Venus may be responsible for inharmonies and unpleasantness in personal matters.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of obstruction and delay unless they push forward with determination and perseverance.

A child born on this day should be given an education to fit it to surmount difficulties in life by patience and perseverance. It may make its way by means of laborious effort and studious application.

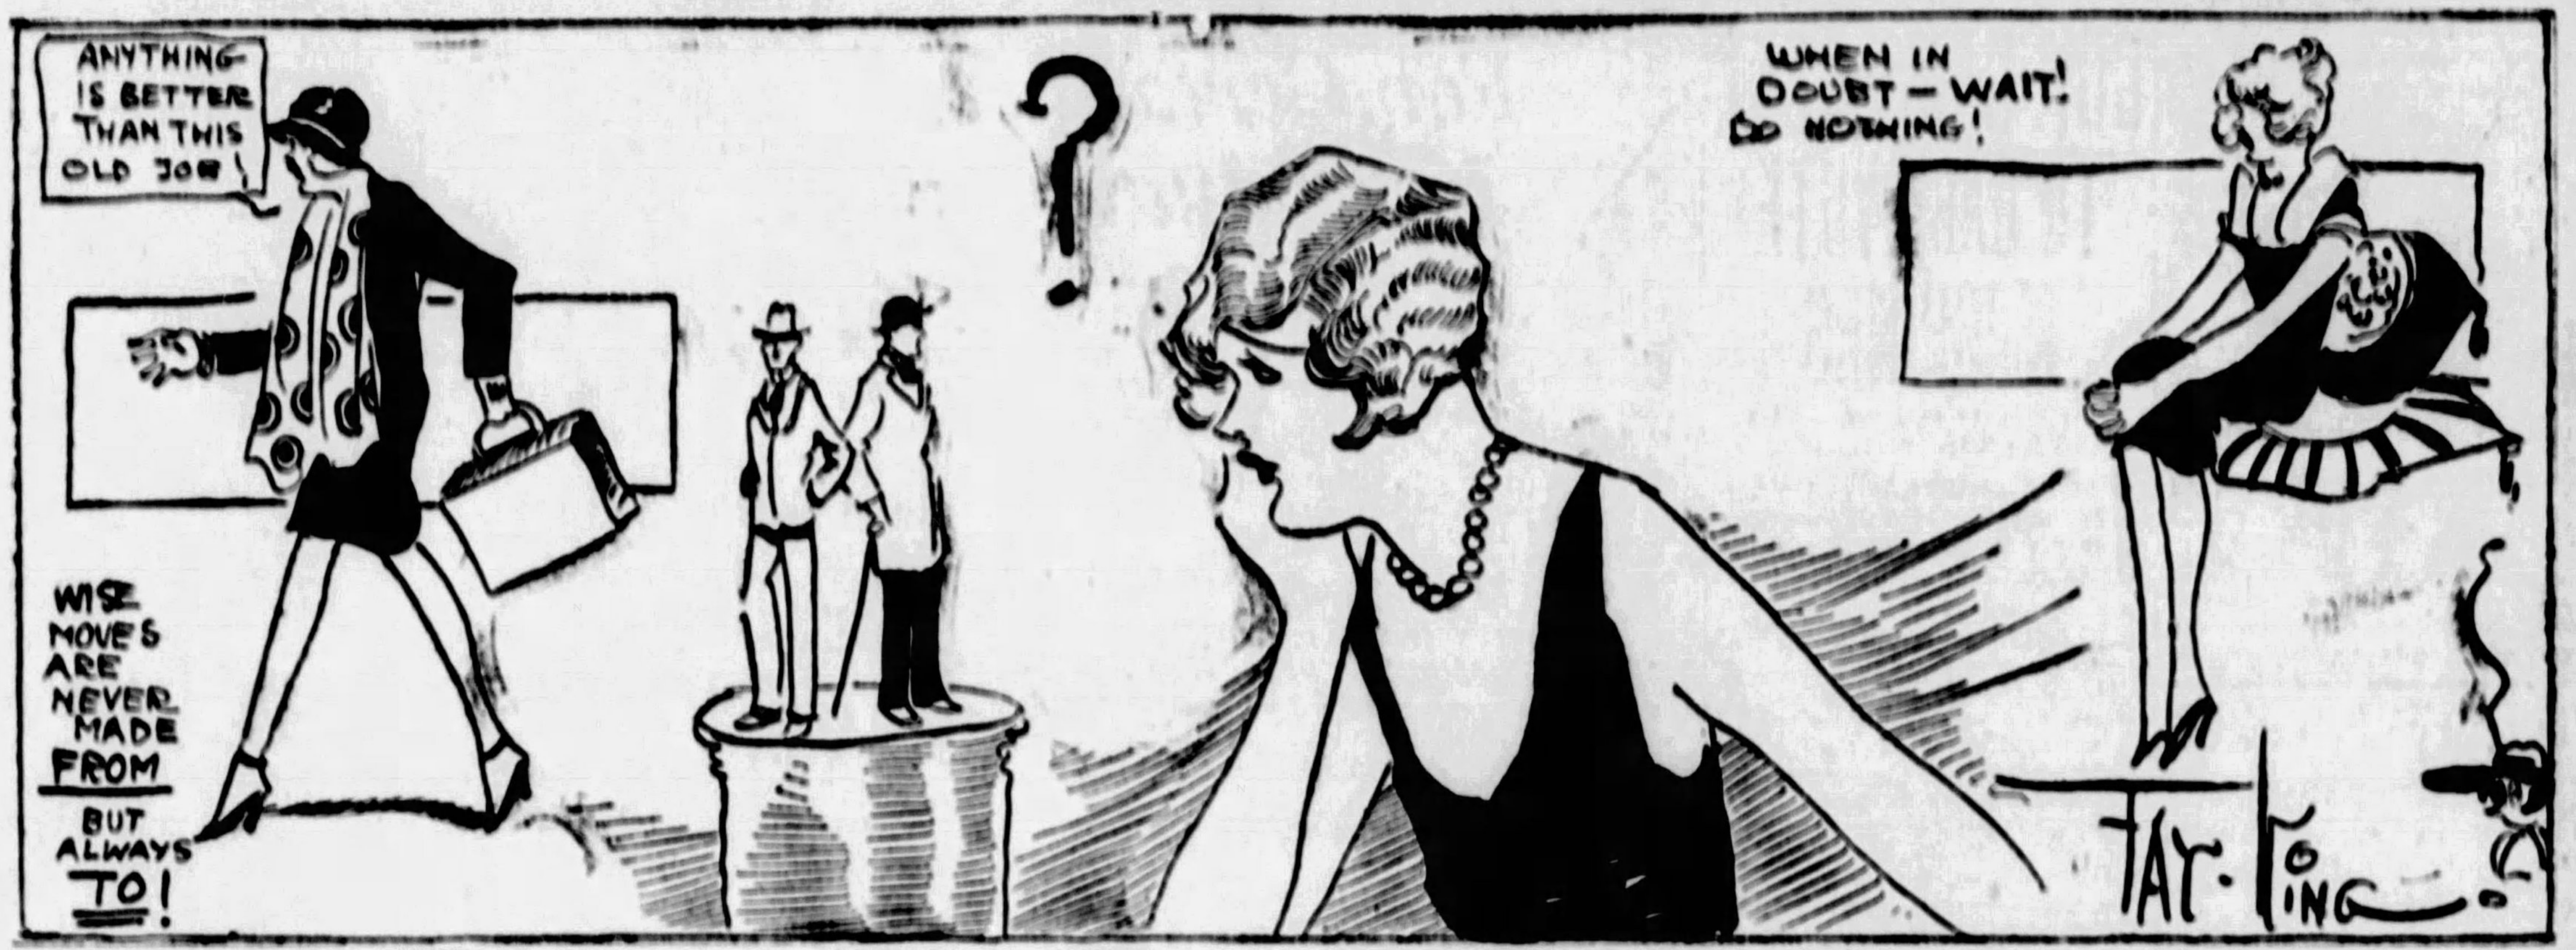
Go Slow in Matrimony Changes, Says Fay King



ANYTHING IS BETTER THAN THIS OLD JOB!
WISE MOVES ARE NEVER MADE FROM BUT ALWAYS TO!
WHEN IN DOUBT—WAIT! DO NOTHING!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

IN THIS day when engagements are announced before divorces are secured, advising the lovelorn must indeed be a difficult problem for those who specialize in that!

Sometimes I also receive letters from persons who ask my advice along these lines.

Some time ago a perplexed young woman wrote me a letter explaining that while she loves her husband he will drink too much.

Another man has come into her life who sympathizes with her and she finds herself wondering whether she should leave her husband and marry this other man.

What would I advise?

Well, all I can say is that personally I have always found that in all matters of change, whether one is dissatisfied with the place he works, the house he lives in or the person he is married to, it is never wise to change FROM—but always to change TO!

This may sound a bit complicated, but what I mean is that when we make any change more to get away than to advance, we are apt to use poor judgment.

Our judgment is at the moment too colored with dissatisfaction to estimate properly the good of the move.

It always pays to wait and do nothing when one is in doubt or unduly prejudiced against present conditions and environment.

Many persons in the haste to get away from their unpleasant present have picked even worse futures.

My advice to this particular lady would be that she go away and see neither her husband nor her friend for some time. Absence may inspire her husband to realize how much she means to him and he will stop drinking.

And she may find that her interest in her friend is not so much real affection as merely response to his sympathy.

What's the Answer?

1. In what state is the Muscle Shoals power development located?
2. With what product are the names Chantilly and Cluny chiefly associated?
3. Into what two nations did the Jewish people divide after the death of Solomon?
4. Who is the present King of Italy?
5. In French history, what was "The Directory"?
6. What was "The Lost Atlantis"?
7. What causes lightning?
8. What man gave his name to an early photographic process?
9. Who composed "The Magic Flute"?
10. With what is the name Gobelin usually associated?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. The writings of Voltaire and Denis Diderot contributed toward the French Revolution.
2. Horse-power is a unit of power, equalling 550 foot-pounds per second.
3. The name of George Westinghouse is usually associated with railway air brakes.
4. John Paul Jones was the first great naval hero of America.
5. Charles Martel defeated the Moslems between Tours and Poitiers in 732 A. D.
6. Count von Moltke commanded the German forces in the Franco-Prussian War of 1870.
7. The Saturnalia was a Roman festival, held in December, in honor of the god, Saturn.
8. William Somerset Maugham wrote "The Moon and Sixpence."
9. A locomotive backs up before starting ahead so as to leave slack in the couplings between each car, so that the locomotive can start ahead with the least inertia to overcome.
10. Robert Ingersoll was a Union colonel in the Civil War who is chiefly known as an orator and an atheist.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Stomach and Brain Work in Harmony.

IS THERE any way to control the temper except by the exercise of will-power?

The other day I discussed this subject with a friend whom I met on a train. He said, "Whenever I eat too much within a few hours I find myself in bad humor."

DR COPELAND

There can be no doubt that there is an intimate relationship between the digestive organs and the brain. The most modern of the brain specialists recognize this.

A great insane asylum has the reputation of discharging the largest percentage of its intimates. In this institution the condition of the intestinal tract of every patient is always a matter of study.

Of course, there must be something more than indigestion to cause insanity. But long continued indigestion prepares the way for infections which may lead to mental unbalance.

To overload the stomach, particularly with gas producing foods, makes you feel uncomfortable. Pretty soon you are cross and irritable. You are in bad humor and your associates suffer in consequence.

It is a great mistake to give way to appetite. It makes no difference what appetite it is. To indulge it is to prepare the way for disaster.

Your appetites should be under full control. It is just as dangerous to give unrestrained freedom to the gratification of appetite, as it is for a drunken chauffeur to drive his car in absolute disregard of the rules of traffic.

Most of our tastes are cultivated tastes. We have to learn to like lots of the things we eat. It is harder to "unlearn." But common sense tells you it is important to give up some of the things you "just love" to eat.

Perhaps it is more important to eat moderately of the things you particularly enjoy. If you cannot bring yourself to moderation regarding those foods, it is better to give them up entirely.

To be good natured, to be vigorous, to be healthy, you must eat sensibly and temperately. To indulge freely and frequently will destroy your usefulness and threaten your life.

I have my favorite foods and have to be extremely careful not to partake too freely of some of them. What a temptation to say with Rip Van Winkle, "We won't count this one!"

It wouldn't matter much if overeating or eating the wrong thing made you merely uncomfortable. But it makes you uncomfortable to others. You may do as you like with your own body, but you have no business to make other people unhappy.

Then, as a last word, you have no moral right to undermine your health. You have been intrusted by the Creator with a perfectly made body. It is your duty to keep it in perfect order.

Answers to Health Queries.

A. R. Q.—How may I gain in weight? How can one develop the chest?

A.—Building up the general health should bring about results. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

Featherweight
White CAKE
A Tested Recipe

½ cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 egg whites
⅔ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco with sugar. Stir in alternately milk and sifted dry ingredients. Fold in thoroughly stiffly beaten egg whites. Add vanilla and turn batter into two greased layer pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

Ice with cocoanut or maple icing, or Crisco white icing.

Crisco White Icing

2 cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons Crisco
3 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon almond or lemon extract

Cream Crisco with egg and salt. Add milk and rest of sugar and flavoring. Mix well.

Crisco gives me delicious cakes that you simply cannot tell from butter cakes—light and tender, with a fine, even texture. But Crisco is by no means limited to cake making. I find that I can always depend on Crisco for flakier pie crusts, fluffier biscuits, dainty desserts and for all frying.

To test your cooking fat—taste it.
Crisco's sweet flavor will astonish you.

Crisco is the trade-mark for a superior shortening manufactured and guaranteed purely vegetable by The Procter & Gamble Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.

Sun-Tele Bird House Club sales hustlers, busy getting New Reader subscriptions, collecting their 50-cent bonuses, and piling up totals that will show, have only three more days to get their subscriptions in, if they would share in the prize list.

Saturday is the last day for subscriptions to be counted in the awarding of the 28 special prizes. And the urgent advice is to get the subscriptions in as quickly as possible before that day. To hold back, according to the manager of the Bird House Club, means delay in the tabulation of the list, and the publishing of the winners.

Additional blanks can be obtained in the event any care to get them, by calling Grant 6501. Some of the boys and girls are winding up their campaign, because they know that, even if they do not win one of the special prizes, each subscription is worth a half-dollar, and enough half-dollars mean enough Christmas money.

But the manager announces that sales of New Reader subscriptions can follow on after Saturday. The only thing that closes on that day is the special prize award.

Workers, rush in your subscriptions.

Jack Dempsey May Try Stage Heroics

have Mayor Rogers return to the U. S. A. with the colonel. Sam Rork isn't so fussy now about Rogers' flying because the new picture won't start until March, and when Rogers isn't actually in production he feels his escapades in the air are his own business.

While both Mr. Rork and his star are trying to make up their minds on a story—there is some idea that "The Houseboat on the Styx," John Kendrick Bangs' celebrated novel, may be the next Rogers-Rork comedy. At one time United Artists planned to make this with each one of the stars playing a part, but like many things in the changeable movies it never materialized. The cowboy star, I hear, has set his heart on Bangs' novel.

After 10 years, Norman Kerry and Universal Pictures are parting company. Six of these years were consecutive and the other four were intermittent. Mr. Kerry, who has played in most of Universal's best dramas, finishes his contract next week—and then? Well, there is an offer and the chances are Mr. Kerry will accept it, but until the papers are signed he isn't giving the name of the company. I accused him of being headed for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but he refused to deny or affirm. However, the papers are to be signed this week and then the big news made public.

It will be the first of the year before Marion Davies returns to Hollywood. In other words, she writes she will spend Christmas in New York, returning home shortly after the first of the year. Although it seems reasonably certain "Her Cardboard Lover" will be her next picture, there is some talk on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot that "Polly Preferred" may precede "Her Cardboard Lover." "Polly Preferred," which ran in New York as a play, is the story of a girl in pictures. It has been in the possession of the Cosmopolitan Company for some time and is regarded by those who know the value of stories as being an excellent property. "Her Cardboard Lover" was likewise a Broadway hit, with Jeanne Eagles as the star.

Two people are scanning their production schedules eagerly with a view of making them coincide. Kenneth Hawks, producing on the Fox lot wants the month of February free, or at least two weeks in February. Mary Astor, starring at First National studios, asks the same privilege from First National. Yes, they want to get married. Their long-deferred marriage rumored from month to month is now definitely set for February.

Seems to me never has the field for original scenarios been more promising. Every day I hear of someone who has crashed the gates successfully. Mort Blumenstock has three to his credit, all Universal stories. The first, "Home James," and the last, "Young Blood." All this, if you please, in two months. "Young Blood" will star George Lewis and will be directed by Wesley Ruggles. I sincerely believe the pendulum is swinging toward originals and that we shall have more originals for 1928 than any time in 10 years. Mebbe I'm wrong. Sometimes I am.

It wouldn't be the holiday season if there weren't rumors of engagements now and then. The latest concerns Kenneth Harlan and Charlotte Bird. This may or may not be true, and I'm not printing it as anything more than gossip. Yet, you'll admit once in a while these rumors do come true. In fact, in looking back over the year, I find that, in nine cases out of ten, rumored marriages have actually taken place.

Beery and Hatton In Underworld Comedy

Wipe away the tears children, and adults, chase away the gloom frowns. There is to be no comedy famine this winter. On the contrary it is to be a busy season for Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, inimitable team of joy spreaders.

Beery and Hatton are to be kept busy and the world is to be kept laughing. That is the word from B. P. Schulberg, associate producer at the Hollywood studio.

The next step the two comedy stars are to make in their campaign to keep the world in laughter is a step into the underworld, according to word emanating from their studio. A burlesque crook melodrama tentatively titled "Partners in Crime" is to be their next opera.

A LUXURIOUS FUR COAT

REGARDLESS of what a woman expects for Christmas . . . she wants a fur coat!

The coats in this group represent the furs most popular this season. Caracul, beautifully matched pelts in brown, beige, or black. Hudson seal (dyed muskrat)—thick, lustrous fur. Caracul broadtail in beige shades. Black Russian pony. Ocelot, leopard cat, jersey muskrat.

Sometimes just the cut of the collar will change the coat from dress to sports type. Collars and cuffs are often of contrasting furs—squirrel, lynx, pointed fox, red fox, badger, fitch. The lines are slim and youthful, yielding to the silhouette as softly as fine fabric coats.

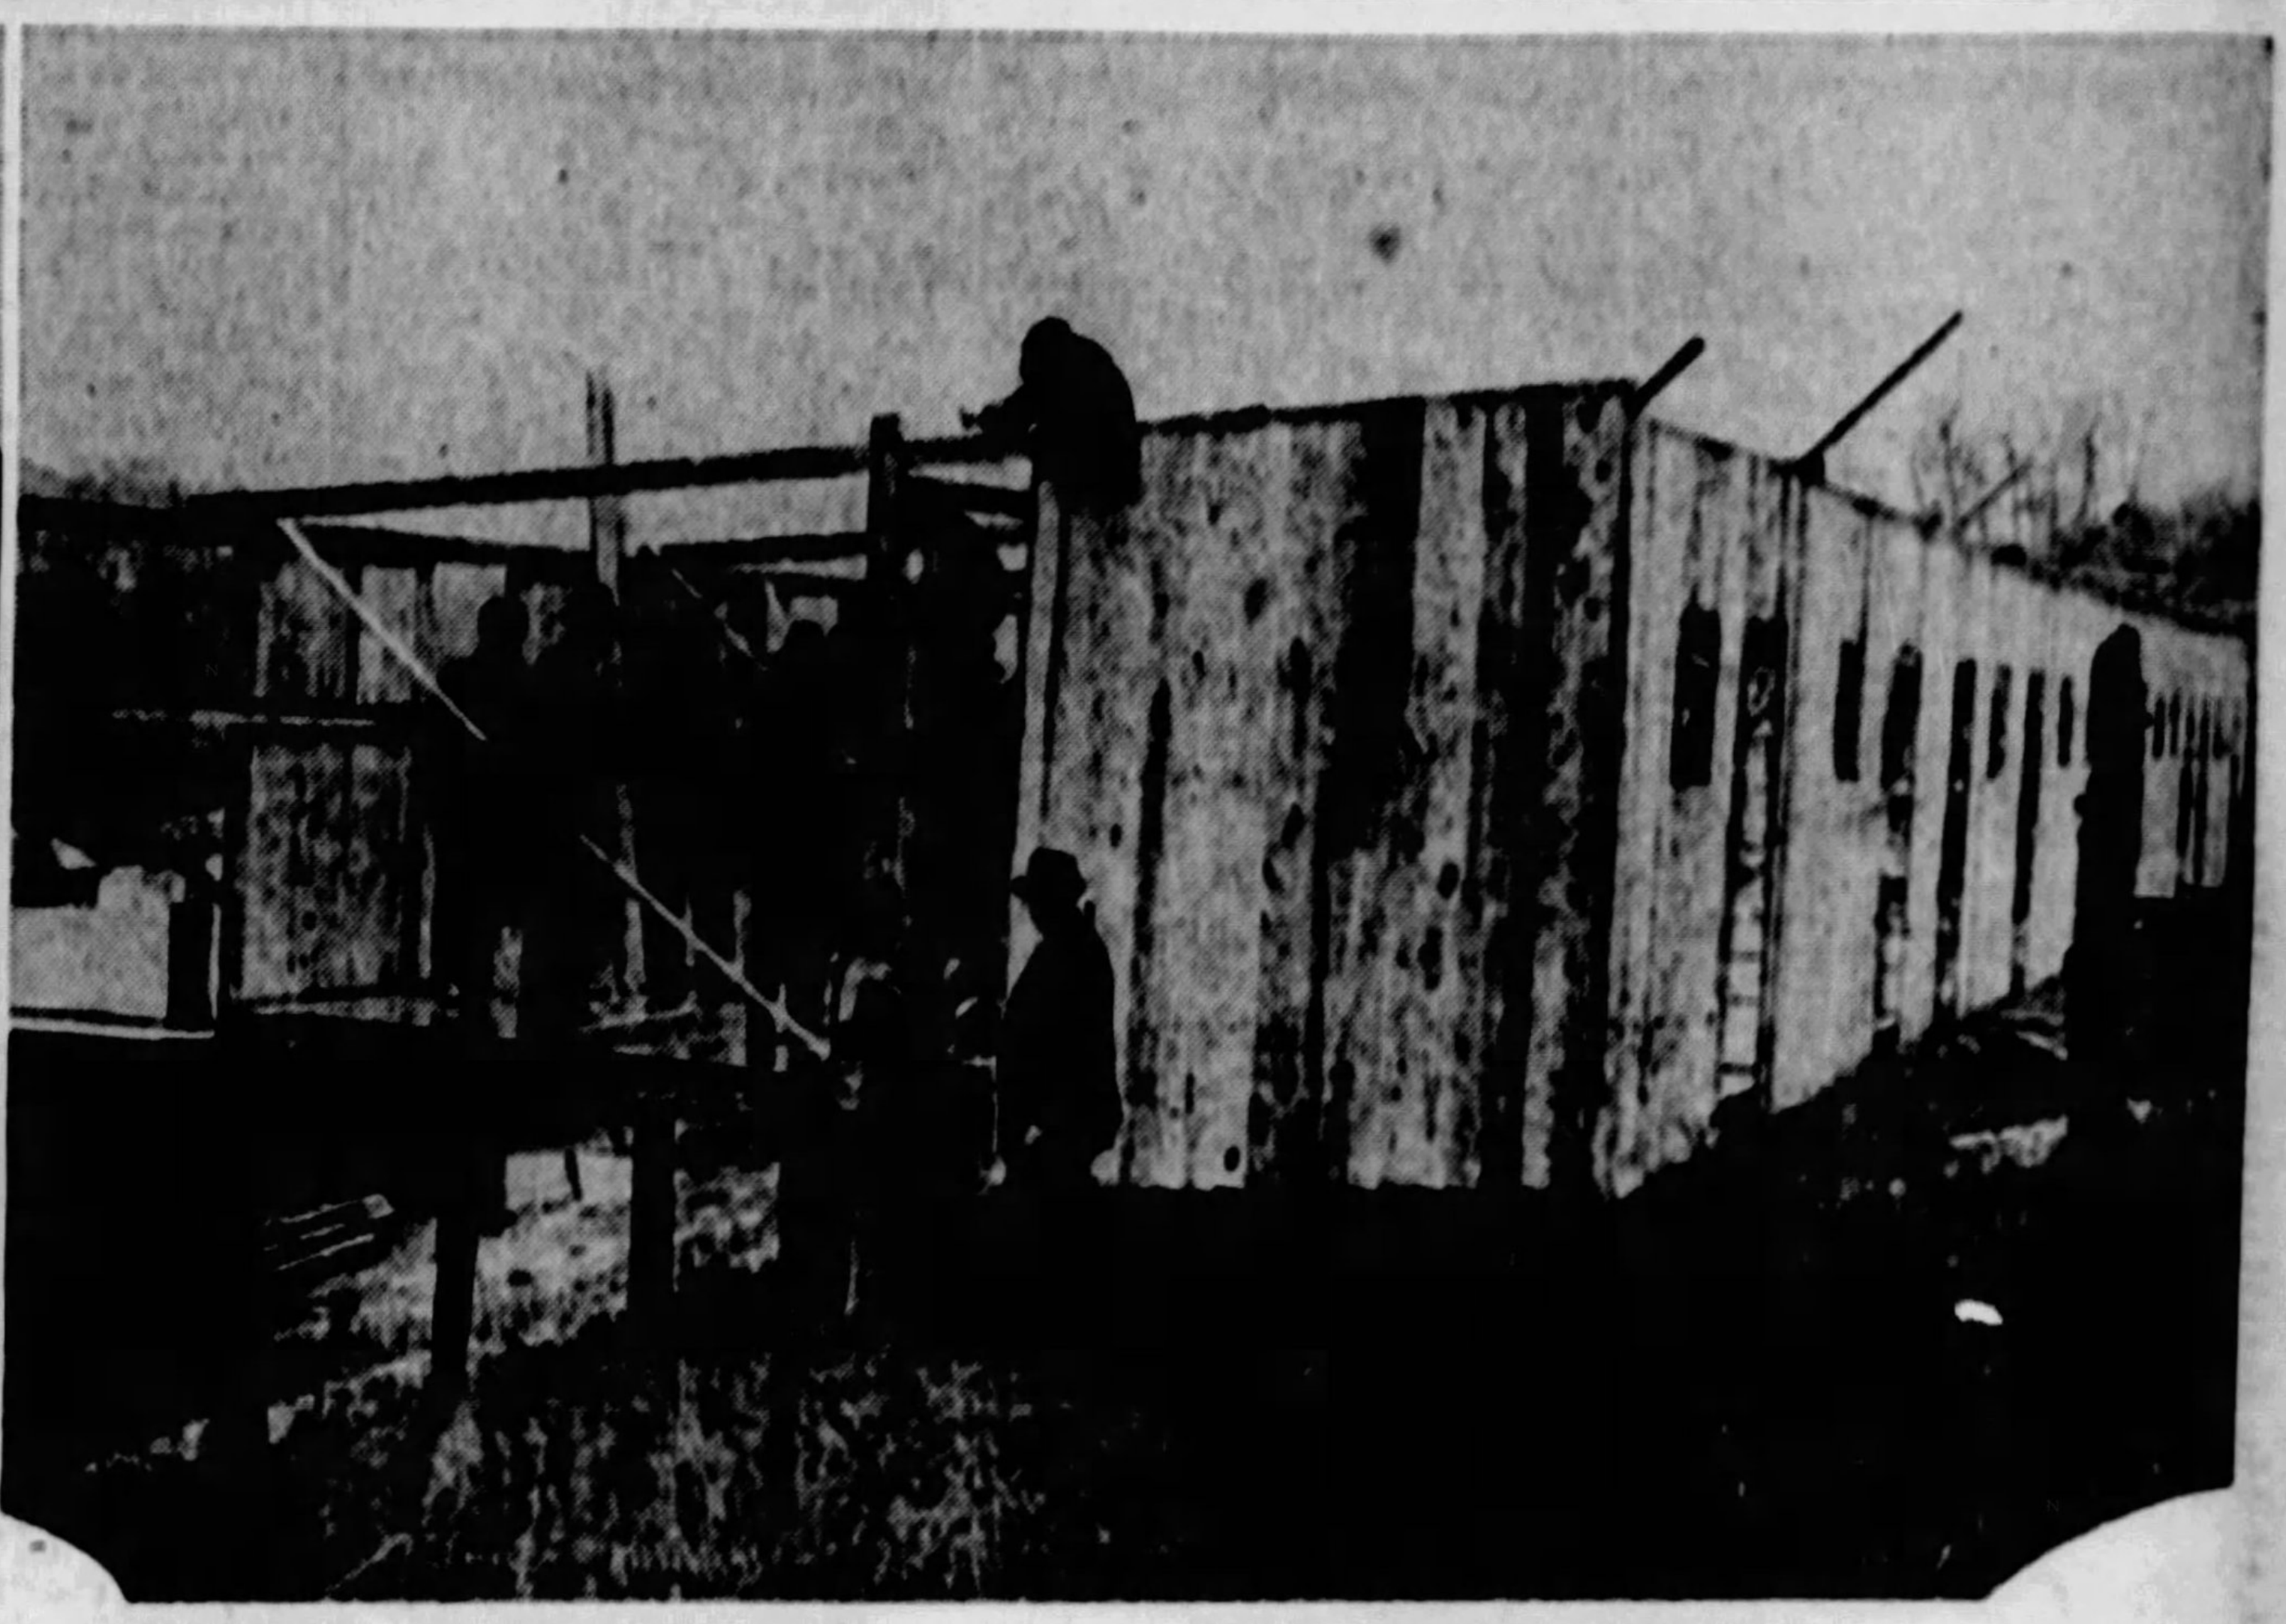
FAMILIES, PENNILESS, FORCED FROM HOMES

In which are shown some of the reasons why the Pittsburgh public will, next Tuesday, bundle up clothes and shoes for the striking miners' families. The family of Frank Mikush, the first to be evicted from a company house of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, No. 8 mine, Castle Shannon, July 14, consisting of Mikush, his wife and nine children, have been housed in the Union's hall.

MORE MUST GO TUESDAY

Mary Jane Mcine, 14, with her two little brothers, Harry 3, and George 5, who will lose their home next Tuesday. If clothes "make the man," these youngsters would be easy to look at if they had some new "duds."



WORKMEN RACE AGAINST TIME—AND WINTER COLD

Striking miners at No. 2 mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, Castle Shannon, hard at work preparing a home for the 82 families that will be evicted from their homes in company houses December 20. With every available man hard at work on the job and many of the women pressed into service, too, for the emergency, the miners hope to have these buildings completed ahead of the more severe winter temperatures.

INTERNATIONAL AIR MAIL PLAN IN KELLY BILL

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Another bill which is expected to have a far-reaching effect on the development of aviation and the expansion of air mail service has been laid before Congress by Representative Clyde Kelly, of Braddock, Pa.

The measure, indorsed by President Coolidge and Postmaster General Harry S. New, opens the way for the establishment of air mail service between the United States and foreign countries by giving authority to the Postmaster General to grant contracts to private companies for the performance of such a service.

It is designed especially to promote air mail service between the United States and the South and Central American republics, although provision is made also for extending the service to the continent of Europe when commercial aviation has progressed that far.

Already, it was stated, a number of aviation companies have let it be known at the Postoffice Department that they would be interested in bidding on routes to the Southern republics.

The rates authorized in the bill allow private aircraft companies to transport mail in bulk at $2 a mile. Deficits resulting would be made up from the regular appropriations for foreign mail service.

FILM GIRL SUING THAW BARES LOVE NOTES

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—Miss Forest Hope Wall, of Culver City, former film extra, who brought a $100,000 breach-of-promise suit against Harry K. Thaw, has revealed some of the letters she said the Pittsburgh millionaire had written her.

Miss Wall, who asserts Thaw met her at Laguna Beach in May, 1923, a time when he is supposed to have been in a Pennsylvania hospital, says he sent her letters, frequently containing small sums of money, over a period of three years.

The letters made public by Miss Wall are all in typewriting, even the signature being typed. Two were signed "Harry" and several notes bore no signature.

The letters are somewhat rambling. One, dated July 14, 1925, contained the passage:

"Only one part in your letter I could not see this time and that was about books. For no one ever lives to read all. Even books published this year."

This letter, which was unsigned, asks that photographs be mailed.

A letter dated September 2, 1925, said:

"Your letter is far, far late, but besides this $20 you'll get another very quick, so that is $40. Besides your good photographs cost. Besides I'm glad since you sent such nice ones."

A note dated September 21, 1925, read in part as follows:

"—But you said you would love me even if I cared for others, because you promised me you would marry me, just like the girl in Quo Vadis, of course that is hard to understand."

Thaw today pounded out a rather cryptic statement on a typewriter. He inquired why newspapers printed such things as "my walking near the Pacific in 1922, when I have not seen the ocean for over 10 years."

In conclusion his statement said:

"How can lawyers put in a suit to hurt people. Here I must pay at least $25 to shut up this fake. Why should I have to pay legal services $25?"

Thaw is said to have admitted sending several letters to Miss Wall, once enclosing the sum of $20.

BAR CITY TO VICE BARON

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Los Angeles has found at least one middle-westerner whom it does not want for a visitor—"Scarface Al" Capone, reputed beer baron and gangland boss of Chicago.

Virtually a man without a city, Capone today was speeding eastward on a train which he and two traveling companions had boarded under the watchful eye of "Roughouse" Brown, big Los Angeles police detective, who acted as their official escort on orders from the city hall.

To reporters, Capone philosophized dryly on his enforced departure, and bemoaned the fact that he also was a man without a drink. Shortly before the train left he discovered that a jug of wine was missing from his luggage.

"We have no room here for Capone or any other visiting gangster," said James E. Davis, Los Angeles chief of police, as he served notice on Capone that he wasn't desired as a tourist.

"Chicago can get along nicely without Capone or his ilk," Chief of Police Huges of Chicago was quoted as saying yesterday in announcing that Al Capone "isn't coming back to Chicago."

"That's funny," said Capone, when told of Hughes' statement just before he boarded the eastbound train. "I'm a property owner and a taxpayer in Chicago and I certainly can return to my own home. Anyhow, I don't believe the chief said that. It's probably some newspaper making it hot for me again."

Although he dubbed Los Angeles as the "wrong town," Capone said he liked the country and intended to return to Southern California. A friend, he said, had given him the "open sesame" to Los Angeles.

"I've found out what to do," he said. "When I get a little business done in Chicago I'm going to send out a lot of money here and have some real estate man buy me a large house. Then I'll be a taxpayer, and they can't send me away. Anyway, when the real estate men find out I've money they won't let me go, even if I want to."

"I just came here for a little rest," the alleged gangster explained in the face of the municipal farewell sendoff. "If they don't want me here, well, that's good enough for me."

HAMMER ROBBER CAPTURED

Beaten with a hammer by a man who attempted to rob him yesterday in Lemington avenue, near Washington boulevard, Robert Holmes, 23, 6750 Simonton avenue, a truck driver employed by the National Biscuit Company, is in the Pittsburgh Hospital suffering from bruises on the head. Louis Weisberg, said to have made the robbery attempt, is held by police in the Frankstown Avenue Station.

Weisberg was riding on a truck with Holmes when he is said to have struck him with the hammer. W. J. Kerns, a former policeman who heard Holmes call for help, chased Weisberg from the truck onto a street car and there knocked him unconscious. He turned Weisberg over to police.

EXTORTION CASE DISMISSED

Extortion charges preferred against John Bodnar, 33, brother of Councilman-elect Joseph Bodnar of Homestead, were dismissed last night at a hearing before Burgess John Cavanaugh, of Homestead.

Steve Papas, 30, of Fifth avenue, Homestead, charged that Bodnar demanded $50 weekly as "hush money." Bodnar, he said, impersonated an officer and threatened to close Papas' store unless the money was paid.

Bodnar denied the story. John Klomar, 35, a partner of Bodnar, in his testimony contradicted Papas' allegations. The hearing was continued from Monday night.

An enthusiastic and curious audience gathered in Syria Mosque last night to hear Deems Taylor's and Edna St. Vincent Millay's first grand opera, "The King's Henchman." The crowd was curious to learn whether an American really could produce music on so large a scale, and was enthusiastic not only with hand-clapping, but in the halls where everyone shrieked his opinions at everyone else and where no one was agreeing at all.

The production was good enough to present a very fair idea of both writers' work. Jacques Samosoud might have kept the orchestra more subdued at times, the stage management might have heightened the effect of several scenes, and individual singers might have been more convincing. After all, it is Taylor's music that interests us most, and I believe he will become a successful operatic writer if the conditions continue under which he is now writing.

This young American musician has given us better opera than Cadman or Herbert. American operas before their time perished too soon to be compared with the "King's Henchman." Taylor's music is superior for many reasons. He writes first of all mode dramatically for the solo voice, even though his recitative becomes monotonous in its inflection. But he can write and sustain a melody and throughout his opera the undercurrent of orchestration is deeply and richly woven. He is not afraid of the contemporary syncopated forms and uses them freely in chorus and orchestra with refreshing effects. He suggests in the closing music of the first act the dramatic substance of the ensuing scenes, and builds excellent curtain music in every instance. It is joyous music. Taylor's shortcomings are told in the opening prelude; it lacks repose. He says a fine thing, but is either too impatient to be on with the show, or is not experienced enough to say it fully that his audience may grasp the impression. That happens throughout the opera, in the opening banquet scene, in the love scene too, but the proof that he can overcome the defect lies in the third act, where he created fine suspense at the King's arrival and before the death of Aethelwold. In the second act Taylor just succeeds in avoiding Wagner's Tristan music; he writes neither Debussy, Wagner nor Deems Taylor here. In the closing scene, however, we find his inconsistencies and his timidity leaving him, and there we have closely knit music that compares favorably with the best of the neo-Italian school which he most closely resembles. Only in the last act did I feel much emotion written into the score. Before that scene the libretto was responsible for real interest.

In last night's production, if the banquet scene had not been so cluttered the music would have sounded more effective. Henri Scott's King was well conceived and dignified throughout the evening. Rafaelo Diaz played Aetholwold like a weakling; his first entrance showed the opposite of his true character and left all following scenes unconvincing. Marie Sundelius played with more understanding than any other character, although there were few subtleties in her Aelfrida. Ordgar, Thane of Devon, and his household gave a good picture of the simplicity of ancient small court life. The chorus in every appearance was substantial musically, and made very effective pictures.

"Only a Sore Throat"

Don't ever underestimate the danger of a sore throat; if neglected, it may develop into something serious—as many know to their sorrow.

The same goes for a cold; pneumonia at this time of the year is your great enemy.

At the first sign of cold or throat irritation, use Listerine full strength as a gargle. Keep it up systematically.

Being antiseptic, it immediately attacks the countless disease-producing bacteria in mouth and throat, and halts many an ailment before it becomes dangerous.

During winter weather, when you are usually subjected to poor air and sharp changes in temperature, it's a good idea to use Listerine every day as mouth wash and gargle.

This pleasant and easy precaution may spare you a trying and painful siege of illness. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

IN DESPAIR OVER PIMPLY, RED SKIN

ITCHED AND BURNED— UGLY TO LOOK AT

Healed at last, quickly and easily

Charlotte, Mich., Oct. 21:—"I have been a sufferer from a most unsightly skin disorder, my face being full of pimples and blackheads and my complexion was very muddy. It was very ugly to look at as it was red and firey and it annoyed me by itching and burning. I tried many treatments, but got no relief. When I was a small baby I had eczema on my body and my mother used Resinol Ointment on it and she recommended it to me at this time. In desperation I decided to send for a sample of Resinol. After using the sample I bought more Resinol as I was convinced it was a splendid remedy. After I had applied it four times, the pimples began to heal and at the end of two weeks they had entirely disappeared. Now, I have such confidence in Resinol Ointment I would not be without it." PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Two Future Hostesses, With Many Buds in Attendance, to Be Honor Guests Saturday

TWO of the debutantes who have proved to be among the most popular of the season's crop of future hostesses, Mary Louise Johnson and Mary Mellon McClung, are to be guests of honor at still another party. Mrs. Leslie M. Johnston of Roslyn place is planning to give a luncheon Saturday, the day before Christmas, in the Pittsburgh Golf Club for the girls. The guests will, of course, include many of the buds and also an equal number of men, who will be home then from college for the holidays.

Interesting both to Pittsburghers and New Yorkers is the announcement made today by the Harry William Crofts of the Schenley apartments of the engagement of their daughter, Winifred Graham Croft, to William Stavely Wilson of East Sixty-seventh street, New York. Mr. Wilson is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander Wilson of Brooklyn.

Welcoming a prospective member of the family, Mrs. Benjamin Gilbert Follansbee of Bigelow boulevard and Mrs. William Uhlers Follansbee of Woodland road are entertaining at tea in the Twentieth Century Club this afternoon for Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Laura Fawell Lewis of Amberson avenue. It will be remembered that Elizabeth is to marry John Haynes Follansbee, son of the John Follansbees, on February 2.

The auditorium of the club, where the hostesses and their honor guest received, is rearranged as a drawing room and decorated with poinsettias and Christmas greens. Mrs. B. G. Follansbee is wearing black transparent velvet with a hat to match, while Mrs. W. U. Follansbee's gown is of black chiffon embroidered with gold and her hat is a black satin toque. Elizabeth is appearing in a charming frock of black lace over flesh-tinted satin, with a small black hat.

Tea is being served on the first floor of the club, the table in the card room being decorated with red roses and white lilacs, while an arrangement of yellow roses is used on the table in the dining room. The hostesses have as their aides Mrs. George L. Follansbee, Mrs. John Follansbee, Mrs. David C. Boyce, Mrs. Leland Wright, Mrs. Laura Fawell Lewis, Mrs. Howard S. Evans, Mrs. William J. Holland, Mrs. Pitt O. Heasley, Mrs. Hugh T. Kerr, Mrs. Charles C. Townsend, Mrs. Frank Semple, Mrs. Samuel B. McCormick, Miss Rachel McCormick and Mrs. L. S. Stewart, while Elizabeth is assisted by Rebecca Follansbee, Evelyn Fawell Evans, Sarah Louise Gwinner, Mathilda Keating, Mary Crabbe, Anna Kerr, Mary Shiras, Catherine Suydam, Mrs. Harkness Edwards, Mrs. Louis M. Hague and Mrs. Sidney Stewart.

Preceding two of the dances arranged for young people of the school set, Dr. and Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance of South Negley avenue will give dinner parties for their daughters and their visitors. On December 21, before the dance to be given by the C. D. Marshalls for their daughter, Jane, the Dorrances will entertain at dinner for their daughter, La Salle, who will be home then from Charleston, S. C., where she attends school, and Marion Goodwin of Charleston, whom she is bringing with her. Their second daughter, Eloise, and Mary Sutton of Charleston and Beaumont, Tex., who is also to spend the holidays with the Dorrances, will be guests of honor at a dinner to be given December 26 preceding the John J. Kennedys' dance for their daughter, Betty, and son, John J. Kennedy, Jr.

And still more school parties! The latest to announce a date chosen for such an affair are Dr. and Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards, Jr., who are to give a dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club December 21 in honor of their daughter, Katherine Harkness Edwards. Katherine is to arrive home from the Masters School at Dobbs Ferry on December 22.

Another, this one for Sewickley young people, is the dance to be given December 29 in the Allegheny Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Richards, of Woodland road, Sewickley, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gundry Jennings, of Irwin drive.

The first of the Tuesday cotillions was held last night in the Pittsburgh Club, with about 200 members of the debutante group attending. Four figures were danced, led by members of the cotillion committee, and it is interesting to note that not any of this year's buds served as their partners. John H. Ricketson III danced with Elizabeth Lupton Scott a debutante of last season, who was gowned in turquoise blue velvet; James Verner Scaife, Jr., had as his partner Mary Oliver, whose frock was of white and gold brocaded lame, and King Mellon led with Martha Chalfant, who wore rainbow tinted chiffon.

Before the dance, Genevieve Bell gave a dinner in her Ridge avenue home for Mary Childs, one of the season's debutantes.

The third round of the bridge tournament will be held tomorrow night in the Shannopin Country Club. Plans are being made for special Christmas dinners December 25 and 26 for members and their guests. The junior dance for the school and college set will be held December 27 and the monthly luncheon for women members and their guests will be held December 28. The annual New Year's Eve dinner dance will be held December 31 from 7:30 to 12 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Graham of Grand avenue, North Side, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Amelia I. Graham, to Walter E. Moorhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moorhead of Fleming avenu, North Side.

ASSOCIATION DISCUSSES GIFT-GIVING HOLIDAYS

The spirit of tolerance and understanding was spread last night at a meeting of the Colfax Parent-Teacher Association at which the two mid-winter gift-giving holidays, Christmas and Chanukah, were the program centers. Mrs. Edward G. Tabor, who had arranged this unusual program, directed it also. Several members, both men and women, of the Association told the origin, significance, legends and customs of the two feasts, the accounts being given in the Yule-decorated auditorium at the front of which stood two decorated Christmas trees flanking the lighted eight-branch candlestick of Jewish tradition. Pupils of Mme. Suzanne Karpova presented folk dances when the customs of other countries were described and an instrumental quartet furnished appropriate music.

A reception and Christmas luncheon for Irving College students will be held Saturday in the Congress Club by the Pittsburgh Chapter, Irving College Alumnae. Miss Emma Starr, who has just returned from abroad, will tell about "Life and Study in Paris." A program of entertainment will be presented by Miss Ruth Shallenberger of Vandergrift, soprano; Miss Almeda Burns of Kittanning, reader; Miss Katherine Beggs, Confluence, and Mrs. Alcide Bourdon, Greensburg, pianists. Miss Alice Tindle Duff will be chairman for the day.

Miss Bertha McCall, assistant executive of the National Association of Travelers' Aid Societies, who was formerly executive secretary of the branch, will be honor guest at the Christmas luncheon which the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Travelers' Aid will give Friday in the Woman's City Club.

The last club meetings of the year will be held today at Pennsylvania College for Women when Lambda Pi Mu, the social service club of the college, meets at "Stony Corners" and the dramatic club members gather in Berry Hall. The annual Christmas service will be held at the college tonight with the Rev. Dr. Percy G. Kammerer and Miss Cora Helen Coolidge speaking. Mrs. Mabel Davis Rockwell will direct the music. Christmas vacation begins at noon Friday and continues until January 4.

The Woman's Club of Library is holding its Christmas meeting today in the home of Mrs. Elbert R. Barr, Castle Shannon. Mrs. Anna Marshall McCracken is the speaker and her subject, "Christmas in Picture, Song and Story." Each member is bringing a gift for the Toy Mission, following a custom which was established with the organization of the club.

The Christmas meeting of the Pittsburgh Musical Institute Club will be held Friday night at P. M. I. The program will consist of a group of ancient carols followed by an old English Yuletide celebration. The double quartet which will sing the carols includes Alice Watson Schoenfeldt and Virginia Welty, sopranos; Edith Dornberger and Gertrude Clark Hartman, contraltos; Paul Martin and Thomas Baldridge, tenors; Robert Owrey and Cass Ward Whitney, basses.

Plans are complete for the children's Christmas party to be given by the Dormont New Century Auxiliary Friday afternoon at the Masonic Hall. The program will consist of Christmas stories and songs and as a special feature, five solo dances by little girls under the supervision of Miss Virginia Brooks. Children of club members are to be honor guests and will bring toys for the Toy Mission.

The forum group of the St. Clair Ladies' Community Center will have charge of a children's party to be given December 29.

The Lee Community Club will give a children's Christmas party Monday evening in the Lee School. The program of music by the school orchestra, with sketches and dancing by young folks of the community will be followed by the arrival of Santa Claus. Mrs. R. C. Long, president of the club, is arranging the party, assisted by committee chairmen. Mrs. W. E. Bostwick has charge of decorations and Mrs. Myrtle Warrick of the children's "treat."

* * *

Mrs. Walter McFarland will be general chairman for the concert which the Women's Community Association will give in the Eleventh United Presbyterian Church the night of January 26. Assisting Mrs. McFarland will be Miss Hortense Paulin, Mrs. Harold Kelly, Mrs. Thomas C. Tipper, Mrs. S. C. McCorkle, Mrs. Harry Kohler and Mrs. Charles Bernhard.

The Christmas meeting tomorrow of the Thursday Noon Club for Business Women at the First Presbyterian Church will be addressed by the Rev. Dr. Clarence Macartney, pastor of the church. Christmas carols will be sung by a quartet consisting of Miss Margaret Spaulding, Mrs. Alberta Murray Baker, Mrs. Viola K. Byrgerson and Mrs. Romaine S. Russell.

The Christmas party of the Forest Hills Women's Club will take place tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Skinner, with Mrs. Neil Young, Mrs. C. T. Eakin and Mrs. J. V. Dobson as assistant hostesses. Roll call will be answered with a Christmas greeting. A musical program in keeping with the season will be furnished by Mrs. Phyllis Gray Kim, who will play a group of piano numbers, and Miss Eleanor Webster, soprano soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Kim, and Mrs. Samuel Hamilton will give a Christmas reading. A collection of toys will be taken for needy children.

"Sidelights on Children's Reading" was the subject chosen by Miss Elva S. Smith, head of the children's department of Carnegie Library, for her talk to the child study department of the Dormont Mothers' Club last evening. Music was furnished by several members of the Pitt Girls' Glee Club.

The Lovelorn by Beatrice Fairfax

A Great Serial…

If——Two sisters love the same man?

Copyright, 1927, by International Feature Service, Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Ann Lies to Bill, Regrets It, and Becomes Very Unhappy Again

AS IF by tacit agreement, the subject was closed. Neither sister referred to it any more. They went down to dinner, and Georgie had never been gayer or more amusing. She made Col. Montgomery choke over his soup. The spinsters from upstate raised metaphorical hands to heaven over their flippancy.

In the living room, afterwards, there was an interlude. Then the ring of the bell. Georgie rose to her feet, as if anxious to escape. But before she could reach the door, Bill had entered.

"Oh, good evening," she said politely. "Glad to see you."

Then she fled.

Bill's face was flushed. His eyes looked dark. He turned to Ann.

"Haven't got a hunch about what to do, but let's get out of here, and we'll decide afterwards. I hate this place!"

They were on the street. "I suppose we might as well go to a movie," he said. His voice wasn't cheerful or gay.

"Oh, if you don't want to," Ann said, a little piqued.

"No, no, I'd like to. It's all right. What else is there to do?"

She didn't like his saying that, his feeling of hopelessness and flatness. She was more hurt than she could say. Perhaps that was why it gave her a certain satisfaction to hurt him when the opportunity presented itself the next moment.

"Tell me something," he asked. "Is Georgie still going with that Brooks guy?"

"She's crazy about him," Ann answered, startled by her own ruthlessness. "I guess that's all settled."

He gave a short laugh, but did not answer.

Ann took his arm. She was unhappy. She had broken things up for good. Bill was hers. But—she was unhappy.

CHAPTER XXXI.

ANN had thought Georgie had changed. She did not realize she herself had changed quite as much. For the time at least, she had ceased to be the grave, deliberate, unselfish girl she had been. Instead she had become nervous and irritable.

Sometimes she would condemn herself, but more often she defended herself, and stifled the attacks of her conscience. And all the while the advice she had sought kept ringing in her ears. She knew she should follow it and yet she hoped against hope.

After all, Georgie would find someone else, and Bill would really forget Georgie in time. "If I can make him happy, and be happy myself by doing that," she thought. "It's the only thing worth considering."

But now and then there would leap upon her the realization that Bill loved Georgie in a way that would endure, deeply hidden; and that Georgie cared for him more than she would care for some other man. Then Ann, with a guilty stab, felt she was separating two lovers. She would brush the picture away, and fiercely tell herself that Bill loved her, heart and soul. But her uneasiness remained, and her sensitiveness increased.

Nor was this inner conflict the only result of Ann's action.

There was one scene which she had to go through which she would never forget.

Leaving the factory offices one evening, Jimmy McCormick stopped her at the door.

"I want to see you a moment," he said as if trying to pick each word with great care. His face looked a little grim.

"Why, of course, Jimmy," she answered uncomfortably. "I was just leaving—let's go together."

"No. I want to see you right here and now."

"Oh." She sat down again, met his glance and looked away. His eyes were somehow angry and accusinng, and she did not enjoy their direct, steady gaze.

"I heard today you're going to be married," he said abruptly.

Ann gave a little sigh. She had told only one girl, under promise of the most profound secrecy, and here was Jimmy, already coming to her with the news! Probably everybody knew it now.

But just the same Ann felt relieved. She had been puzzled a little by his accusing look. Now she said with more composure:

"Yes, Jimmy, that's right. Though I didn't want people to know."

"It's that young fellow who's come here several times at noon, isn't it?"

"Yes, that's the one."

Jimmy gave a short laugh. "I happened to see him watching you that day at the baseball game. He was in Section C, too. Was that why you asked me to get seats in Section C?"

"Yes, Jimmy," she said faintly.

"So you got seats there, and got met to take you, so that he'd see you and become jealous? That was the idea, wasn't it?"

"Oh, Jimmy, what's the use—"

"Never mind what's the use of this! I just want to get everything straight. But you don't need to answer that last question. I know it was so. You led me on, smiled at me, so he'd see me. I gave up something big to please you, and I was happy. You'd never been so kind to me before. I began to think perhaps you'd come to like me. And instead you were only making a fool of me!"

His words lashed her, in their scorn and hurt pride. And she had no means of justifying herself. She could only looked at him helplessly.

The smile on his lips wasn't pleasant. For the first time since she had known him, she was arrested by him deeply. He wasn't merely a big man now with a warm, unselfish heart, and a difficulty of expressing himself easily and humorously; he was somehow strong and dangerous. She felt a sudden sharp respect for him because she knew in some vague way that he could conquer her in any conflict of wills.

She said at last in a low voice: "I'm sorry."

"So am I. I'm sorry I've had to realize the truth about you. It's not losing you that matters, it's losing the fool thoughts I had about you. I didn't think you had it in you to lie to me that way, and not care how much you might hurt me when I found out."

"But, Jimmy, you don't really care. It isn't as if—"

He interrupted her. "No, perhaps, I don't care—now. But if you try to tell yourself I didn't care, if you can make yourself believe that, you can make yourself believe anything! That's all I wanted to say."

He turned and went out. The door banged shut behind him. Looking around, Ann saw she was really alone now, and the sky was darkening outside. She felt indescribably lonely and sad.

She was going to meet Bill. She was glad she had Bill to go to. He would comfort her, strengthen her, make her forget all these disagreeable things that weighed on her heart.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

WHATEVER Philip Veritzen meant by his cryptic remark, "It all fits in," when at his request and Lillian's I was describing the queer new tenants at The Larches, he did not explain it to either of us. Indeed, I am not sure that he realized he had uttered the words, for immediately following the puzzling little speech he appeared to withdraw into some realm of speculation of his own—something utterly foreign to the exquisite courtesy which is always his.

We were at the black coffee stage of the dinner and Lillian covered the situation by an apparently excited inquiry.

"Phil! Didn't Otto bring up that drawing board of mine? I don't see it anywhere, and I really must get to work at once. I've dawdled over this dinner shamefully. Oh, I'll admit it certainly was worth loitering over, but you know I'm the original poor working girl who can't be wrecked by your 'wicked demi-tasses.'"

From under my carefully lowered eyelashes I saw him glance swiftly from one to the other of us, in realization of his abstraction, and patent relief that we apparently had not noticed it. With a little laugh he put his hand back of Lillian's head and turned her face toward a portion of the balcony railing not 10 feet from our table.

"'Eyes that see not,'" he quoted, teasingly. "There's your precious board, safe and sound, and I'm not going to offer a single objection to your going to work, for Mrs. Graham and I will have to follow your example as soon as this table is cleared."

For the next few hours the balcony, which no one else was permitted to enter, resembled a corner of a newspaper or magazine office. Bent over her drawing board, Lillian labored as industriously as if she were shut up in her own studio, while at the table, which had been cleared, Mr. Veritzen spread out papers taken from portfolios in the emergency bag which Otto had brought up to the balcony with the drawing board and discussed with me exhaustively the problems presented by the notes he had brought back with him.

It was not long before I realized headily that it was an unusual tribute which Philip Veritzen was paying me. This man, counted the most artistic and scholarly theatrical producer in the country, as well as one of the shrewdest, was confiding to me his plans for his next season, showing to me the manuscripts of the plays he had secured and asking me for suggestions concerning their production. When he had summoned me to this Sunday conference by wireless I had expected to discuss with him only the questions which naturally would come to me as the historical expert of his organization. But this apparently complete revelation of his plans bewildered me.

Another realization lay deep in my consciousness—that Philip Veritzen, at his best, was a dangerously fascinating man. His perceptions were so clear, his mind so quick and keen, that listening to him was like watching the play of a rapier in the hands of a skilled swordsman. At first, I watched warily for a repetition of the subtle personal comments, which had so annoyed me, but soon I realized with a thrill beyond anything which any other tribute could have given that Philip Veritzen had forgotten my sex, my appearance, everything save his belief—of such heady intoxication to me—that I had the ability to understand his plans, to share them, and, most bewildering of all, to give him valuable suggestions concerning them.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

JUDGING from the way their latest player trade shapes up on paper, the owners of the Philadelphia National League still are influenced mainly by the dollar sign in their baseball transactions.

Yesterday they traded Shortstop Jimmy Cooney, Outfielder Johnny Mokan and Catcher Clarence Jonnard to the St. Louis Nationals for Jimmy Ring, a former pitcher, and John Schulte, a young catcher whose big league experience dates back only to last May 29.

ON THE surface, St. Louis got all the better of it, as far as the value of the playing material is concerned, which leads to the conclusion that President Baker and his associates in the ownership of the Phillies must have received a goodly quantity of coin on the side, as has been their custom for years in swapping good players for inferior athletes.

Ring, from all appearances, must be listed among baseball's unburied dead. In only one year out of the last four did he break even or better, that being in 1926 when he won 11 and lost 10 games for the Giants. During the 1927 season he did not win a single game, even with a pennant-bidding club like the Cardinals behind him. He pitched in 13 games, chiefly in relief roles, and was charged with four defeats.

BILL McKECHNIE seems to have got all the better of his first deal as manager of the Cardinals, as he gets a more than ordinarily good fielding shortstop in Cooney, an outfielder in Mokan, who can field, run, hit and throw, and a fair second-string catcher in Jonnard.

On the other hand he appears to have given up nothing that he will need, if Bob O'Farrell is in shape to do the bulk of the catching.

The Cards no doubt, have been strengthened by the exchange, so the natural conclusion around the circuit will be that Baker, as usual, got a piece of change on the side in giving up three players for two, particularly since one of the latter looks like a liability instead of an asset.

RING, who will be 33 years old in February, lands back with his old team after two seasons of wandering. After the 1925 race he was traded by the Phillies to the Giants for Jack Bentley and Wayland Dean, and a year ago he was sent to the Cards by the Giants with Frankie Frisch in exchange for Rogers Hornsby.

RABBIT MARANVILLE'S friends in Pittsburgh are wondering what is to become of the little fellow now that McKechnie has obtained another shortstop in Cooney to use in the lineup when Tommy Thevenow is unable to play.

Before leaving Pittsburgh to attend the minor and major league meetings, Manager McKechnie of the Redbirds intimated that he intended to keep Maranville. But with Cooney on the job, and Toporcer and Schuble also in reserve, there would appear to be no room for the Rabbit unless Bill plans to carry an extra man or does not feel sure that Thevenow will be as capable as he was before he suffered a broken ankle last year.

CHICAGO OFFICIALS LAUDED IN TALK

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Gene Tunney was a new kind of hero today, having sat through 10 rounds of after-dinner oratory at the All-Chicago Christmas Fund banquet here last night without registering so much as a single unkind look. But it was all in the name of sweet charity, for which Mr. Tunney had graciously consented to be bored.

That the heavyweight champion, featuring as the "guest of honor," was not bored in vain, was indicated when Chairman Anton J. Cermak announced that the banquet had netted $30,000 toward insuring a Merry Christmas

by HAVEY BOYLE

HAVEY BOYLE

SOME of us knew the background of the Willie Harmon Jack Zivic feud, which reached its third and final stage the other evening with Harmon winning easily over the Pittsburgh youth, who seems to be at the end of the pugilistic road. Twice before had these two welterweights met. In one of those bouts Harmon got a stab in an eye which laid him up for three months. Fighters worry considerably about that priceless gift—good eyes. "Some day," ruminated Harmon, in a mountain retreat where he had retired to recuperate, "I'll get even with Zivic for that." So the chance came the other night in Pittsburgh, but aside from defeating Zivic decisively, Harmon went no further.

In the dressing room after that fight you see Harmon sitting on a bench adjusting his socks as he prepares for the street; Zivic is just stepping from under a shower. These two boys who had just battled their best to conquer began chatting like two pals. The fight had removed all bitterness, with Zivic ready to concede Harmon was superior, with Harmon satisfied he had won.

It is a strange release this fighting business. In other walks of life men go on for years and years despising each other, attempting to frustrate each other in ways more subtle than uncouth fighting, yet it is entirely possible that two ancient enemies easily might become the warmest friends if only one socked the other on the beezer. At least such was the reflection as Zivic and Harmon were discussing some mutual enemy of the realm whom Zivic had met and whom Harmon the suggestion remained that the Hoosier later will contribute to the roster of the National League champions. The two clubs have close working relations.

Yde, who came up to the big show from Oklahoma City, was a sensation in his first two major league years, 1924 and 1925, but lost much of his effectiveness in the past two seasons. He did not pitch a complete game in the 1927 campaign, participating in only nine altogether, winning one and losing three.

Spencer, who played formerly with Detroit and Birmingham, Ala., has been with the Pirates for four years, but only as a reserve backstop.

The Pittsburgh club re-elected its officers and board of directors at a meeting held this morning in Jersey City, where the club is incorporated. The officials are: Barney Dreyfuss, president; O. S. Hershman, vice president; Sam Watters, secretary, and Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer, all of Pittsburgh; Louis Bamberger of Newark, N. J., and C. Palmer Burnham of Louisville, Ky.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The sale of George Sisler, famous first sacker of the St. Louis Browns, to Washington was announced today by Phil Ball, president of the Browns. The amount involved was not disclosed, but it was understood to be around $25,000.

Negotiations for the disposal of Sisler have been in progress ever since the baseball men gathered here for the annual major league meetings. The Athletics and White Sox also were understood to have bid for him.

Originally a three-cornered deal involving the Browns, Senators and Cleveland Indians was discussed, but Billy Evans, Cleveland's new general manager, indicated the outright sale of Sisler to Washington might prevent a triangular trade. It was reported, nevertheless, that Washington and Cleveland were considering a deal by which the Senators would give Joe Judge, veteran first baseman, in exchange for Joe Shaute, southpaw pitcher, and Glenn Myatt, catcher.

Local Magnate Has Big Day In East

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The incorporation laws of New Jersey, under which the Pittsburgh Club was organized, gave Barney Dreyfuss an exciting experience this morning.

The Pirates have six directors and four officers, but the principal owner was the only one to show up for the annual meeting in New Jersey this morning.

The law provides that the polls must be open for one hour, so Dreyfuss had to conduct the meeting by himself, he later announcing that all the old officers and board of directors had been elected.

After waiting the stipulated hour, Dreyfuss made it a good morning by boarding the wrong tube train for New York. He eventually learned his mistake and arrived at the Waldorf just in time to attend the scheduled meeting of the National League.

The Pittsburgh Club, known as the Pittsburgh Athletic Company, elected the following officers and directors:

President, Barney Dreyfuss; vice president, Col. O. S. Hershman; secretary, Sam Watters; treasurer, Sam Dreyfuss; directors, Barney Dreyfuss, chairman; Senator Frank Harris, Sam Watters, Sam Dreyfuss, Col. O. S. Hershman and Louis Bamberger.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

TEDDY WELCH of McKeesport and Young Rudy of Charleroi have just had their sixth bout with each other since last August and there is a demand for another return match between the pair as a result of the dispute arising over the decision in their semi-final at Motor Square Garden last Monday night, when the judges agreed on Rudy as the winner and all of the local newspaper critics and many of the fans were of the opinion that Welch unquestionably had an edge over the eight-round route.

A Welch-Rudy bout for action is just about the best thing we have around here these days in the way of a fistic treat. It has taken the place of the Tommy Crowley-Phil Goldstein feud. But aren't we overplaying our hand a bit by constantly demanding a rematch between the pair, just because they give us a good show? It is unfair to both Rudy and Welch to keep pitting them against each other, if for no other reason than that they extend themselves entirely too much. They fight themselves out. One battle of the sort they wage against each other takes more out of them than a half-dozen ordinary fights and their rivalry is rapidly approaching the grudge stage.

Why not match Rudy and Welch against some other good opponents for a change, both on the same card if need be? Give them a chance to catch up with themselves. They'll never get anywhere fighting each other, but instead gradually will kill off each other. There's such a mistake as carrying a good thing too far.

FIRST place in the Allegheny County League will be at stake tonight when the Goose Goslin Club of the South Side invades Duquesne to meet Ed Minnick's Lafayettes.

Both teams copped their opening league battles last Monday night and will be out to score their second in a row tonight.

The Lafayettes have added George Ramsey, former Merry center, to their roster, giving them a team that is picked to win the County League championship without much difficulty. However, Tommy Goslin has bolstered his club by signing Lacey of Schwartz Valley and Artie Hoffman, last year with the Goldensons.

THE Enoch Rauh Club, having won their first County League victory by defeating the McKees Rocks Business Men last night at Columbus Temple, left for Cleveland today to participate in a benefit game at Public Hall in that city. The Rauhs are scheduled to meet the Union Trust team, the same quintet which was defeated by the Mellon National Bank five here last year.

The contest tonight will be the preliminary to the Cleveland-Rochester American League battle and is a charity affair, the Rauhs receiving only their expenses for making the long jaunt to the Forest City.

BLES

TWYMAN, star center of the eliance Life team, played in the ercial-Industrial League last night South Side Market House and d his game in time to appear lineup of the McKees Rocks Busiden against the Rauhs at Columemple. While he was held scoret the Market House, he enjoyed luck against the Rauhs, caging baskets.

pecial meeting of the Allegheny y League will be held in Kaufs tomorrow night.

HEAD COACH MEEHAN TO REMAIN ON JOB

By LEWIS BURTON,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Joe Schwarzer, the "goat" of the New York University football controversy, has resigned, and all signs point to the return of John F. (Chick) Meehan as head coach in 1928. It is quite probable that Meehan has already signed his contract for 1928.

Before sailing for Bremen last Friday, Schwarzer, the driving force behind the Violet team and one of the highest paid assistant coaches in the country, handed his resignation to Meehan and made the way clear for the return of the head coach without causing embarrassment in any quarter.

De Forest Loses Life Treasures In Blaze

ALLENHURST, N. J., Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Because treasures of a lifetime devoted to the prize ring were in ashes, Jimmy De Forest, 65-year-old trainer, was heart-broken today.

The collection, patiently gathered and stored in trunks for some future date when display in a boxing museum might keep his memory fresh, was destroyed in the fire that leveled De Forest's home.

MANAGERS' SHOW TABOO

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(INS.)—Leo P. Flynn and Jimmy Johnston, boxing managers who offered Promoter Tex Rickard $20,000 for the use of Madison Square Garden for one night, will not be permitted to carry out their project of a carnival featuring heavyweights of second rank. The New York Athletic Commission has rejected the proposal, pointing out that managers cannot act as matchmakers unless they surrender their managers' licenses.

for Chicago's poor. All of which proves there is a Santa Claus.

The dinner-jacketed Mr. Tunney was a strikingly different figure than the one who gathered himself up from a resined floor at Soldiers' Field last September after the famous "long count" and fought his way to victory over one Jack Dempsey.

DEFENDS OFFICIALS

Then, half-naked, wounded and at bay, Tunney was the cynosure of 150,000 pairs of eyes, two-thirds of them unfriendly; last night, immaculate in formal clothes, he smiled and bowed, perfectly at ease, before 2,500 guests who were 100 per cent for Tunney.

And the champion had things to say about that fight. After what seemed an interminable orgy of speechmaking, Tunney finally was given the floor. He began with the usual line about Chicago's greatness and the greatness of its citizens and then launched into what the banqueters were yearning to hear—a little spicy fight gossip.

"I would like to say a few words for the ring officials who were responsible for the fight," said Tunney. "Those who question the officials needs must question the officials who appointed them.

"There wasn't the slightest deviation from the rules agreed upon in advance of the fight. If ever a contest was fought on its merits it was that of September 22. The unfortunate conduct of certain individuals cannot but go down as most unsporty.

TO BOX IN CHICAGO

"Above all, I like good sportsmanship, especially in a loser. But since the fight—!"

Tunney did not finish that sentence. He concluded:

"In closing, I want to publicly thank the officials responsible for the contest. Their vigilance probably, or, I should say, possibly, eliminated dishonesty. They were honest, upright and honorable."

Dave Barry, the referee of the last Tunney-Dempsey fight, occupied a seat near the speakers' table.

Tunney and his manager, Billy Gibson, were presented platinum watches.

Gibson said Tunney would appear in an outdoor bout here next summer, but could not name his opponent until after a showdown with Promoter Tex Rickard in February.

M'COY-BROWN MATCHED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Johnny McCoy, recognized in California as flyweight boxing champion, has been matched with Newsboy Brown of Sioux City, Ia., for a 10-round fight here January 3. Brown boxes Corp. Izy Schwartz in New York Friday, and the winner will be recognized as champion by the New York Commission.

day to renew old acquaintances before the bout. He will do some roller-skating at the Garden Saturday as part of his conditioning work.

Garfield Johnson, Negro light-heavyweight, of Seattle, is in town seeking matches with Emmett Rocco, Sandy Seifert or anybody else up to 185 pounds. He is managed by Jim Malone, of Seattle, and formerly of Lawrenceville and will be handled here by the latter's brother, J. B. Malone, of 6815 Hoevler street. Jim Malone managed Irish Gorgas, Eddie Gumbert and other boxers around here prior to going West 15 years ago, and now has a stable of boxers in Seattle. He plans to bring some of them here later and pick up Johnson and move on to New York with his crew, which includes Wildcat Carter. Johnson claims he never has been beaten in 36 fights and that Leo Lomski and Young Stribling declined to meet him in bouts on the Coast.

Three local amateur boxers, Carl Rodato, George Posey and Buck McTiernan, will compete in the inter-city show in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight, which will stand as one of the Olympic Games trials. New York, New Haven and Philadelphia boxers will furnish the opposition.

Joey Novak, southpaw lightweight of Lawrenceville, boxes Johnny Blair of Utica, N. Y., in the 10-round main bout at Meadville tonight. Abe Dempsey of New Kensington and Frankie Palmer of New York are down for 10 rounds at Clarksburg, W. Va., with Jimmy Duffy of New Kensington and Jackie Tyler of Youngstown boxing the semi-final. Harry Blitman, Philadelphia featherweight, meets Johnny Datto, Filipino of Cleveland, in a 12-round bout at Youngstown.

Ted Sandwina will box Otto Porst and Joey Sangor will meet Benny (Kid) Carter in eight-round preliminaries to Gene Tunney's exhibition bout on the Chicago Christmas benefit card next Monday night.

Midget Smith, former bantamweight contender, has announced his retirement from the ring to enter business in New York.

it in spite of the Blue Laws. In other words, he would get around the law. We advance his plan for what it may be worth. He elucidates in very brief fashion as follows:

"The people, or rather most of the fans, of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia want Sunday baseball. The idea I suggest herein would seem to make it possible. As you know, the theaters charge extra for their Saturday performances, so why couldn't the baseball club charge say 50 cents extra on its Saturday tickets and allow the purchasers to use their rainchecks as free passes at any of the Sunday games? Maybe I am right, maybe not, but this would seem to be perfectly legal."

THEY told a story at the Geneva College football banquet at Beaver Falls the other night, according to Ralph C. Bennett, our correspondent there, that exemplifies the spirit of the Covenanter eleven under the coaching of Bo McMillin. The tale had to do with the game with Boston College at Boston during the past season.

Geneva was being held even in the early part of the battle and then suddenly got off a perfectly-executed play and Mack Flenniken went 80 yards inside left end for a touchdown. However, there was holding on the part of one of the Geneva backs, whose assignment was to take out the end. Pinkerton was the guilty man. The play was called back and a 15-yard penalty inflicted. Pinkerton, expecting a stiff rebuke for his misplay, endeavored to avoid Flenniken for the moment. The big-hearted Southerner, however, sought out Pinkerton and said: "That's all right, partner; forget it."

The incident, instead of crushing the morale of the Geneva eleven, inspired it, and shortly the tide of battle definitely turned for the Covenanters.

JAMES (RED) MASON, veteran local manager of boxers, leaves today for New York, where he has rented an apartment for a month's stay, during which time his sister and his 12-year-old daughter, Dorothy Margaret, will put in the holiday season with him. Dorothy is attending Mary Mount School at Tarrytown-on-Hudson.

Mason had a good laugh last night telling how he had "outslickered" a couple of local betting gentry on a recent bout between Honey Boy Finnegan and Tod Morgan, the junior-lightweight champion, at Boston. He took Finnegan over the champion in the betting, and, as an extra inducement, told the "suckers" he'd give them the benefit of a draw decision. In other words, if the champion, a logical favorite, got so much as a draw, Mason would lose.

Finnegan got the verdict and Mason cashed. The point, however, is that draw decisions are not permitted in Massachusetts.

majority of his big league years, and Heinie Manush, hard-hitting outfielder who led the American League in batting in 1926, in a trade for Pitcher Elam Van Gilder, Outfielder Harry Rice and another Brown player to be named later, it would seem that the Detroit club is to get more than an ordinary player when the third man is turned over.

One thing that the deal indicated was that the St. Louis club had at last definitely decided to let George Sisler go, which belief was borne out today by the sale of Sisler to Washington for $25,000. A few years ago Sisler would have brought many times that sum.

VAN GILDER, a right hander, is a good pitcher when in his stride, though he lost 12 games against 10 won last season, and Rice is a capable outfielder and hitter, but the two do not come nearly up to the value of Blue and Manush and some arrangement involving a player of more than ordinary ability may have been made in connection with the first part of the deal.

TWO SOCCER GAMES ORDERED REPLAYED

Two games were ordered replayed by the American League decisions body, and Harmarville teams being upheld.

As a result of this action, Mustard Hollow will meet German Sport "A" club in a return battle, and Harmarville will get another chance to defeat the Hollowites.

Undefeated Rivals Meet

By TOM BIRKS.

IT IS very apparent that a champion is going to be decided in the Western Pennsylvania section this season, and now that only three contenders are left this should be reduced when Burns and the Carrick Odds meet at Parnassus High School field on Saturday. All that either club has to do to clinch the championship of the local gridiron is win that game. Burns has tied C. M. C. C. and so has Carrick, so that if either club can win this game it will carry away a championship.

The Odds should prove a big attraction in the Aluminum town. Just how Jake Bohren and Lacelles will go against that Burns line is a question, and most of the fans are anxious to see whether Concrete is as good an end as Gillas. This combination of ends, together with Brown of West View and Brown of McChesneytown are the leaders in playing end in this district.

There is a possible chance that Freddy Iverson will take his McKeesport Olympics to Springdale on Sunday to meet the Amicus. With still a chance that Springdale and Burns will tangle, Max Rosskamp is going to book the best attractions to keep the Amicus on edge. The Olympics will prove a great attraction at the power house town and should the game go through all roads will lead up the Allegheny River to see some real sandlot action.

SPORT LENS

soon is to meet. Zivic was telling Harmon just how to circumvent the stout right hand of the mutual enemy.

A NICE point for discussion was brought up by that Harmon-Zivic fight. An ethical point, if you please, for even boxing has its ethics. In nine rounds Harmon had defeated Zivic. In the tenth there was no particular fire in Harmon's attack. Was he letting up? If he did let up was that right or wrong? There is a poser, reader.

On the one side there is the consideration that a man must give his best every second. On the other side there was the consideration that Harmon had the battle won and to avoid a chance shot by the enemy, which might deprive him of well-earned laurels in the closing minutes of play, he became reserved, cautious. There was the further consideration that he might not be inclined to wreak utmost damage on a boy who had fought a gallant battle up to the finish.

IN baseball and football and any other sport, the side that is ahead so far that the other side has no chance is granted the right to dally as it pleases. In baseball a winner in the closing stages pulls punches by putting in substitute infielders, catchers and outfielders. In football with a team well ahead the coach similarly puts in third string men, if he so desires. In boxing in the closing stages can a boxer show this same indifference to the total score, provided he has done his best to win? Anytime you are restless or lonesome amuse yourself with this nice problem.

ZIVIC, of course, will keep on fighting. A boy does not easily give up such a profession, even with the odds against him. The smell of resin, the glamor of the ring and the roar of the crowd, among other things, get into the blood of these boys. But Zivic OUGHT to quit fighting. Still, young, he is close to the end of the road. Friends who always had admired the Pittsburgh boy for his ring doughtiness and fearlessness and eagerness to give all and sundry the best he had almost shuddered as Harmon whaled away at that reduced frame of Jack's, particularly that abdominal region which is so sensitive to shock. Zivic's attack was his defense. His attack, as his arms attested by their impotence, has dwindled away to nothing and consequently his defense has melted away.

"America's Flying Ambassador" Will Write for the Post-Gazette

The Capitol at Washington

Washington
San Antonio
Gulf of Mexico
Mexico City

Arrangements have been completed for the exclusive publication in Pittsburgh in the Post-Gazette of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's personal account of his flight from Washington to Mexico City. Immediately after his arrival at the fine flying field at the Mexican Capital he will put on the cables his description of the trip and his reception in the Southern republic. This will be followed later with further details of his visit. His impressions of Mexican officialdom's reception of the message of good will he carries will form one of the most important and interesting portions of this series from the pen of America's premier flying man.

Another Great Exclusive Feature for Readers of the Post-Gazette

The eyes of the world are on Colonel Lindbergh. The flight is only second in importance to his New York-to-Paris air voyage. It may have as marked an effect on the relations between the United States and Mexico as did his transatlantic flight on those between this country and France.

Go via the beautiful Gulf Coast

See New Orleans, Texas, Mexico at no additional cost

Romantic New Orleans.

The Beautiful Gulf Coast.

Exotic Old Mexico.

The Scenic West.

WE believe you will like this route to California. The time en route is about the same. The cost is no more and, as you go through the South and Southwest, you enjoy warm weather all the way. Between Cincinnati and New Orleans you pass through Louisville, Nashville, Birmingham, Montgomery, Mobile and other leading Southern cities. The beautiful Gulf Coast, compared by world travelers with the Mediterranean Riviera, is traversed for nearly its entire length and wonderful vistas of sky and water are obtained. Old-world New Orleans, thriving Houston, historic San Antonio and El Paso (Juarez, across the International Bridge), Roosevelt Dam, Carriso Gorge, Salton Sea, Casa Grande Ruins, and other scenic wonders, capture your interest in succession.

FINEST TRAINS ALL THE WAY

A feature of this route is the unsurpassed train service and equipment. The Pan-American, between Cincinnati, Louisville and New Orleans, is an all-Pullman train, de luxe in every respect. Connects with fine Western trains at New Orleans. Extra fare is not charged on any train and liberal stop-overs are given. Our undersigned representative will give you further information.

Tells How to Get Ahead In Business and in Life.

By B. C. FORBES

HOW should one set about trying to get ahead in business, to get ahead financially, to get ahead as a worker?

For the benefit of readers of this column, I have digested a new 400-page book on the subject by Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, who teaches financial journalism to Columbia University students, formerly was financial and business editor of the New York Evening Journal and is widely recognized as a sound authority.

THESE sentences from this bulky volume, "Financial Advice to a Young Man," contain points worth pondering:

Select a vocation and an employer who will give you an opportunity to utilize your full capacity.

In business, proceed with a proper sense of timing, knowing when to shift and when to bide your time and sit tight.

Do not antagonize your superior; if you cannot get along with him, seek a new job.

The road to promotion is through competence in doing the job in hand, a capacity for teamwork and a willingness to step in and do the necessaries no matter what may arise.

THE way to develop memory is through systematic training and through widening your fields of genuine interest rather than through easy formulae and quack, direct-by-mail prescriptions.

A characteristic among men and women who have succeeded is that they are intensely interested in their work.

Genuine economy does not consist in cessation of spending, but in the discriminating employment of funds in channels where they will be the most productive.

IN planning your work, apply the scientific management doctrine of finding "the one best way."

Genuine accomplishment depends on a capacity for self-discipline.

Seek recreation in varied work.

Success goes to the man capable of making decisions as to business prospects, as to the merit of a new product, as to the capabilities of an applicant for employment.

The successful man of affairs usually has a definite program or a schedule for his life. The dreamer may be merely on the sidelines, looking on and doubting the value of material acquisitions.

BUSINESS success is stimulated by venturesomeness—by a willingness occasionally to act on surmise and the best of knowledge and belief, instead of always waiting for proven results. The business man is inevitably a speculator.

William James, the philosopher, believed in the efficacy of wishing. "In almost any subject," he wrote: "Your passion for the subject will save you. If you only care enough for a result you will almost certainly attain it. If you wish to be rich, you will be rich; if you wish to be good, you will be good. Only you must, then, really wish these things, and wish them with exclusiveness, and not wish at the same time a hundred other incompatible things just as strongly."

First-rate men have faith in themselves. They have the courage of their convictions. They are restless and eager to lead. If their ambition is backed by competence, they come to the top.

Tempered optimism is contagious and supplies the energy needed for the extra push which brings success.

Good humor, courtesy, generosity, imagination, adaptability, flexibility and a spirit of analysis are bankable assets in the business world.

A little dissatisfaction is healthy, but unless it is reinforced by ambition and competence it becomes a negative and baneful influence.

Interest is a quality which you contribute rather than an inherent attribute of the job itself.

THIS is the era of the hired man; success is coming to be found in vast co-operative corporations rather than in one-man concerns.

Only those capable of self-discipline are fitted to go into business on their own.

It pays the small business man to have a competent accountant install a cost system and advise him in the matter of determining profits and seting up reserves.

Infinite patience, understanding and sympathy—not mere mechanical formulae—are necessary for an individual who wishes successfully to direct the energies of men.

MARKET SOARS AFTER RAID BY BEARS

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—A sudden collapse of more than 10 points in Porto Rican B, due to a swift "bear" attack which touched off a number of stop-loss orders, temporarily unsettled today's stock market. Confidence was quickly restored and the market was headed for new high ground by early afternoon under the leadership of U. S. Steel common. More than a score issues attained record high levels, but trading slowed up somewhat as the session progressed.

Steel shares responded to a reported increase in mill operations during the past week. Coppers were helped by reports of expanding export business and predictions of 15 cent copper next year. Buying of the insurance shares was influenced by the unusually low loss ratio of the leading companies.

The rapidity of the recent advance caused a number of conservative commission houses to repeat warnings against over-extension of speculative accounts, but liquidation inspired by these advices was fairly well absorbed. Uneasiness over the huge exports of gold was tempered somewhat by an easier tone for sterling exchange.

In the morning break, Midland Steel Products cracked 6 points and Houston Oil, National Lead, Norfolk and Western and several others 3 to 4 points.

U. S. Steel common sold at 148 in the early afternoon or 10 points above last week's low and the highest price since the middle of October. Rossia Insurance soared 7 points, Continental Insurance 5, and Bethlehem Steel, Montana Power, Worthington Pump and a number of others advanced 2 points or more. Heavy buying of New Haven in anticipation of a resumption of dividends next year featured the railroad group.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 27 to 34 points, active months quickly showing net gains of 34 to 37 points on brisk buying stimulated by relatively firm cables and unexpectedly large figures on the consumption of lint cotton in this country for November.

The advance to 18.50c for January and 18.80c for May met a good deal of realizing and much southern selling, however, and prices eased off 20 or 25 points from the best before the end of the first hour.

The report of the Census Bureau showed domestic consumption of 625,610 bales for November, compared with 611,935 for October and 583,746 for November last year.

The volume of business tapered off somewhat later in the morning, but there was further buying on the bullish view of the domestic consumption figures. Talk of a slightly better spot demand was sufficient to absorb offerings. After selling off to 18.27c, or within 9 points of yesterday's closing quotations for January deliveries, the market rallied a few points, with the active months showing net advances of about 15 to 16 points at midday.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged early today at 4.58c. A sale was reported at this level of 50,000 bags of Cuban for December shipment to a local refiner.

It was believed that some nearby duty-free sugars were available at this price, but refiners were inclined to hold off.

In futures trading was of small proportions, but the undertone was steady. Prices at midday were about 1 to 2 points higher on covering and a little buying for European account.

The spot market was steady. With a better feeling in the refined market, holders were not inclined to offer aggressively, being inclined to limit operations and await fresh developments.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.60 to 5.80c for fine granulated. It was believed that all refiners were accepting business at the inside levels with a better demand reported.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Arkansas Deal in Doubt.

Possibility of collapse of negotiations in the reported consolidation involving Arkansas Natural Gas Company's properties, certain holdings of the Insull interests and part of the Cities Service holdings in Oklahoma and Louisiana was intimated in dispatches from Chicago today. Martin J. Insull of Chicago, admitted that negotiations were in progress and have been going on for some time, but that there was a possibility that the entire deal would fall through. The deal, if consummated would involve millions of dollars of property value. According to previous reports heard here the consolidation would be carried forward under the Cities Service banner with Empire Gas and Fuel Company, a Cities Service subsidiary, absorbing some of the Insull holdings and the gas properties of the Arkansas Natural Gas Company.

Patten Bullish on Corn.

Chicago reports to Kay, Richards & Co. quote James A. Patten, world figure in grain, as expressing the opinion that the decline in corn futures is about over. Mr. Patten bases his view on the belief that European demand for corn will make itself felt shortly and that this buying for export should be an important factor in the not distant future. The Argentine crop has about been exhausted and the new crop will not start coming in until May or June. Europe's root crop is small this year and that continent will have to turn to American corn. He also said that little corn was to be had in many of the American corn belts, adding that some of the buying in Chicago has come from corn centers. Mr. Patten did not care to make any prediction of the future course of the wheat market. The price in that grain, he said, would be ruled by the crop in Australia and South America which cannot be determined at this time.

Omar Oil Affairs Settled.

A meeting of stockholders of the Omar Oil and Gas Company will be held in the William Penn Hotel December 19, it was announced yesterday. Reorganization plans of the company will be discussed at the gathering. It was officially announced that all matters in litigation between the company and N. F. Clark, former president of the concern, have been settled. Through this settlement, the company acquires an additional 1,000 acres of leases in the Oregon Basin, Wyoming, a recently opened field where important developments are said to be under way.

Machine Tools in Demand.

With definite improvement in the demand for machine tools from the automotive industry, and a moderate gain in activity on the part of industrials, a note of optimism prevails through the trade, American Machinist reports. So far as the early part of 1928 is concerned, trade authorities predict a good volume of machinery business.

Week's Car Loadings Increase.

Revenue freight loaded 915,465 cars during the week ended December 3, an increase of 74,665 on the preceding week, but a decrease of 135,811 cars from the corresponding week a year ago. Loadings to December 3 were 49,197,452 cars, compared with 50,461,207 in the 1926 period.

Seminole Output Down.

The Seminole area for 24 hours ended at 7 a. m., Tuesday, produced 261,347 barrels of crude oil, comparing with 265,407 barrels on Monday and a peak of 327,409 barrels on July 29.

A. P. I. Oil Figures.

United States crude oil output for week ended December 10 averaged 2,437,500 barrels daily, an increase of 6,750 barrels over the preceding week, according to American Petroleum Institute.

MOP Orders Track Steel.

The Missouri Pacific has distributed orders involving $3,432,500 for rails, tie plates and other track equipment among Colorado Fuel and Iron, Illinois Steel, Inland Steel, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, and Bethlehem Steel. The Denver and Rio Grande soon will order 20,000 tons of rails from Colorado Fuel and Iron.

Cotton Consumption Report.

The Census Bureau reports there were consumed in November exclusive of linters, 625,610 bales of cotton against 611,935 a month ago, and 583,746 in November, 1926. Cotton in consuming establishments November 30 was 1,551,326 bales against 1,427,095 in October, and 1,493,611 a year ago. Cotton in public storage and at compresses November 30 was 5,915,874 bales against 5,422,119 in the month preceding, and 6,316,102 in 1926. Active spindles in November numbered 27,169,474, against 32,497,301 in October and 32,552,930 in November, 1926. November exports were 933,301 bales, compared with 1,126,509 in October, and 1,416,214 in 1926. November imports 23,313 bales vs. 13,231 in October, and 41,441 in November, 1926.

Cotton Reacts Sharply.

hTe Cotton market opened active and advanced 27 to 34 points on the consumption figures, which were larger than anticipated and a show of strength in Liverpool. The advance, however, attracted increased liquidation and selling for southern account, and caused a sharp reaction from the top.

CONSOLIDATED ICE PFD. SOARS IN LOCAL MARKET

May Pay Dividend Arrearage

A sharp bulge in Consolidated Ice preferred enlivened the dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. The stock soared to the highest price in about four years on buying stimulated by reports that the company is negotiating for disposal of some of its real estate at a figure which would permit elimination of the dividend arrearage on the issue.

There are 51 per cent back dividends accumulated on the preferred stock ($50 par value) and in addition to the rumored property sale at favorable terms, the street hears that the company's earnings from operations are showing improvement.

There was a good demand for Carnegie Metals at $12 a share, with several hundred shares changing hands at that figure. Buying of this issue was attributed to the generally better outlook for the metal mining industry. Dealings in the fuel issues were on a small scale.

Declaration of a 10 per cent stock dividend and an extra cash dividend of 50 cents in addition to the regular quarterly of 75 cents on Blaw Knox failed to stimulate any activity in that issue. The street had been expecting 10 per cent stock dividend and it was assumed that the action had been discounted in the market. Earlier rumors of the year-end melon had predicted a 40 per cent stock distribution in response to which the shares ran up to a new high above 111, but promptly receded to around 100 when semi-official reports a few days ago intimated that not more than 10 per cent would be disbursed.

The newly listed William Zoller shares were strong, reflecting scarcity at the previously prevailing levels and there was a good recovery in Standard Sanitary. Zoller preferred sold at 96½, a new top, and the common was 33½ bid, equal to the best level since listing several days ago.

Demand for Carnegie Metals continued as the session progressed and the late market saw the price more than 2 points above the opening and at a new high for the year.

GAIN IN COTTON CONSUMPTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—Cotton consumed during November totaled 625,680 bales of lint and 62,041 of linters, compared with 568,361 of lint and 73,193 of linters in October this year and 583,746 of lint and 63,133 of linters in November last year, the Census Bureau reported today.

DUKE LAW CLUB DINNER TONIGHT

With the leading legal lights of the county at the speakers' table, the Duquesne University Law Club dinner dance tonight in the William Penn Hotel promises to be a record-breaking event. All county judges but one have promised to attend.

John E. Laughlin, vice dean of the school, will be toastmaster. Aside from the jurists, other speakers will include members of the faculty and prominent alumni. The dinner, which begins at 7:30 o'clock, promises to be a reunion of alumni, according to Attorney J. Howard Devlin, in charge of alumni reservations.

Charles V. O'Connor is general chairman.

ASK EVIDENCE SUPPRESSED

Two petitions for suppression of articles confiscated in raids by prohibition agents have been held in United States Court. They charge unlawful seizures.

Emil Bruno, 714 Twelfth street, Ambridge, cites that his home was entered without a search warrant and asks that the agents be restrained from using as evidence a still and other contraband, in prosecuting him on a charge of bribery.

Charles P. Eisele charged that a large quantity of beer and whisky was seized November 26, 1926, on a defective search and seizure warrant and asks that it be suppressed as evidence against him.

LAWYER FOUND GUILTY OF DECEPTION IN LOAN

Arthur D. Stevenson, Negro lawyer, of 806 Wylie avenue, was found guilty yesterday by a jury in Criminal Court before Judge Josiah Cohen of representing himself as owner of a piece of property that he did not own to obtain a loan. Ben Nyde, 3455 Milwaukee street, the prosecutor, said he loaned the defendant $650 on property in Frederick street, Sewickley. He exhibited a statement with Stevenson's signature claiming ownership of the property. Sentence will be imposed today.

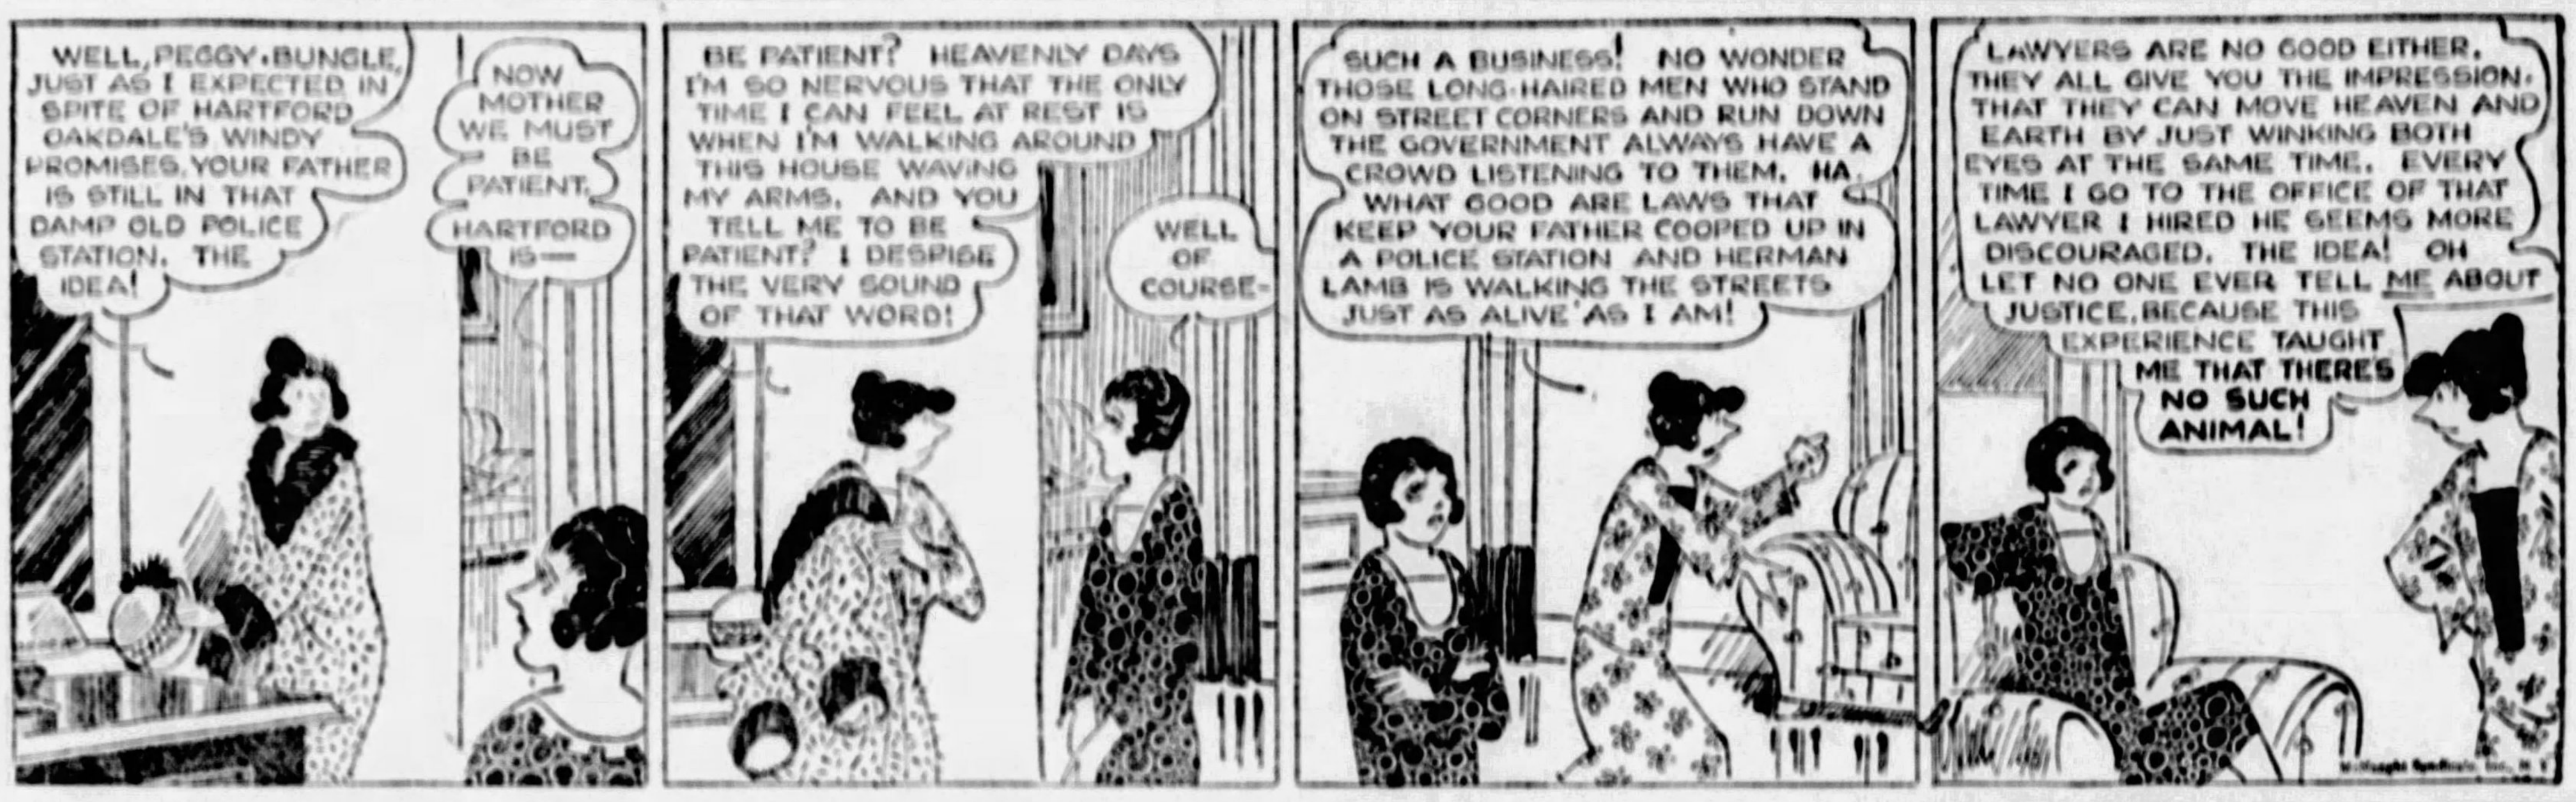
THE BUNGLE FAMILY — There Is No Justice



WELL, PEGGY BUNGLE, JUST AS I EXPECTED IN SPITE OF HARTFORD OAKDALE'S WINDY PROMISES, YOUR FATHER IS STILL IN THAT DAMP OLD POLICE STATION. THE IDEA!
NOW MOTHER WE MUST BE PATIENT. HARTFORD IS—
BE PATIENT? HEAVENLY DAYS I'M SO NERVOUS THAT THE ONLY TIME I CAN FEEL AT REST IS WHEN I'M WALKING AROUND THIS HOUSE WAVING MY ARMS. AND YOU TELL ME TO BE PATIENT? I DESPISE THE VERY SOUND OF THAT WORD!
WELL OF COURSE—
SUCH A BUSINESS! NO WONDER THOSE LONG-HAIRED MEN WHO STAND ON STREET CORNERS AND RUN DOWN THE GOVERNMENT ALWAYS HAVE A CROWD LISTENING TO THEM. HA. WHAT GOOD ARE LAWS THAT KEEP YOUR FATHER COOPED UP IN A POLICE STATION AND HERMAN LAMB IS WALKING THE STREETS JUST AS ALIVE AS I AM!
LAWYERS ARE NO GOOD EITHER. THEY ALL GIVE YOU THE IMPRESSION THAT THEY CAN MOVE HEAVEN AND EARTH BY JUST WINKING BOTH EYES AT THE SAME TIME. EVERY TIME I GO TO THE OFFICE OF THAT LAWYER I HIRED HE SEEMS MORE DISCOURAGED. THE IDEA! OH LET NO ONE EVER TELL ME ABOUT JUSTICE, BECAUSE THIS EXPERIENCE TAUGHT ME THAT THERE'S NO SUCH ANIMAL!

THIS WAGGISH WORLD

by Roy K. Moulton

OLD Phineas T. Barnum, of Bridgeport, Conn., was once considered the world's greatest promoter, and perhaps he was; but that was at a time when the Great Eastern was the world's greatest steamboat and the sewing machine was the world's greatest invention. P. T. did put over some good ones. He used to fish for suckers with no small net, and it was he who invented the slogan, "The American people love a wallop in the jaw." But P. T., after all, was a babe in arms as a promoter. He never had sense enough to draw a three-million-dollar house by putting his stone Cardiff Giant in the ring to fight his White Elephant.

UP UNTIL quite modern days, P. T. was held up as the bright and shining example of boob-catcher. But now, how old-fashioned and simple he seems. You could see everything in his museum for a quarter and the ring-side seats were where you found 'em. But he had his little tricks. Over one door he had placed a large sign,

"THIS WAY TO THE EGRESS."

Many of P. T.'s customers thought the Egress was some new wild animal and they rushed in large posses for that door, to find themselves a moment later in the street.

But he never sold Old John Public seven or eight rounds of rheumatic pugilism for three million dollars. We don't blame any modern promoter who does it, but we do hold it against Barnum that he wasn't smart enough to invent the idea.

PROMOTION today has all the aspects of a fine art. Gabrielle D'Annunzio, the celebrated Italian lover and poet, gave a premiere of his new play a few evenings ago and he charged $55 a seat—and got it. The fact that the audience was made up of rich tourists who couldn't understand Italian did not injure the artistic aspects of the premiere.

And the fact that the audience was composed of rich foreigners explains how Gabe was able to charge 55 of those hateful American dollars for a seat. Things usually work in together that way for the best.

D'Annunzio would probably be insulted if we should call him the Barnum of Italy. We should think he would. Barnum wasn't in his class, at all.

OLD PONCE DE LEON had the right idea although he didn't happen on the right spot. He had an idea that the Fountain of Youth was located in America—and so it is. Mayor Jimmy Walker has proved that to the satisfaction of Europe. One distinguished prelate said to him:

"You are a young man to be Mayor of New York."

"I am not as young as I look," replied the Mayor.

This reply might, nowadays, go for about 99 per cent of the men who live in this country. Very few men you meet look to be as old as they really are.

Forty years ago the reverse was true. A man was considered old when he was forty. He wore flowing whiskers and sat in front of the fire in carpet slippers and talked about "the good old times".

So the Mayor of New York is doing a little promoting, too. He is promoting the youthfulness of America. He and Lindbergh combined have about convinced Europe that there isn't an old man from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Oregon.

Calvin, himself, in his neat-fitting, slender blue serge, could pass anywhere for thirty-five, and he is the oldest acting man we have got.

PROMOTION is the spirit of the hour. The gasoline companies promote their sales by building Italian villas, English manor houses and French chateaux from which to peddle their petrol. But this is getting a little irksome for the ordinary property owner.

In one suburb a gasoline company built such a magnificent filling station that it made the whole suburb of fine homes look shabby. The result is that everybody is rebuilding, adding third and fourth mortgages where only first and seconds grew before.

"You Said It Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "A WOMAN'S EDUCATION"

Some women USED to wonder
Whether it were better to have LOVED and LOST than never
To have loved at all.
But modern girls spend
LESS time in THOUGHT and
More in action; and most of Them appear to THINK That it is even BETTER to Have loved a SHORT man than Never to have loved a TALL.
For today, the verb "TO LOVE"
Is conjugated pretty CASUALLY
And losing a man's LOVE is Little more than losing a GLOVE. It's annoying, because
In both cases, there's one—
LEFT. But then, again,
It is an EXCUSE for
A new pair, or another
AFFAIR.
MOST people look on Love as an EMOTION— some,
So great that they are AFRAID of it.
Others, so transient, they PLAY with it CONSTANTLY.
Love is two-thirds
Of a woman's EDUCATION.
To have loved WELL is
To be well-educated, while
To love NOBLY is—
To be truly CULTURED.

World Court Issue Settled By the People at the Polls

Of course, President Coolidge will give careful consideration to the new appeal for entrance of the United States into the League of Nations' World Court, signed by nearly four hundred prominent citizens.

Their action is the first move to revive the league court issue since President Coolidge declared last year that it was dead, following the refusal of the League to accept us into the court with reservations which the Senate considered necessary to protect the national welfare.

A petition of three hundred and ninety-five names is imposing. But it is not so imposing as the figures rolled up by the common people of the country, at the polls, in their repeated efforts to tell President Harding, President Coolidge and the Senate that they want to stay out of the League of Nations and that they want to stay out of its subsidiary tribunal.

In the 1920 presidential election, the League was the sole question at issue. President Wilson called the election a "solemn referendum" on the League. The Anti-League Republicans won by a plurality of seven million votes. Since that time the League has been dead; no party has dared to make it an issue.

Then we experienced a mighty propaganda to get us to join the League Court. We were to obligate ourselves to submit all our international controversies to this court, whose judges are appointed, paid and instructed by the League, and supplied with cases by the League council, which is dominated by the great powers that run the League organizations.

The United States Senate gagged at swallowing this pill. It was not willing without reservations to submit questions like the American tariff, immigration and war debts to a tribunal composed of ten foreign judges and one American judge.

So the Senate very wisely refused to join the court unless the United States were protected in this respect. The Senate proposed protection by its reservation 5. This reservation insisted that the world court should not render an opinion upon any question in which the United States has or claims an interest without consent of an American representative sitting with the League council.

When the League refused to accept us on these conditions, President Coolidge in effect said, "All right, we're through." The average citizen was satisfied. Four hundred of our hundred and twenty million are not, and have now urged the President to renew negotiations for entrance into the court.

It is notable that this new petition bristles with names of prominent advocates of our entrance into the League, such as Newton D. Baker, secretary of war under Woodrow Wilson; Frederick Coudert, who has been New York attorney for the British and French governments; Raymond Fosdick, of the Rockefeller Foundation; Dr. Harry A. Garfield, coal administrator under President Wilson; Roland Morris, President Wilson's ambassador to Japan; Dr. Ellen Pendleton, president of Wellesley; Ralph Pulitzer, president of the New York World; Franklin D. Roosevelt, President Wilson's assistant secretary of the Navy; Chester H. Rowell, of Berkeley, Cal., chief western protagonist of the League; Henry W. Taft, New York lawyer; Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, of New York; George W. Wickersham, former United States attorney general; Dr. Mary Wooley, of Mt. Holyoke College, and Col. Edward M. House, President Wilson's private diplomat and the man who carried the plan of the League from Sir Edward Grey in London to Woodrow Wilson in Washington.

It is interesting to note that the petition also contains the names of four members of a small group of American editors who were taken abroad in July at the expense of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. They met prominent statesmen in different European countries. The high points of their trip were visits to the League's court at The Hague and to the annual meeting of the council and assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva.

The membership of this personally conducted tour is represented by the following names in the new petition: Wade H. Harris of the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer, Harvey Ingham of the Des Moines State Register, Harold B. Johnson of the Watertown (N. Y.) Times and Tom Wallace of the Louisville Times Courier.

What do the people of the country think about it? They registered their opinion pretty plainly in the primaries and elections of 1926. On those occasions they passed upon Senators who in February of that year had voted for our entrance into the World Court (with reservations) and Senators who had voted against our entrance into the World Court even with the reservations.

The results were instructive and impressive, especially regarding the Republicans who were up for re-election.

The following League Court Senators were defeated in the Republican primaries: Lenroot, McKinley, Pepper, Cummins and Stanfield. In all cases the candidates who defeated them in the primaries were elected in November.

The following anti-court Republican Senators were renominated in the primaries: Moses, Watson, Robinson, Brookhart, Nye, Williams and Harreld. Every one of them was elected in November excepting Harreld and Williams. Williams' successor is likewise an anti-courter.

On August 24 Senator Gooding of Idaho, who voted for the court, was renominated by the Republican state convention only after he had publicly regretted his action and pledged himself to vote against the court in the future. League-Court Senator Shortridge was renominated in the California primaries, because the anti-court vote was split between two anti-court candidates who together polled 27,000 votes more than Shortridge.

We respectfully submit that, so far as the will of the people is concerned, the noes have it regarding the entrance of the United States into the League or its court.

Years Don't Matter

There is a notion that the older you get the harder it is to learn. But listen to James C. Egbert, director of the extension courses at Columbia:

"Last year one student was 83 years of age, one was 80, one 77, and one 75. Sixteen were above 70, 87 were between 60 and 70; 345 between 50 and 60; 878 between 40 and 50, and 1,882 between 30 and 40 . . . . . Only 192 were under 20."

And the "old" men and women showed just as much facility in learning as youngsters. Age isn't what counts—it's the interest in things and the desire to learn.

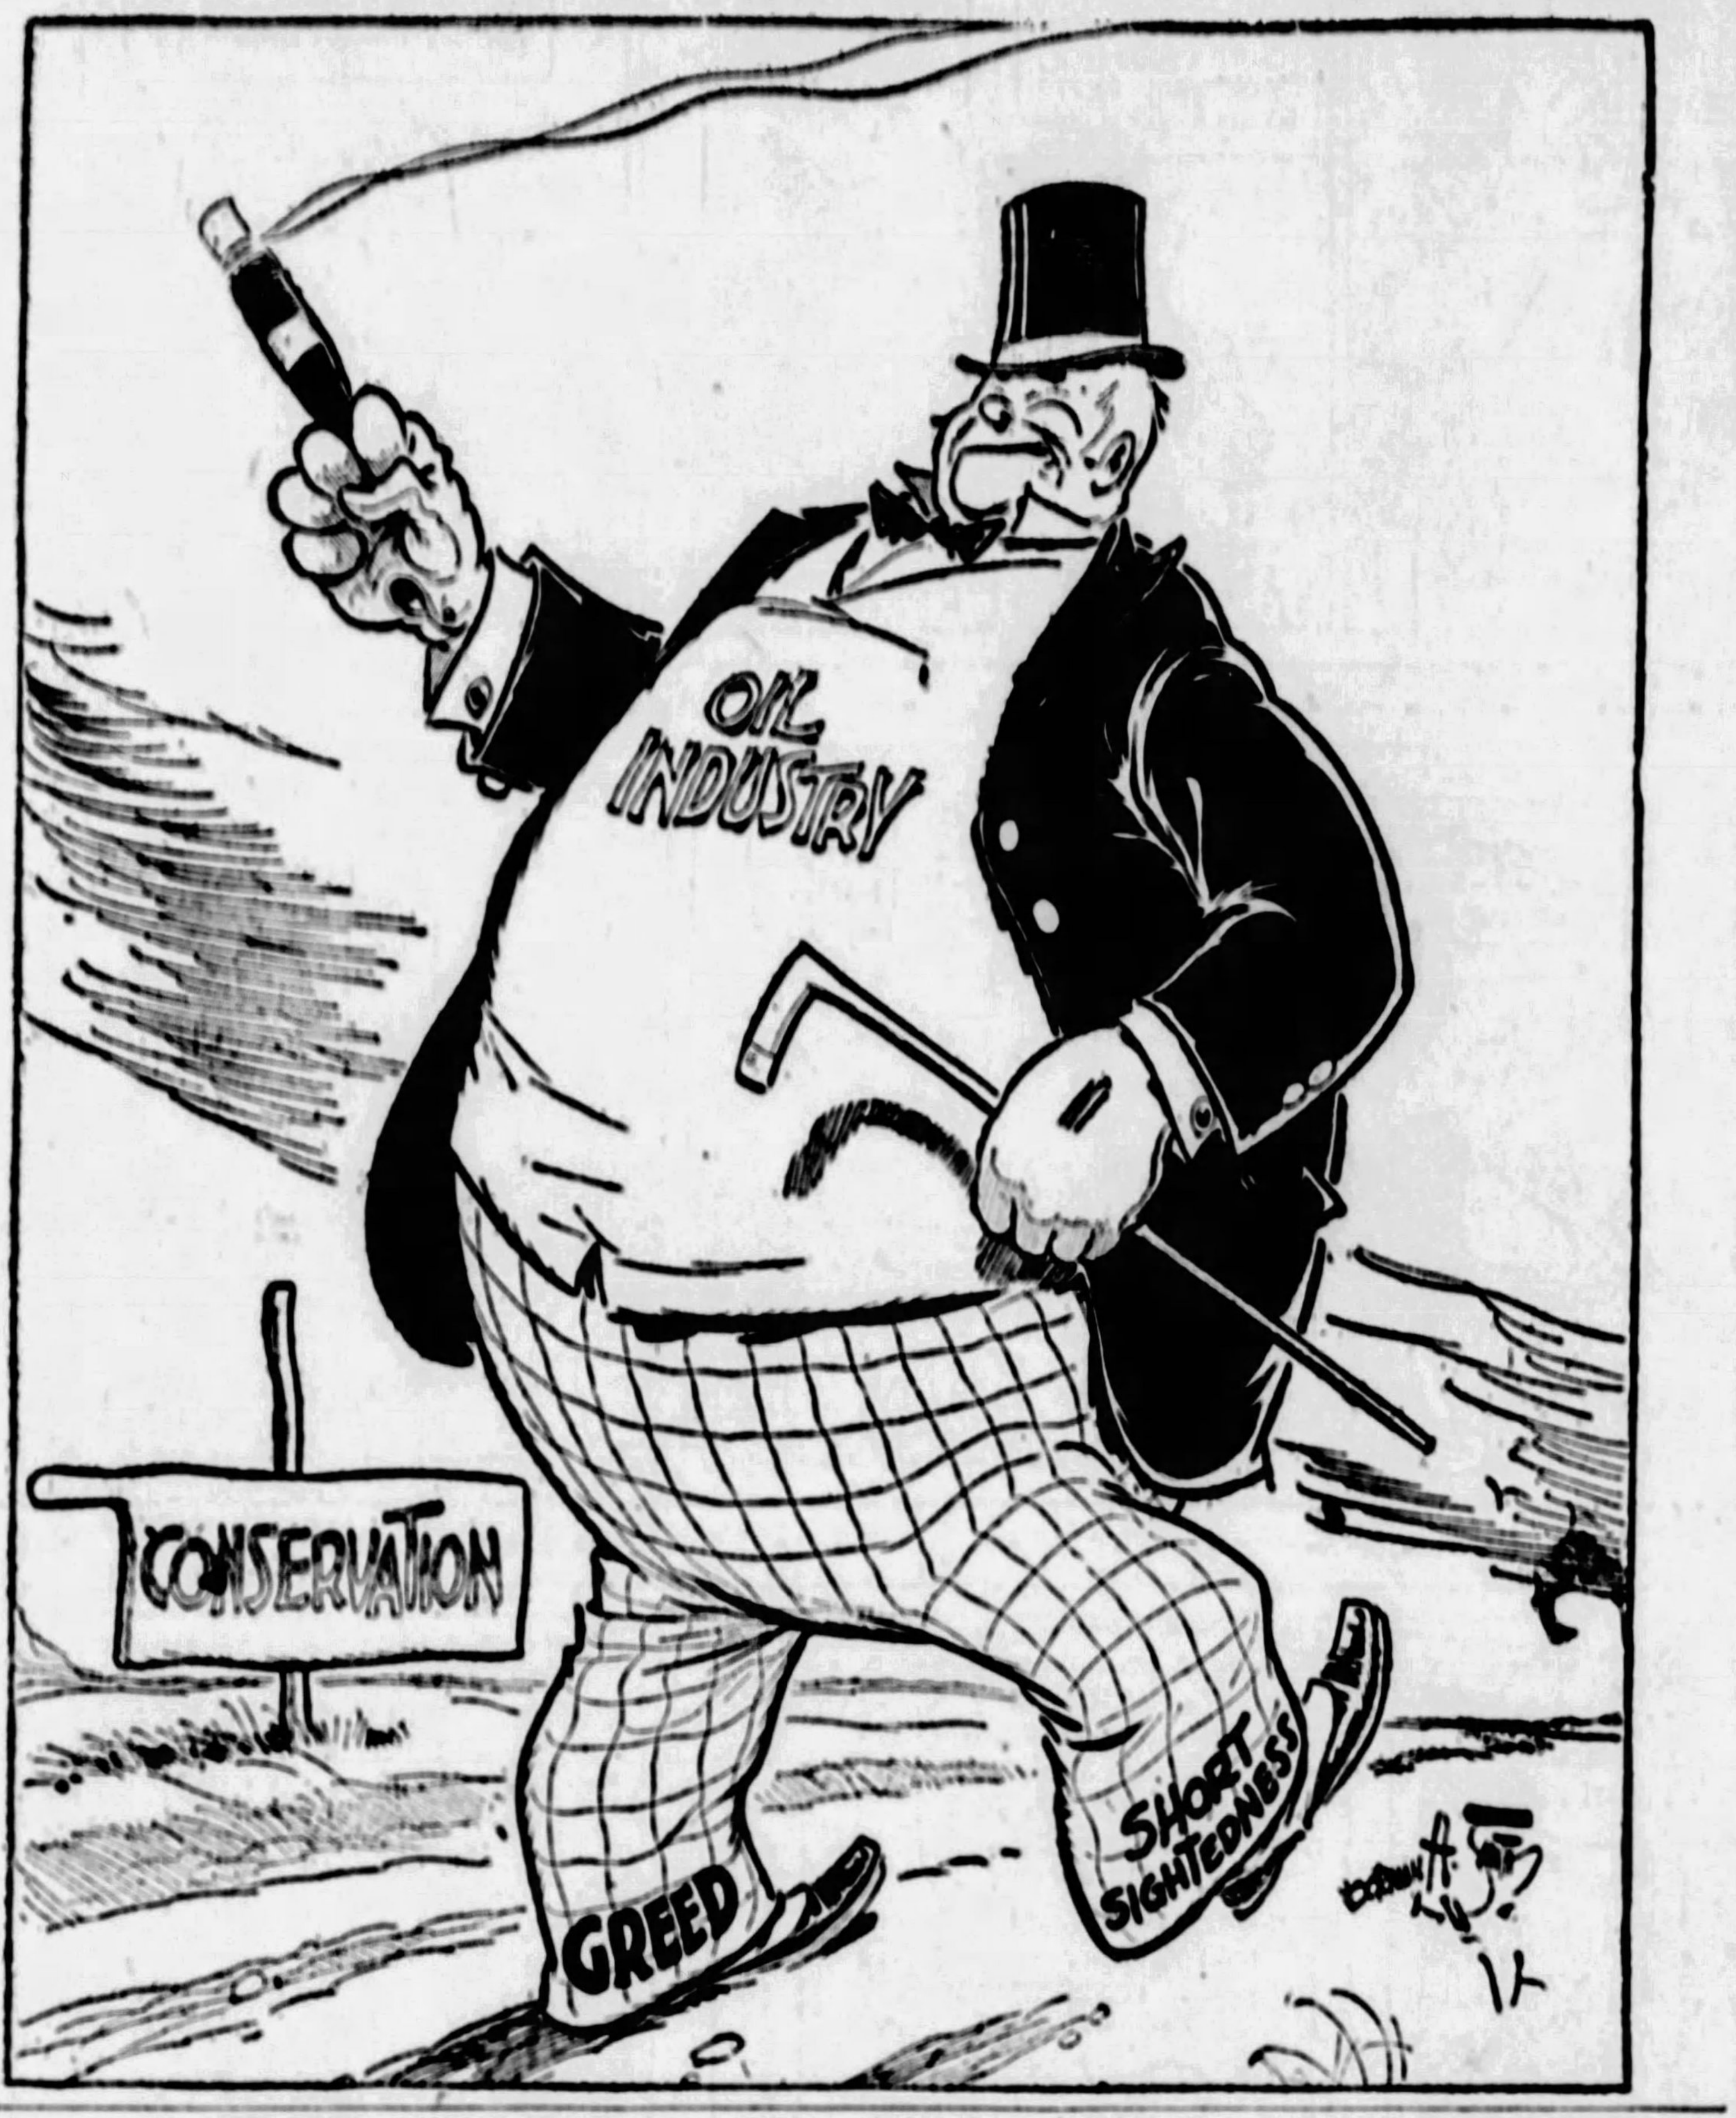
Bolshevism or Czars

Force Rules.

Five thousand are killed by Soviet troops suppressing the Ukraine rebellion. Peasants along the Dniester River, which separates Russian from Rumanian territory, rebelled when tax collectors appeared bringing troops that robbed the farms.

But rebellion did them as little good under bolshevism as it would have done under the czars. The revolt is washed away in blood and things are peaceful for the present. Bolshevism or czarism, the moujik must obey orders, work, sweat and pay taxes.

WISE HEAD, STRONG HEART, WEAK FEET



Garrett P Serviss Says:

Winter Philosophy

"Please explain why the weather is so much colder on the fifteenth day of February than it is on the twenty-eighth day of October, as we have about the same hours and minutes of daylight on each of these dates? It has always puzzled me why our winters seem to get colder after December 22; as the days get longer the weather continues colder. Why doesn't it get warmer as the sun comes closer?"—R. L. S.

IN FEBRUARY, the daylight period is lengthening; in October it is shortening. The influences of summer linger visibly in the colors of the autumn leaves; those of winter are still seen in the naked trees of February. In a broad sense, the difference is an example of the universal principle of inertia. Summer continues on, and breaks over into autumn, and similarly, winter rushes past the lines into the domain of spring.

In October, the earth is yet warmed, both air and soil, with the accumulated heat of the long summer days! In February the soil is still frozen, and the air chill with the yet unwithdrawn touch of winter. Even when the day's period of insolation is the same, the effects are different according to the season. This tendency of the seasons to encroach upon one another, with the effect of pushing them out of accord with the astronomical division of the year, is more clearly seen if we consider, not the periods of equal insolation (daily exposure to sunshine), but those of maximum temperature though the principle is always the same.

Geometrically the hottest day of summer should be at the solstice, about June 22. Actually it does not occur until near the first of August. At the summer solstice the surface of the earth in the Northern Hemisphere indeed receives more heat within 24 hours than at any other time. Nevertheless the temperature does not yet reach its highest point bcause the surface is daily receiving more heat than it radiates away. This continues to be the case, at a diminishing rate, until about the end of July, after which the daily income of heat from the sun falls below the outgo due to the earth's radiation into space. As soon as that point is reached the maximum daily of temperature is attained, and thereafter the temperature falls.

Similarly in winter: the winter solstice, December 22, ought to bring the maximum of low temperature, but in fact the greatest cold is delayed until about the 1st of February, when the earth ceases to lose more heat than it receives in 24 hours.

There are two principal reasons why the Northern Hemisphere is warmer than the average in summer and colder in winter, the first being that the daylight period is longer than the night period, when the sun is north of the equator, the difference increasing from March 20 to June 22; and the second reason is that the mean altitude of the sun above the horizon is greater when he is north of the equator (the altitude increasing, like the length of daylight, from March 20 to June 22), and this causes the solar rays to strike the earth more perpendicularly, thus producing a greater heating effect.

It is true that the earth, as a whole, receives about 6 per cent more heat during our northern winter than during our northern summer, but this is felt principally in the Southern Hemisphere (whose summer is coincident with our winter), while, in any case, the increase of temperature arising from the sun's slightly diminished distance is much less than the decrease caused by the low inclination of the sun's rays in winter and the shortness of the daylight period at that season.

The Sea

NO DAY is wholly dark to me
If I have that day glimpsed the sea:
Whatever evils may befall,
No trials vex me, great or small,
Though plans go wrong and high hopes fall
If I have seen the great waves sweep
An inner solace still I keep.

Whatever loss may come, or pain,
I do not struggle or complain;
If I have heard the melody
(Too vast for human harmony)
Which rises from the restless sea;
If I have watched the moving tide
My soul's deep need is satisfied.

Tales That Are Told

Strives to Please

AN ENTERPRISING coal dealer, somewhat prone to air his alleged knowledge on every possible occasion, had the following printed on his business cards:

"Coal delivered a la carte or coal de sac."

Canny

A SCOTS doctor and his wife, traveling on a West Coast steamer, ran into bad weather, and hung over the side, very unhappy.

There came a lurch, and the doctor prepared to give up hope. His wife, though she could not move and could scarcely speak, managed to pass a timely word of caution.

"Jock," she whispered, "pocket your teeth."

Not Much Hope

HE HAD gone into the gypsy fortune-teller's tent at the local fair and was getting his money's worth.

"Sir," whispered the dark-eyed damsel, after he had crossed her palm with silver—"sir, beware! A bitter foe will cross your path."

The man started violently.

"When?" he asked. "Next week?"

The girl looked once again at his hand.

"Yes, most likely," she said.

"Then," observed the man, "it's a poor lookout for the foe. I'm beginning a fortnight's motoring tour next week!"—London Answers.

Something to Think About

By BRUNO LESSING

What Are Our Schools Doing?

HERE is an extract from an account of a prize-fight in Chicago, published in the newspapers of nearly every city in this country:

"Walker sailed in, driving terrific punches to the jaw, and McTigue, looking like an old man, started sliding to the floor, but fell across the second rope and hung there.

"After nine seconds had been counted McTigue attempted to struggle to his feet. He was knocked down again, this time in Walker's corner. He got up and stood there helpless while Walker unmercifully beat him about the head.

"McTigue went down again, got up at nine, and then Walker cracked him with rights and lefts.

"McTigue dropped to the floor completely knocked out. McTigue's seconds worked over him frantically for at least five minutes before he regained consciousness."

It is vivid, descriptive writing. But can you imagine a more revolting or more degrading spectacle? And most of the thousands who witnessed this fight had attended public schools. Some were probably college graduates. But no intelligent person of good taste and refined sensibilities could have witnessed such a sight without becoming ill.

What is the purpose of our schools, anyway? Is it merely to teach the rudiments of reading, writing and arithmetic? The popular taste in reading is pretty low. Trash is preferred to substance. Very few public school graduates go through life speaking correct English. And very few of us get far in arithmetic.

If such is the only purpose of our schools, it does not seem to have been carried out very well.

If public schools are supposed to develop good taste and clear, clean thinking, their first effort would be to make such vulgar things as prize-fights, repugnant to their pupils. Judging by the popularity of this so-called "sport," they either do not make such effort or, if they do, they fail.

So it is a fair question to ask: What ARE our schools doing?

They are evidently not teaching religion successfully because those who are interested in the country's religion are bitterly complaining that it is declining. They are not teaching particularly good manners or, if they do, there is no evidence of it in the average big crowd that gathers.

We have the finest school houses in the world. We have more teachers than any other country and we pay them more money. By what test shall we judge their efficiency?

LISTEN, WORLD! ELSIE ROBINSON Says: When Parallels Part

I HAVE just listened for the 9,735,256,329th time to the Wrongs of Innocent Wife Whose Home Has Been Wrecked by a Love Piratess.

And I am about to compose an answer to be used in all future cases. Will it cover them all? It will.

Out of long years of rough experience—most of it committed by myself—I have discovered the following facts.

IF TWO LINES RUN PARALLEL THEY WILL NOT FORM AN ANGLE. IF TWO LIVES RUN PARALLEL YOU CANNOT INVOLVE THEM IN A TRIANGLE.

IF A TRIANGLE APPEARS WHERE ALL WAS PARALLEL BEFORE, IT'S A SIGN THAT ONE OR THE OTHER OF THE LIVES HAS GONE OFF ON A TANGENT, THUS GIVING A THIRD PARTY A CHANCE TO HORN IN.

SO, BEFORE YOU GO BLAMING THE THIRD PARTY, IT'S WELL TO INVESTIGATE THE ORIGINAL LINE-UP AND SEE WHICH OF THE LIVES SKIDDED.

That skidding did not begin when the Love Pirate happened along. It began long before. It began in a slight slant which neither party regarded as serious. A "love spat"—a tantrum of jealousy—a spell of self pity—boredom—nagging—mutual irritation—

So it started and so it grew.

A very little difference in direction, at first, between those two lines. Such a tiny difference that no outside person or interest could possibly wedge itself between those two partners.

But presently the difference widens—and soon that which was an almost invisible gap becomes a definite rift—and then a great-yawning loneliness between two lives that once ran side by side.

Loneliness — misunderstanding—resentment—a ragged chasm that someone is going to fill—

And someone always comes along to fill it.

Some philandering female, some maudlin male—

Then you have the triangle—

BUT YOU NEVER HAVE A TRIANGLE UNTIL TWO PARALLEL LIVES HAVE PARTED TO FORM A TRAGIC ANGLE OF DISCONTENT.

New York Day by Day

by

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Most of us who live in the midtown sections of New York spend our working hours high up in the air. We catch faint echoes of the city rumbling in turmoil. We look down from our aerie and see autos resembling beetles and humans resembling ants scurrying in all directions.

The daily vista of jagged sky-scrapers would seem to be rather uninteresting. And yet there are fleeting bits of continuous drama from every window. There is the pert little stenographer across the way—two floors down—who often kisses the boss on his bald head as she passes his chair.

In a tailoring establishment during the noon lull is the dice game held in a partitioned booth and the look-out who watches out of the window for the employer to round the corner. And the dignified executive who goes into the stock room at the same hour to practice on a harp.

And the dentist who gives gas, extracts the offending molar and reads a magazine until his patient comes back to consciousness—often in hysterics. And there is that Oriental-looking individual who comes to a window and salaams gravely toward the descending sun.

One begins to watch with fascination for the weekly visits of those intrepid window cleaners who, strapped to slender hooks, chat and whistle at their perilous tasks. We see new employes come, old employes go in the shifting panorama and yet all remain strangers.

There are skyscraper flirtations—daily waves and smiles across the canyons. These, too, are among people who rarely meet. Although separated by the width of a street, they are as apart as the poles. We see troubled men sitting at their desks until far into the night.

There is that fellow who drags himself with crutches across a roof to a little glass enclosure to attend his pots of flowers—probably the only touch of romance in a colorless life. Somehow those who labor among the roof tops feel the invisible clasp of friendship.

He was a young blood enamored of a chorus cutie and his stern papa was berating him for hanging around stage doors.

"Why don't you pick out girls of a different type?" he was asked.

"O, Ziegfeld is a good enough picker," he replied.

Among purely personal prejudices—as if you cared—is one for ladies who smoke cigarets in hotel elevators—and that has become smart hereabouts. Nearly all the quaint, old-fashioned notions have been knocked out of me, but I cleave to the idea ladies could wait until they reach their quarters before lighting up. I may be old-fashioned, but until I came to New York the only ladies who smoked cigarets were those who lived in shuttered houses across the railroad tracks and came to town in closed cabs. Now look at 'em!

In a Swedish restaurant I notice in a week or so they will offer penguin as a gastronomical delicacy. That with a few jiggers of Swedish punch, ought to be rather dandy.

High brown strutters in the Harlem Black Belt hold an evening promenade around 5 o'clock similar to that of Fifth avenue. The Lulu Belles and the chocolate shieks turn out in tony togs and offer a parade that is dazzling. There are spats, canes and monocles among the fripperies. The overtone may be a little garish, but it is a stylish aggregation. The girls are generously coated with a purple shaded powder and heavily perfumed. There is no section where colored people live so luxuriously.

The Black Belt also has a theatrical colony. Several hundred are now playing in Broadway productions and vaudeville.

Gene Buck sneaked a musical comedy hit into town a few weeks ago without a huzzah. All the critics had trotted off the same night to see the return of Fred and Adele Astaire in another show. Buck has also stepped out with his own theater this year.

Practical Crime Suggestions

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There has been a good deal of talk about crime waves and much nonsense uttered in regard to them.

One class of quick-trigger reasoners have stormed about making severer punishments, having policemen shoot to kill, arming the citizenry, forming vigilance committees and all similar nonsense.

Crime is not going to be stamped out by severity any more than war will be stopped by rival armaments. Such things are provocatives, not remedies.

In the welter of discussion a few dominant, sensible hints stand out.

In the first place the hiring of experts by the prosecution or the defense should be stopped everywhere. Experts should be chosen and supported by the court, so that their decision shall be absolutely unbiased. They should serve the state and neither the prosecution nor the defense.

Crime knows no set barriers and so neither should criminal justice. The suppression of crime either should be taken up by the federal administration or there should be substantial agreement by all the states. It ought not to be possible for a criminal to escape by hopping over the state line.

Such laws as the Mann act and laws preventing the transportation of prize fight pictures from one state to another are simply silly. If these things are wrong they should be prohibited. They should not be allowed in the first place and justice should not be compelled to take such a round about way to arrive at its end.

The Bureau of Crime Identification ought to be unified and extended over the whole country.

There should be a unified pardon and parole system in all states.

Criminals should be compelled to work in prison and should get good wages and the money should be given to their families or the families of their victims.

Supporting criminals in idleness is absurd.

These are a few points which it might be well to think on.

Faith With Bandits

OUR good friend, Uncle Sammy, does many beautiful things which are worthy of emulation by less pretentious individuals.

Just scan this page from his journal:

Some years ago two American aviators were captured and held for ransom by Mexican bandits.

A reward of $15,000 was offered for their return and the offer was accepted by the kidnapers.

A Capt. Matlack was sent with the money to redeem the Americans. He had paid $8,500, and then, having both of the missing aviators, he put the spurs to his horse and dashed away without paying the balance.

But Uncle Sam wouldn't stand for breaking faith even with bandits. And so he sent Gen. Joseph T. Dickman with the balance of the ransom money—$6,500—to hunt up the bandits and square accounts.

And that is an example worthy of emulation.

One never loses anything by keeping his word to the last letter and punctuation mark.

And in countless cases there will seem to be plenty of reason for evasion, if not indeed, for double-crossing. The honor lad in any grammar school could give plausible reasons why Uncle Sam should have let those tweedle their thumbs for the ransom balance.

But the honor of Uncle Sam would certainly have been sold cheaply had it gone for the pittance of $6,500.

There is plenty of temptation to match libel with slander and to take an eye for an eye.

But the big man is he who listens unmoved to the tempest of vituperation and then deals out generous justice tempered by undeserving mercy.

Higher Living

YOU are eternally complaining about the cost of living, that it is impossible for you to save any money, how you were better off when your income was less and the dollars went farther.

But your reasoning does not go beyond the surface.

You now enjoy privileges that you never could have had even if they had been cheaper in the days of your very limited income.

You live on a higher plane than formerly.

What you consider necessities today would have been luxuries far beyond your reach in those days.

If you were willing to cut out unnecessary expense to anywhere near the point of your living in the old days you might be able to save considerable money.

Of course, you say that your neighbors are living better than they did and there is a general high standard everywhere that you must keep up.

Well, in so doing you are getting more out of life in the way of luxuries and comforts.

You admit as much, yet you are worried and because you are living beyond what good judgment suggests, you cannot get ahead.
